HOW TO TELL THE AGE OF A HORSE

The four ways of telling the age of a horse were recently described by Prof. E. L. Potter of the animal husbandry department of the Oregon Agricultural College, U. S. A., in a lecture to his students, which was in substance as follows:

There are four ways of telling the age of a horse—by the skin of the cheek, by the ribs, by the shrinking of the flesh of the tail, and by the teeth.

In a young horse the skin of the cheek is soft and elastic, and if raised up will immediately fly back in place. With an old horse, however, the skin is lifeless and if it is raised up it will go back rather slowly.

The ribs of an old horse are apparently farther apart and the space between them more distinct than in a young horse. First the space between the last two ribs becomes more distinct than between the next two and so on.

In an old horse the flesh of the tail shrinks, making the joints more distinct. This change begins at the end and works up year by year towards the body.

These three methods are not accurate and they merely enable one to tell an old horse from a young one. A skilful horseman can tell about as much regarding the age of a horse by his general appearance as by either of these methods.

The changes of the teeth are very much more reliable, however, and this method of judging is in almost universal use among good judges. It is not absolutely accurate but is sufficiently so for practical purposes, except in unusual cases.

The horse has twelve incisors, or front teeth, six above and six below. He has two sets of these, one temporary and one permanent. When a colt is two years old he has all his temporary teeth. These will be shorter, whiter and more worn than the permanent teeth.

At two and a half years the central pair, both above and below, drop out, and permanent teeth take their place. By the time the horse is three years old these permanent teeth will be fully developed and "in wear," that is, the upper and lower teeth will meet. At three and a half years the lateral pair of teeth (one on each side of the central pair), both above and below, drop out, and by the age of four the permanent teeth are in wear. At four and a half years the corner pair, both above and below, drop out, and by the age of five the permanent teeth are all in wear. At this age the horse is said to have a "full mouth." The teeth at this age are much longer from side to side than from front to rear; also, on each one there is an elongated cup, or mark. This cup is a depression in the tooth and is lined with the same kind of hard enamel that covers the outside of the teeth. It is also filled with dirt and foreign material, which gives it a black appearance. The lining of hard enamel will always distinguish the real cup from the artificial ones sometimes put in by jockeys.

At five years of age there is a cup in each tooth. At six the cups in the central pair have been worn away. At seven the cups in the lateral pair below are worn away, at eight the corner pair, at nine the central pair above, at ten the lateral pair below and at eleven the corner pair above. The cups are then all gone and the horse is then said to have a "smooth mouth."

It must be remembered that the permanent teeth above and below come in at the same time, but that the cups below are gone. It must be remembered also, that the changes begin at the centre and continue at the rate of one pair a year; that a horse at maturity, which is at five years, has everything—that is, all his permanent teeth and all his cups. If one remembers this much he has the whole thing in a nutshell. If the signs for any particular year are for gotten one can count backward or forward from five and get what is wanted.

After eleven years the signs are not definite, but at about fifteen or sixteen the tops of the teeth become round instead of longer from side to side than from front to back. The tooth does not actually change but the lower part of the tooth is a different shape from the top and when the tooth wears down the wearing surface gets to where the tooth is of a different shape than where wear first started.

At about twenty the surface of the tooth changes from round to triangular with the longer dimensions from front to rear. Also, when the horse gets old the teeth have more slope when viewed from side to side. The teeth of a five-year-old horse come almost straight together, while those of a twenty-year-old horse come together at a sharp angle.

These signs, as given are accurate for normal horses from about four months until five years of age. At six or seven they are accurate within one year; at eleven within two or three years, and after that within about four years, although the average will come much closer than these limits.

I Am Willing To Prove
I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000
Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it for all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Aged and infirm of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney headache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. These will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you may send me a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over and see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., notice symptoms number—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 831 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can."

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate, it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

WHY KIPLING FLED.

Once at a private party in New York City, Rudyard Kipling sang "Danny Deever" to an audience which included Rudyard Kipling, author of the verses which Damosch set to music. Mr. Bispham tells the following interesting story regarding the occurrence:

"At the conclusion of my efforts," says the baritone, "Mr. Kipling abruptly left the room and the house, with never a word about the song which by this time had become famous and was sung by everyman with a D and a diaphragm in his make-up but as Kipling says 'that is another story," and it came out after he had recovered from an attack of pneumonia he caught on the way home that very night.

That was the way of it: "On my return to London the next summer, a gentleman called on me and brought me a message from the celebrated author to the effect that he was very sorry if on such-an-such an evening he might have appeared to have been unconscious in leaving the room without some word as to 'Danny Deever,' which he had heard then for the first time.
