AND ONTARIO CASES

Last week I mentioned two cases, one in this province and one in Ontario, where homes were wrecked. Since that time I have received aditional light upon both.

It will be remembered how the Roman Catholic bride was entrapped in her father's home at Fairville, near St. John, and forcibly detained there. The clergyman who officiated at the wedding has since sent me the particulars of the marriage. The striking thing about it is that the girl, though she was accompanied by her aunt, subscribed herself as an Episcopalian. She did just as the Fredericton man did in the first case cited. It is not surprising that having taken the sword of falsehood she perished by the same sword. Mr. William Shaw, who was shot ay, died at Cornwall Hospital on offered $15,000 bail, but the offer was not accepted. The explanation of the man who fired the fatal shot was that the bullet hit a rock and glanced off hitting Shaw after it had glanced! There is a remarkable similarity in all these explanations. Dr. It was arranged that he should meet his wife at Alexandra station and the interview was to be strictly private. He was met by her father at the train, who announced to him "if you want to see my daughter you give the public the information for
