GAS, INDIGESTION AND HEARTBURN GO
IN FIVE MINUTES

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and Indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cts. for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and besides, one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can get relief in five minutes.—3

W. C. T. U.

A great temperance demonstration was held recently under the auspices of the United Kingdom Alliance at Llandrindod Wells, Wales, addressed by many leading English and Welsh temperance workers, among whom was the President of the United Kingdom Alliance, Mr. Leif Jones, M. A. His address presented forcibly the present position of the prohibition movement in Great Britain.

The object of the Alliance, the speaker stated, was to destroy the liquor trade, but it sought to suppress it by the will of the people. They had no desire to thrust upon society anything of which it disapproved. Much had been done for the furtherance of temperance by education and moral suasion. The evil of alcohol was admitted. Many doctors and scientists were now fighting for temperance training.

They had learned also that economically the drink system was a most wasteful one for the nation. The drink trade produced no wealth. It was a parasitic trade. It lived upon other trades. They were sometimes accused of attempting to destroy a great industry, but the liquor trade was not a great industry. A great industry added to the wealth of the people, and made for their health, comfort, and well-being. That was so in regard to the cotton and woollen trades, and their great railway systems. All these increased the comforts of life for the masses of the people, but it was not so with the drink trade.

From one point of view they could not tax the liquor trade too heavily, because if they too the whole of its profits they would still be undoubtedly the losers. Still, there were advantages in the increased taxation of the liquor trade. If they put a tax on an article they made it dearer, and by taxing the liquor they made it dearer and weaker, and from this point of view it did not matter much which they did. Therefore he rejoiced when Mr. Lloyd George proposed the extra taxation of the liquor trade. The figures produced in his speech had amply justified the taxation put on in the Parliament of 1909. He found the consumption had gone down from the figure at which it stood in 1908, thirty-two million gallons to twenty-one million gallons in 1910, a decrease of eleven million gallons.

The whole of that could not be claimed as the result of the budget. Still, there had been a decrease in the consumption of spirits throughout the country, and it was especially marked in Scotland. He was sorry to see there was a movement on foot in Ireland to induce the Chancellor to alter the spirits tax. There was nothing in Ireland that did so much harm to the people as the liquor trade. The convictions for drunkenness there were three times as many as in England, and he was glad to know that the government had announced its intention of standing firm.

SENTRAL BLISSVILLE

Jan. 29—For the past week the weather has been very cold but is a little warmer today.

Mr. L. B. Smith made a flying trip to Fredericton yesterday.

The school has not been opened here yet but is expected to be in two more weeks.

Mr. Gabriel Smith is wearing a smile—it's a boy.

The whooping cough is very prevalent around here now.

MR. MONK, M.P.
ONCE MORE
CUTS LOOSE

(Montreal Herald.)

Once more, by the precipitancy of his action, Mr. Borden has caused it to be made known to the world that unity in the party he leads is no longer to be counted upon. And once more Mr. Monk's is the first to indicate that Mr. Borden's methods of committing the party without consulting its members is not to be tolerated. We may expect that within a few days the Western Conservative members, and perhaps some from the Maritime Provinces, will make it evident that they favor the trade arrangement which has been offered by Mr. Taft and Mr. Fielding as the basis of concurrent legislation. Meantime, Mr. Monk has taken a position which The Herald finds it very difficult to distinguish from its own, and which, notwithstanding certain minor reserves, amounts to a ratification of what Mr. Fielding has done.

It is a fact worthy of note, of course, that Mr. Monk should have exposed his mind on the subject at a public function when he knew it was to be discussed in party caucus within a few days. From this it is fairly deductible that he does not hold himself open to invitation to the party caucus. And that is only another way of saying that he has not shrunk from breaking definitely with Mr. Borden and from those who support the government; they have been so vigorously opposing on another issue, is surely a political fact of the first importance.

Mr. Monk, as we understand it, holds that if there were in the proposed agreement anything to threaten the dissolution of Canada's political relation to the Mother Country, it ought to be rejected; but that nothing of the sort appears. He holds that if there were in the proposed agreement anything to compromise our freedom and to lead us into difficulties from which political union with the United States would be the only issue, it ought to be rejected; but that there is not. Such being the position, he holds that Canada would be unworthy of her dignity as a nation if she showed herself afraid or unwilling to take a course which is manifestly to her advantage, and which is directed to the single end of enabling her great producing classes to secure the best return for their labors. In such a crisis, Mr. Monk thinks, Canada should not be timid about placing the well-being of her people before all other considerations.

Readers of The Herald will recognize in both phases of Mr. Monk's declarations the same principles that have been here advocated. We should not sacrifice our independence, we should not involve ourselves in entanglements which would threaten that independence, for the sake of trade; once that danger was successfully passed, we should let no "craven fact of being great" stand in the way of doing the best that can be done for the direct advantage of the people of Canada.

We cannot but suspect that from Prince Edward Island, from New Brunswick, from Nova Scotia, from the Western Provinces, many voices will be heard proclaiming that Mr. Monk is right, and that he correctly interprets the policy of Sir John Macdonald. At all events, he has made Mr. Borden's position distinctly, more difficult, the government's position distinctly better.

Neilson's Chocolates

The Chocolates That Are Different.

The first enticing piece of Neilson's Chocolates you taste, will show you how different are these delicious confections.

To secure the richness of flavor and delicacy that are inseparable with Neilson's "Hard Centers", we use rich, sweet cream—and make the centers only firm enough to be easily eaten. To keep these centers just right—neither too soft nor too hard—is the perfection of candy-making—and Neilson's "Hard Centers" are as perfect as they are different.

The chocolate coating forms a thick, firm, crisp shell perfectly enveloping each wholesome centre.

All these chocolates have the "Extreme Split Dip". It's a Neilson specialty—exclusive with Neilson's Chocolates de Luxe—another touch of distinction that makes them different.

Perhaps you prefer Creams to "Hard Centers"—or "Cherries in Maraschino Chocolate Dipped" to either. You can get all three under the Neilson name—also 30 other packages of these different Chocolates.

If you cannot get Neilson's Chocolates in your neighborhood, send 80c. for a pound box of the most delicious assorted Chocolates you ever tasted. 3
