ASKED HER DRUGGIST TO GIVE HER SOMETHING

She had a Bad Cold, so he Recommended

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Mrs. James Warren, Edmonton, Alta., writes:—"Just a few words in favor of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A short time ago I contracted a bad cold, and tried several remedies, but had no good results. I asked my druggist to give me some good cough medicine he could recommend, so he told me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and I can safely say I have never tried anything like it. The first dose gave me relief, and I was completely cured of my cough before I had finished one bottle. It is the best cough remedy I have ever tried, and I can recommend it to everyone."

Obstinate coughs and colds yield to the grateful, soothing action of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is a remedy without an equal for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all affection of the throat or lungs.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

MARITIME POLITICIANS ENROUTE TO OTTAWA

Montreal, Nov. 15.—A number of Maritime Province politicians were registered at the city hotels this morning, including Lenators Power and Ross of Halifax, D. D. MacKenzie, M. P. for Cape Breton North, George W. Kite, M. P. for Richmond, and W. F. Carroll, M. P., for Cape Breton South.

"You've been making speeches all through the corn belt," said the political manager, "do you notice any result?"
"Yes," answered the spellbinder, "my voice has become quite husky."

FLORENCE FAIRBANKS ON FADS AND FASHIONS

The coats in general follow lines much like those with which women became familiar last winter, though the cut of the coat naturally depends to some extent upon the use to which it is to be put. The fur motor coat shows width enough in its skirt to allow a comfortable sitting posture of the wearer without any falling away of the coat from over the knees but the dressy fur coat is very likely to narrow slightly toward the bottom instead of widening, and its fronts are frequently cut away in more or less pronounced fashion.

Moleskin is combined with seal, with ermine, with the dyed fox of soft taupe tone, with skunk, with white fox. Black caracul is relieved by any and all of the dark long haired furs, by opossum, chinchilla and ermine. Seal finds a lovely contrast in ermine, but is trimmed with the long haired furs too even the ermine coat sometimes has a huge collar of black fox or white fox, though it is most effective when used alone.

Chinchilla is becoming dearer every year and before long will probably be beyond the means of any but the very rich. Fine sables, silver fox, seal, ermine, breitschwanz and other furs are all increasing in price as they become rarer. Each year the makers of fashion take up some one of the less expensive furs and make it a fad in order that the average woman may find in the modishness of a fur she can buy some compensation for the fact that the best of the furs are beyond her means.

The most beautiful coats seen so far this winter are the evening coats of ermine and of these the importers have brought over some wonderful examples. As a rule they are in the all white ermine with the black and white used only as trimming, chiefly in fringe arrangement. The fur is supple and light to a surprising degree and is often intricately handled. Magnificent laces, often metallic, are used upon some ermine coats, and daring things are done with black velvet in connection with ermine.

Side by side with the long coat fastening low at the side are coats with collars on Directorate lines and otherwise adjusted high about the throat, and some models cosy and comfortable for very cold days open on the left side in Russian fashion, rise to the base of the throat and on the left shoulder extend into long scarfs which may be drawn around the throat in stole fashion.

For all around comfort and utility the long separate coat is still much in favor in Paris. The well dressed Parisienne always number at least one long coat in her outfit and uses it for travelling by boat, train or motor. There are many new touches which the greater designers of fashion have added to the new fall and winter models. For instance the monk's hood, which is the long circular or square collar converted to a pointed and tasseled hood at the back, is one of the additions to long serge ratine, cheviot or English suiting cloaks. This hood can really be used for practical purposes, the front revers buttoning over and the capuchin fully protecting the head.

Buttons in large mother-of-pearl, tortoise-shell or brass form a decided feature in trimming the separate cloaks. Braid is used largely to simulate buttonholes and to give a jaunty, military effect. Triple capes, double capes and large pockets are in vogue, while the lining of these favorites are serviceable and decidedly attractive. They are supplied with many ample pockets, and the wearer can rejoice in a delightful warmth as well. Some models show a fastening at the right side, most of them, however buttons on the left.

Contrasting collars and cuffs of white on colors or bright colors on neutral shades are the mode. Some wraps or coats are cut on straight lines and others have odd little seams and deviations from the straight models. Little panels are inset, the line of the waist is clearly suggested on some, and tails are very much in evidence. Large revers are the features, and the pointed or round shaped collars at the back promise to decorate successfully the favorite garment.

Frills and flounces play an important part in the styles of today. Even on the most subdued models flounces Florence Fairbank. Galley TWO appear on house gowns of all kinds. For afternoon and evening wear they are particularly popular. Bodies that suggest the Second Empire styles are trimmed with pleatings that form a beautiful marking (the waist). A few are showing a resurrection of the accordion pleating.

The fichu effect, being so strongly pronounced, gives ample opportunity for the use of frills. Net, lace, mousseline de soie, chiffon and every fabric that is soft enough to lend itself to frilling is employed in these graceful draperies.

Ruches and tiny frills trim collars and cuffs and border draperies on many of the latest imported gowns. Tunic of transparent material vining satin or brocade evening gowns are frequently bordered with a flounce of fine lace, especially if the tunic be draped.

ARE YOUR HANDS CHAPPED?

Zam-Buk will Cure Them

The particular danger of chapped hands and cold cracks (apart altogether from the pain) is that the cold is likely to penetrate and set up inflammation, festering, or blood-poison. Directly the skin is broken by a cut, graze or scratch, or chafed and cracked by the action of the cold winds and water, the one necessary precaution is to apply Zam-Buk freely.

The pure herbal juices from which Zam-Buk is prepared are so perfectly combined and refined that the immediate effect of these Zam-Buk dressings is soothing, antiseptic and healing. Pain and inflammation are allayed, disease germs expelled from the wound or sore, and the latter is quickly healed.

Zam-Buk is not only a powerful healer and skin purifier; it is strongly antiseptic and germicidal, and so forms the ideal protection for the skin against disease germs.

It quickly heals cold cracks, chaps, chilblains, cold sores, etc.
Mrs. O. M. Phoen, Neuchatel, Alta., writes:—"I must tell you how pleased I am with Zam-Buk. My husband had an old frostbite on his foot for many years, and had tried almost every known remedy without any effect, but the first application of Zam-Buk seemed to help him so much that he persevered and the sore is now cured. We would not be without Zam-Buk in the house."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for piles, eczema, ulcers, abscesses, scalp sores, blood-poison, bad leg, eruptions, etc. Its purely herbal composition makes it the ideal balm for babies and young children. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.
