HOW TORY PATRIOTS ARE SAVING THE EMPIRE

Attitude of the Orange Sentinel During the Late Contest--Reserved its Condemnation of Bourassa Until the Elections were over--Too Many Orange Leaders are Tory Politicians

(Sydney Record.)

The exalted patriots who have just lied their way into office continue to keep up the pretence that they are engaged in the meritorious work of saving the empire rather than in a mad scramble to get next to the cash box at Ottawa. Perhaps they are not wholly hypocritical. Perhaps they mistake the fierce partisan zeal which burns in their bosoms for the pure flame of patriotism. History records many like them. They still continue to appropriate the Union Jack, forgetting that they are degrading the empire's flag in thus turning it into a party emblem. They still continue to murmur the words "parting of the ways" as if something affecting the integrity of the empire were meant, forgetting that the men who for the time being have the honor and integrity of the empire in their keeping—the prime minister of England and his ministers—spoke out in favor of the reciprocity agreement. Do our Tory friends of the Montreal Star strike seriously maintain that the King's advisers of the day are traitors, or men of no political judgment?

In its exceedingly frank comment on the elections, the Orange Sentinel rather dims the glory of the anti-reciprocity victory. The victory, it says, was due to another cause as much as to the opposition against reciprocity, and that cause was an "aroused Protestantism." The Sentinel is probably right, for it knows whereof it speaks. There is little doubt that a great deal of Protestantism has been aroused on behalf of the Tory party in Ontario during the last few years. And none are better aware of this than the readers of the Sentinel. The explanation is that too many of the Orange leaders and officials are Tory politicians. But they are Tory politicians first and Orangemen afterwards, and it is time that the rank and file of the lodges awoke to this fact. It is time that they awoke to the fact that their strong sense of loyalty to Protestantism and to British institutions is being used or rather abused by gentlemen with political axes to grind. The Sentinel, we observe, reads a lesson to its neighbors in Quebec. It warns Mr. Bourassa in stern language, and notifies the Nationalists that they have nothing to expect from the Borden government in which Ontario ideals are to prevail. The Sentinel's warning is belated and is probably intended for the gallery. Its present attitude is at any rate heavily discounted by the fact that it maintained a remarkable silence during the election campaign. It stubbornly refused to see what was going on in Quebec. The waving of the tricolor and the insults to the Union Jack at the meetings of some of Mr. Borden's supporters brought forth no condemnation then. There was a theme for the champions of British institutions. Why didn't the Sentinel make the welkin ring with its protests? The answer is that it would have been dangerous to the Tory cause in Ontario. It might have stamped the honest and consistent Orange vote. And thus in order to help out Borden in Ontario, a cowardly silence was maintained until the people went to the polls.

Confirmation of the Sentinel's explanation of the result comes from another quarter. The Toronto correspondent of the London Times called attention to the part which sectarian prejudice would play in the election. "In this contest as yet," he said in a letter to the Times, dated Sept. 1, "there has been no outward expression of religious feeling, but that the sectarian fires burn underground cannot be doubted." He further said: "Like Sir John Macdonald, the prime minister has acquired the confidence of the national and religious minorities, and conversely receives a less active support from the Presbyterian and Baptist elements." And none knew better than the writer why this was so. For the past four or five years, as editor of the Toronto News, he had been busy supplying the fuel for the "sectarian fires" he speaks of. The News has given a persistent and insidious prominence to topics which, continually dwelt on, were bound to result in what the Sentinel calls an "aroused Protestantism." Mr. Borden undoubtedly owes a great deal to The News.

N. Y. COFFEE HOUSES BOOST PRICES

New York, Oct. 3.—Coffee at 2 cents a cup is a thing of the past in New York. Yesterday every coffee house and restaurant on the east side and other quarters of the city, where the drink is sold to the poor, put the price up to three cents. The high price of sugar and coffee is the reason for the advance. Formerly coffee and a doughnut went for three cents. Now the man with only three cents must give up his doughnut. One restaurant keeper reported that his trade had fallen off thirty per cent since the rise in price.

TOLEDO'S FIRST BISHOP INSTALLED

Toledo, O., Oct. 4.—In the presence of high dignitaries of the church and practically all the clergy in the diocese, the Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs was today installed as first bishop of the new Roman Catholic diocese of Toledo. The ceremony was held in St. Francis de Sales' church, which was filled to overflowing with interested spectators. Bishop Richter of Grand Rapids preached the installation sermon. The new Bishop was born in Bavaria and came to America in 1877. For some time past he has filled the position of auxiliary bishop of the diocese of Grand Rapids.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish--A Remedy for all Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist today and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

RETURNS TO SOUTH AFRICA

Rev. A. Lucas, formerly field secretary for Sunday School work, in this province, and now engaged in the same work in Central America and the West Indies, left St. John last evening for Port Limon, Costa Rica, going forward from New York by the United States Company's steamer Esparata. From Port Limon he will proceed to Brossa del Toro, at the foothills of the Andes, the greatest banana producing country in the world, and will then visit the republic of Panama, returning to Jamaica, where the work is already well established and making great strides under a strong committee headed by a Nova Scotia minister. Mr. Lucas will later visit Trinidad and British Guiana and the other islands in the Lesser Antilles. He is well known in Fredericton.

PROTEST AGAINST AMERICANIZATION OF MOVING PICTURES

To the Editor:

Sir—May I crave the hospitality of your columns to draw the attention of your readers to a state of affairs which must, I am sure, be deplored by Canadians generally. I refer to the Americanization of the Moving Picture Shows which are such a recognized feature of Canadian life.

I understand that the majority of the films used in Canada are manufactured in the United States and, as a result, a large proportion of these Moving Pictures depict heroic actions by American soldiers, sailors and rough-riders. As far as I am aware, it is only rarely that the Union Jack or the Canadian Ensign is to be seen at these entertainments. In fact the Stars and Stripes seem to monopolize deeds of valour.

Those who have the welfare of our Empire at heart can have no desire to belittle the heroic deeds performed by citizens of the United States, but what they do feel is that it is time the vast resources of the British Empire were drawn upon to provide material for cinematograph entertainments. The danger may seem a remote one today but who can tell what will be the unconscious effect on the Canadian youth in years to come, who has been accustomed to witness at every Moving Picture Show some heroic action performed in defence of the American National Flag, while his own is completely ignored?

Those interested in providing cinematograph entertainments in Canada are naturally business people, and they provide what the public demands. The patrons of these Moving Picture establishments have the matter in their own hands. I have no doubt if they made known to the proprietors of these places of amusement that they desired to witness films portraying some of the tasks which their fellow-citizens are engaged in, in the Old Country, in the back blocks of Australia, in the heart of Central Africa, in the islands of the Far Pacific, in the Canadian North West Territories—where the best traditions of our race are being upheld under the folds of the Union Jack—they would not ask in vain.

A copy of this letter has been forwarded to the secretaries of the 300 odd branches of the Overseas Club in Canada, and they have been requested to discuss the matter at an early opportunity.
