BRITISH POLITICS

DULL JUST NOW

London, Jan. 11.—Political discussion remains gaseous and futile. The Prime Minister is silent, and neither Mr. Balfour nor Lord Lansdowne has made any sign for the direction of the Unionist policy.

In generous moralists like the editor of The Observer, Mr. Garvin, are entertaining when their homilies are not too long, and Lord Heneage, Lord Hugh Cecil and scores of other correspondents enliven the columns of the Times and The Spectator with sanguine forecasts of the improved Unionist position. But there is no evidence that the responsible leaders of the Opposition have decided to offer a determined resistance to the veto bill.

The Prime Minister, cold and inexorable in his logic, is the master of the situation during the early stages of the new parliament. Not even Mr. Redmond can coerce or intimidate him. It would be a breach of faith with the nation to neglect to carry the veto bill through the House of Commons and bring out the full strength of the coalition majority. Undoubtedly this will be done, and without a menace from Mr. Redmond. If the bill reaches the House of Lords before the coronation a second reading is probable, and a crisis is likely to occur over the amendments moved in committee.

The tendencies of a festive year will favor a compromise, and a settlement will be fairly certain if the King's influence be definitely exerted. Radical calculators are estimating that not more than three hundred new peerages will be required if the worst comes to the worst. That would be a consummation entirely out of accord with the spirit of the Imperial fete. Patriotism, if not statesmanship, should avert it.

Mr. Redmond has given Ulster a broadside of statistics, and David Lloyd-George is reported to be drafting proposals for the establishment of workmen's sickness funds and invalid pensions.

Senator Bailey will dispose of his grand collection of brood mares at the coming New York sale.

Direct Hill, 2,041, the unbeaten, had more money-winning races out last year than any other sire.

PRESIDENT FARRELL

ONCE A MILL HAND

New York, Jan. 11.—"From Mill-Hand to Steel Trust President," sounds like the title of a paper novel and ordinarily would seem to be a tale founded on the imagination of a romancer. This, however, accurately describes the 32 years working career of James A. Farrell, who is today President of the United States Steel Corporation and successor to William Ellis Corey.

Mr. J. P. Morgan was to sail yesterday for Europe leaving Mr. Corey's place unfilled. This, however, did not suit the heads of the various subsidiary companies who were anxious to know who the operating head of the big combine was to be and whether he would sanction price cutting in an open market. So Mr. Morgan reconsidered his determination to sail and instead called a meeting of the directors. This resulted in Mr. Farrell's appointment. With Mr. Farrell in the place it is assured that the Morgan interests will reign supreme and the much feared price-cutting will not take place.

Here are some facts in the career of Mr. Farrell.

Started working when he was sixteen years old.

First position was that of a laborer in a wire mill.

First wages were $4.65 a week. Salary now is $100,000 a year.

Is forty-eight years old.

The general public has heard little and knows less of Mr. Farrell than any one steel magnate, but for the last eight years those in the trust have recognized him as a dominating factor in the U.S. Steel Products Export Company which is a subsidiary of the main organization.

North Shore Team Looked Dangerous in Second Half—Godfrey and Synott Starred for Chatham—Crescents Had Strong Defence—Fredericton Chatham Game Tonight.

Chatham	0	3	.000

About four hundred spectators turned out last night to see Chatham play Marysville. The game was a lively and interesting one. Marysville won 5 to 2, but the play was closer than the score would indicate. The Crescents played better than on Tuesday night, possibly because Chatham was not as aggressive as Fredericton.

Neither team played hockey of the first water, but there was enough excitement to keep the crowd on edge. Chatham had a chance of winning until the last five minutes of play when Marysville was leading only one goal. Marysville slammed two in quick succession, however, and it was all over. There was a time in the second half when Chatham had Marysville on the run, Godfrey and Synott both scoring within two minutes. After that the Crescents braced up and beat off the Chatham attack.

CHATHAM FAST.

The Chatham team when it appeared on the ice in scarlet and white, created a good impression. The men are young and their playing will improve with experience. Synott and Godfrey, on the forward line, and Watters and Watling on the defence, were the strong players of the team. Currie was under the weather and did not do anything startling. The Chatham wings are not particularly strong, however. Flood will have to get over his nervousness and stop overskating the puck before he becomes dangerous. Godfrey is a Mt. Allison man and will go back to college when Chatham finishes its foreign games with the present trip. He won the King-Richardson football trophy for Mount A. last fall.

MARYSVILLE IMPROVING.

The Marysville team is improving. Fullerton, at goal, grows better with age and Brogan was also in great form. The forwards as usual, indulged in slashing and tripping, with the result that Crescents were short a man a large part of the game. "Bunkey" Robinson was in the pen for fifteen minutes altogether. The Marysville players should learn to drop the puck tactics when a sharp man like Staples is on the job.

FIRST HALF.

Marysville rushed the puck at the start and Watling bumped "Bunkey" Robinson hard. Flood overskated the puck and the disc went back. Hovey shot wide. Both teams showed a tendency to bat the puck. Brogan made a dash but lost the rubber. The Crescents kept the play at Chatham's end until Godfrey carried it from one to the other but lost it in the corner. Play firmed up. Brogan pulled off one of the best plays of the night, running through the Chatham team and netting the rubber.

GODFREY THE GOODS.

Godfrey was the bright star at this stage. Brogan spoiled one shot of his that looked good. Flood repeatedly overskated the rubber. Nat Hovey started slashing and was put on the fence for 3 minutes.

Synott shot straight on the net but Fullerton saved. Watters repeated the trick. Play went up and down the ice and became rather slow.

Robertson fozzled two shots right in front of the Chatham net. Dennison went down the ice and "Bunkey" shoved the rubber in but an offside spoiled the goal.

Marysville again put Chatham on the defensive and Watters had another chance to save a score.

"Bunkey" Robinson got into the limelight by slashing so hard he broke his stick on the hard cold ice, and was penalized for five minutes. Playing a man short Marysville held Chatham down and Robertson scored, running well in on the net.

SECOND HALF.

The second half began with Marysville attacking. Watters stopped a

BILLY BERGER

Resorted to Foul Tactics and Was Hissed—Only His Condition Saved Knock Out.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 12.—Frank Klaus was outfought, outgeneraled and in every way beaten by Billy Berger, of Pittsburg in the old hall last night before 2,500 persons and had a decision been permitted, Berger would have been given it.

The crowd at times felt called on to hiss Klaus, unmercifully, because of foul fighting, and at times he was in danger of being sent from the ring through fouling. It seemed that Klaus after the first round found that he was up against a hard fighter, and he resorted to all questionable means of ending the fight; but the referee insisted that he remain and take his beating.

In the first round matters were about even, but this was the only time when Klaus had a lookin'. Beginning with the second round Berger began to hammer the man who aspires to championship honors and never let up on him until the last minute of the last round.

Had it not been for Klaus' good condition he would have been knocked out. Several times Berger appealed to the referee, thinking he was about to disqualify Klaus for foul fighting, asking that Klaus be not put out, but allowed to remain, so that he, Berger, might beat him up right. The fight was a severe disappointment to backers of Klaus.

FRED ROBSON WILL

SKATE AT CHICAGO

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Fred Robson leaves within a day or two for Chicago where he will compete in the American Skating Association races. From Chicago he goes to Detroit, Cleveland, Saranac Lake, Montreal and Boston, meeting all comers in the sprint events.

Robson has been training for two months and is now about ready to meet the best of the American speed merchants. He trained on a bicycle home trainer, when no skating was to be had. Robson is particularly anxious to beat Lamy in the 220, his favorite event and thinks he will be able to accomplish the feat at Saranac Lake or Montreal. He will be accompanied by Harry Codick, a well known local youngster, who is also going at top speed just now.

$50,000 PURSE FOR
JOHNSON-KAUFMAN GO

Chicago, Jan. 12.—H. H. Frazee, a local promoter, and Jack Gleason, who aided in arranging the Jeffries-Johnson fight, tonight offered a purse of $50,000 for a 20-round fight between Johnson and Al Kaufman, the San Francisco heavyweight, to be fought in the new stadium in London in coronation week.

Kaufman has accepted the offer, and the promoters expect to receive an answer from Johnson tomorrow. When a tentative offer was made Johnson a month ago for a fight with Kaufman the negro declared he would fight Kaufman any time a suitable purse was arranged.

Harry Devereux won 33 races in 71 starts at the Cleveland driving club matinees last summer.

The Chatham players give St. John the credit of having some hockey team.

The local professionals have already arranged a trip to Boston and New York to play two games at the close of the season.

The Starr trophy, won by the Montreal Victorias two or three years ago is to be put up for the professional league, and is to be played for every year, being in the custody, temporarily, of the team winning it. At the close of the regular schedule, a post season will be played for the Starr trophy by the two highest teams, and the winner holds the cup until played for the following year.

The U. N. B. practice failed to materialize yesterday on account of wet ice.

Currie, of the Chatham team, who has recently recovered from a sickness, was taken ill last night after the game. He may not play tonight.
