ROYALIST FORCES ARE ON THE ALERT

Indications are That an Attempt will be Made to Restore King Manuel to the Throne of Portugal --- Monarchists are on the Spanish Frontier and are Said to be Well Armed--Provisional Government has Called all Reservists to the Colors --- Situation Serious

(Canadian Press.)

Lisbon, July 21.—An invasion by Capt. Couciere at the head of the Royalist forces appears imminent. All attention is now fixed on the north. The Portuguese monarchists possess thousands of rifles of the latest pattern smuggled into Galicia, Spain, from Normandy and Belgium and also many field guns and maxims.

Lisbon, July 21.—The monarchists remain on the Spanish frontier conspiring openly against the republic notwithstanding the continued assurances of the Spanish government the Socialists daily hold military drills and practice rifle shooting on the large private estate and among the hills. Among the monarchists regime all Portuguese regiments were kept far below their normal strength to save expense. The provisional government, however, called all reservists to the colors. These numbered about 20,000 and were more than needed, under arms it was thought, and furthermore they entailed great expense. Accordingly all but 81,000 were dismissed but ordered to be in readiness to respond for service on 24 hours notice.

The nucleus of a division is quartered in each of the principal cities of the north, prepared to concentrate quickly at any point. Influential opinion is voiced that the Spanish government is secretly protecting Portuguese plotters in Galicia and the press begun a bitter campaign against Spain along had faith.

The provisional government is anxious. It is difficult to obtain details of what is transpiring on the frontier. The newspapers are not permitted to publish anything relating to the monarchists and active censorship is maintained.

DELAY IN ARBITRATION NEGOTIATIONS

(London Mail)

Washington, July 21.—Events are shaping so that it would not be surprising if the delays arising in the closing days of the negotiations in the general arbitration treaty would make it impossible to conclude that before President Taft leaves for his summer home in Beverly, Mass. Although the British government has already practically given its assent to the treaty, it is the wish of the President and Secretary of State Knox that this important agreement be given a truly international character, which can be had only by the adherence of more than two of the great powers. This desire has been made known to the French government and ambassador Jusserand now in Paris, is laboring to induce his foreign office to give its assent to the adherence of France. If this is assured immediate future it is entirely possible that the ceremony of signing the treaty will be deferred long enough to permit Mr. Jusserand to hasten to America to place his name upon it.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF BATTLE OF BULL RUN

Semi Centennial of the First Great Combat of the American Civil War Celebrated Today at Manassas--Blue and Gray Took Part in the Celebration--President Taft and other Notables Delivered Orations--The Historic Battle Field an Object of Much Interest

(Canadian Press)

Manassas, Va., July 21.—An army of peace took possession of Manassas today. Thousands of men wearing the Blue and the Gray filled the old town. On the battlefield of Bull Run nearby was to be seen the panorama of war, but the implements of death and destruction were not there for the purpose that took them there fifty years ago. Nevertheless, they were reminders of those bitter days when thousands of the youth of the North and South gave up their lives in the first great battle of the Civil War.

Manassas was beautifully and profusely decorated in honor of the veterans and of President Taft and other notables who came to participate in the semi-centennial celebration. Many of the visitors reached town yesterday, while the morning trains from Washington, Richmond and the west added thousands to the invading host.

There was no regular programme mapped out for the forenoon. It was "go as you please" with the visitors, and they took in the sights with a vigor that was remarkable, considering the age of the veterans and the fact that many had come from a great distance.

At daybreak almost the crowd began to move toward the historic battlefield. Motor cars and all varieties of vehicles were pressed into service. The battle memorials were inspected and every bit of rising ground was climbed to get a view of the field where the sons of the nation's best men went out for their country's cause and where the Confederate troops fought valiantly for what they thought right. The great majority of the veterans had not visited the field since they fought in it.

It was remarkable how long and well the soldiers remembered every spot, every move every order, every incident of the great conflict. They gathered in groups and pointed out to the wives, daughters and sons who accompanied them the places where this or that commander held the enemy back so long. They talked of reserve corps and attacks on their line of cavalry charges and defense by the left. As they wandered around they could see a monument or a marker on which the inscription would particularly attract their attention. Then they would figure out among themselves throwing statistics to the winds, how many men were left of each brigade, regiment or company when the battle was over.

This afternoon the veterans and their friends returned to town for the formal exercises of the day. The exercises were of a simple but very impressive character. The speaker's stand was located at the junction of Lee avenue and Grant avenue. Here President Taft, Governor Mann of Virginia, Congressman Carlin and other speakers of the day addressed a large and attentive audience. The speakers stand was decorated with the red, white and blue of the Star Spangled Banner, entwined with the Confederate battle flags, showing the peace and harmony existing between the two. Assembled about the stand were hundreds of men wearing blue coats and brass buttons who had fought for the Union; there were other hundreds in grey suits and gray caps who had fought for the Confederacy.

President Taft and the other speakers were received with enthusiastic applause. The applause reached its height when various well known leaders of the Blue and the Gray were recognized in the assemblage and given seats of honor on the platform. In voices tremulous with emotions natural to the occasion the several speakers delivered orations that were listened to throughout with the deepest attention. Veterans of the Blue and the Gray vied with one another in paying tribute to the other side. Deafening cheers greeted the names of Johnson, McDowell, Beauregard, Jackson, Lee, Pope and other commanders whose names will ever be associated with Manassas and Bull Run.

The addresses were followed by a pretty spectacle emblematic of the reunited nations. It consisted of forty-eight maidens each representing a State in the order in which it was admitted to the Union, each clad in red, white and blue and bearing the name of the State across her breast. As the maidens sang the national air there were few in the vast assemblage whose eyes did not fill with tears. As one old soldier remarked as he clasped hands with another veteran against whom he had fought there was an inspiration in the occasion such as only comes to one a few times in a lifetime.

Liberal inducements have been made to secure the plant at Sydney, N.S.

SEEKING INFORMATION ABOUT THE WEST

Toronto, Ont., July 21.—From the number of inquiries about Western Canada, both railway fares and about western lands, it looks as if the Canadian prairies will shortly have a strong tincture of settlers from New York State. This assertion was made yesterday by R. L. Thompson district passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific system. He showed piles of letters, asking almost every conceivable sort of information about the prairie and many of the correspondents expressed their intention of moving westward in the near future. Mr. Thompson said that the travel westward from the eastern states was unusually heavy.

New York, July 21.—Ethel Barrymore, the actress whose Pacific coast tour was suddenly ended last week just after the announcement that she was seeking a divorce from Russell Colt, arrived in New York yesterday on the Twentieth Century Limited and escaped an army of newspaper men and friends by the unusual feat of making that fast train stop at One Hundred and Twenty Fifth Street. The stop made the train several minutes late but it enabled Miss Barrymore to evade questioners and to take a later train for St. Johns, Que., where her baby boy has been in the care of a nurse ever since the first rumors of trouble.
