TWO MEN BADLY HURT NEAR PERTH

Perth, N. B., Dec. 3.—Two men were seriously injured and sixteen others had narrow escapes from an explosion of a charge of dynamite on the O. P. R. line near Pokiok Bluffs, Saturday afternoon.

A crew of men under William Estey were engaged in moving a large amount of rock which had slid onto the right of way. Three holes had been drilled in a large boulder and three sticks of dynamite had been inserted in each hole. Two of the charges exploded but the third hung fire and the men thought that it would not explode so they started towards the boulder.

When the foreman, William Estey, and Benjamin DeMerchant, who were in advance of the others had almost come up to the boulder the dynamite exploded. DeMerchant was hurled across the track and was within six inches of the edge of the bluffs, overhanging the river, which is about 100 feet high at this place. Estey did not get the full power of the explosion. When picked both men were unconscious and were frightfully cut about the head. They were both placed on a hand car and taken to the home of Miss Emma DeMerchant, an aunt of young DeMerchant. Dr. Earle of Perth was called. He found that DeMerchant, who is a son of Benjamin DeMerchant of Tilley, Victoria County, has severe cuts in the face and head and one eye injured so that the sight will likely be lost.

William Estey's injuries were not so serious, but he was badly injured about the head.

DeMerchant did not regain consciousness until 11 o'clock this morning and is still in a very serious condition.

An uncle of young DeMerchant, William DeMerchant, was brought here from Vancouver about two weeks ago, where he was the victim of a similar accident by which he lost the sight of both eyes. He was residing in the house to which the injured men were taken on Saturday.

WHITEHEAD BROS.

FLORENCE FAIRBANKS ON FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Dec. 2.—There has been considerable uncertainty concerning the position of the waistline during the past few months. The dictators of fashion have seen fit to juggle with the waistline ever since last winter, moving it up and down at their whim and pleasure, until the women were completely bewildered. It was and is now by no means an unusual thing to find in the same exhibit of some famous creator of fashions, costumes of which every one has the waistline at a different height.

During the last season the waistline was again slightly raised, and now word comes from Paris that the newest models show a lowered waistline, one only slightly above normal which probably means that ere long the waistline will again return to its natural position. The long graceful lines so eagerly sought for by designers of clothes have rejoiced in a vogue that has given them an opportunity to indulge their fancy to the utmost, with the return of the normal waistline will undoubtedly come the introduction of short trains on afternoon and evening gowns for in no other way can that sweep of grace be obtained.

The accepted line of the waist this season is one and one-half inches above the normal in the back, graduating to one inch above in front. The most fashionable frocks will be made after that model, although in the evening gowns greater liberties will be taken with this portion of the frock.

Double-faced materials, both silks and woollens, are much in vogue at the present time and will be much in evidence during the winter season. Top coats, polo and motor coats are coats are all made of reversible cloth. Soft neutral tones often have reverses in a brilliant shade of bright green or blue, cerise or orange, which shows in collars and cuffs.

Light-weight, double faced cloths are designed for coat suits. One attractive model is of dark blue serge backed by a narrow stripe in old blue and black. The hem of the skirt is turned up on the right side, thus giving the effect of a band trimming. Collar and cuffs are treated in a like manner, but are faced within an inch of the edge with old blue satin.

Another trig suit is of tobacco brown satin-finished cloth faced with a small check in dark brown and moss green. Besides the reversed side, this shows touches of green satin-covered cords outlining the seams and simulating buttonholes which meet large fancy metal buttons. Black is faced with a soft deep-toned yellow; deep blue, with cerise or the richer dahlia tints.

Long coats of moleskin are a fad of the moment, and judging from the number of them worn must be selling well. They are lovely in color and texture and the pelts are supple enough for graceful handling but the fur is not so practical as some of the tougher furs and has not the permanent value of the more costly furs such as sable, chinchilla, broad-tail, etc.

Fur coats showing two furs in combination are numerous, though usually developed in the less expensive pelts. Seal of the Hudson or French variety and moleskin in combination are popular and more effective than one would imagine before seeing them, the coloring being sombre and rich. Long straight scarfs and huge muffs made of alternating bands of these two furs are one of the fancies of the moment. Moleskin is often combined with ermine not only in small furs but in extremely elegant coats, the soft gray and white forming a most harmonious and charming color scheme.

The importance of lace in the scheme of present day fashions cannot be too strongly emphasized. Ruffles of lace have been placed on the lower edge of skirts under the tunic. There is little fullness in these new skirts, however. The straight silhouette, although decidedly removed from the hoyle line of last season, must be adhered to and, therefore, the ruffles must be scant.

Many long sleeves show ruffles at the wrist. Flare laces are used for this, giving soft folds of white over the hand. Lace is used for abots, blouses, revers and collarettes on blouses. Wide and narrow bands and edgings are equally popular. Frills of black and white lace fall down the fronts of cloth frocks. They are in the majority of cases adjustable, and one dress, therefore, can show many little touches by the mere removal or replacing of a frill.

The use of lace on evening hats is decidedly noticeable. High, puffed crowns of all-over Valenciennes lace, of coarser varieties, or of Irish lace in combination with Valenciennes are used on models that have lightness of weight and fresh colorings for their chief recommendation.

Wraps are trimmed with heavy laces edged with fur. Hoods of lace lined with shirred chiffon or soft platings of silk are in demand. Lace scarfs beaded and trimmed with bands of chenille embroidery are shown in many of the shops and are in great demand in Paris as well as here.

Embroideries of all kinds and colorings are used to ornament dresses for afternoon or evening wear. A favorite embroidery of the moment is in Russian design worked on net. The colorings include blue and red, the red being the predominating tone. In a dress with this embroidery the lower part is of white charmeuse, and the upper part which includes tunic and bodice, is in white net.

Another favorite embroidery for dresses is floss silk worked in floral sprays in combination with beads, the beads either being in the same color or in contrasting tones. To relieve the monotony of the all-white dress beads in pretty blue and pink are introduced in white floss silk embroidery, and touches of satin in the same tones are discreetly introduced in the trimming scheme.

THE STOCK MARKET TODAY SHOWS BUT LITTLE CHANGE

(By direct private wires to J. C. Mackintosh & Co., 604 Queen St. Fredericton)

New York, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Conditions slightly reflected the course of prices during the past week. Some emphasis can be placed upon the character of the money market which seems to be disposed to maintain its record for advancement in the call rates. The prospects seem to favor a further continuation of flurries in these rates, as the bank statement Saturday does not show any relief for the present. In spite of the heavy decrease in loans and increase in the deposits, the surplus reserve is almost at the vanishing point and with more demand for money loans are bound to be called to supply. Shipments of gold to Canada and California will have to show a falling off and returns from the interior will have to develop before the money can be properly adjusted. In the meantime, we are reaching the period for January business disbursements Congress meets today for its opening session and naturally Wall St. is interested in the contents of the president's message. That he will insist upon consideration of the trust system is undoubtedly true. The tariff question will also receive recognition and this, with a few minor features to make up the message, will be watched with keen interest.

NOT LIKELY TO BE RETURNED.

According to the statement made by the attorney who defended the McNamaras there is little prospect of the local labor organization which contributed to the McNamara Defence Fund having their money returned to them, according to a published statement all of the $190,000 subscribed was used by the defence. The local Shoe Workers and C.P.R. train men both contributed to the fund when the call went out to increase the fund when it amounted to $150,000.
