They remember the trouble they had getting the hay into the barns by hand or with the drag pitcher and are now putting in Track Pitchers.

Now there is time to do it and the work can be done very much easier than later when the barns are empty.

COULD NOT SWEEP FLOOR

Was So Terribly Afflicted With Lame Back.

It is hard to do housework with a weak and aching back, and no woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well.

The weak, lame and aching back comes from sick kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney trouble. Mrs. Harvey W. Brownell, Northport, N.S., writes:—"I now take pleasure in writing you, stating the benefit I received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About a year ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back, and was so bad at times I could not sweep my own floor. While looking through your B.B.B. Almanac I saw Doan's Kidney Pills were a great remedy, so thought I would try a box or two. After using five boxes I was completely cured, and I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. In ordering direct specify "Doan's."

NORTHWEST IMMIGRATION CONFERENCE

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 21.—Under the title of the Pacific Northwest Immigration conference there was opened today the first important conference that had been held to consider the effects of the opening of the Panama canal upon the future development of this section of the United States and the Pacific coast section of Canada. The conference will be in session two days and is being held under the joint auspices of the commercial bodies of Tacoma and the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A. The conference is based on the assumption that, with the completion of the canal across the isthmus, the flood of European immigration to the Pacific coast will equal the present volume at Atlantic ports. The problem of how best to take care of this prospective influx of foreign settlers with a view to the welfare of both of the new comers and the country is regarded as a serious one. Lacking the great industrial centres which in the Eastern States readily absorb the immigrants, it is believed that the best solution of the problem for the Pacific Northwest will be to devise ways and means for locating the newcomers in the agricultural communities.

But that was where they were all wrong. Having thought over and behind them for forty years George Foster came to the conclusion that his whiskers represented immoderate protection—he had too much and too many of them—so sooner than have his Government under suspicion because he had the wrong sign out he determined to shave part of his whiskers off. What of the Foster whiskers are left now may be said to symbolize adequate protection—just enough to get along with—and if whiskers show which way the wind blows the Borden Government may carry this policy out.

To become technical for a moment the new Foster whisker leaves the baccinatory, super-macillary and sub-macillary outfit if speaking muscles clear of furze, brushwood and other entangling alliances. No doubt if Foster could get rid of the Nationalists as easily, he would do it. The clearing extends on each side of the face to the outer circumference of the chin where it ends as abruptly as a member of the Dominion Alliance at a bar-room door. In other words George Foster has shaved his jaw clean, leaving just enough spinach on his chin to trim to a peak. It's not a Vandylke and it's not an Imperial. Neither is it a Henri Quatre but

GEO. E. FOSTER'S WHISKERS ARE A NATIONAL AFFAIR

(H. F. Gadsby in Montreal Herald) Ottawa, February 17.—Of course, if a Government is sparring for wind it can make a debate last as long as it likes. The tariff commission debate has already lasted long enough to alter the character of George Eulas Foster's whiskers.

George Foster's whiskers are a national affair. Think of the agitation in newspaper offices all over Canada when this news filters in! Every Ottawa correspondent will get a wire to send the latest photograph. Cartoonists from Vancouver to Halifax will make haste to study the new point of view. Leader writers will look behind the changed mask shrewdly surmising a change of heart of which there is the outward and visible sign.

They will be right. There has been a change of heart. Foster has made up his mind that he will grow younger from now on. What are a few whiskers if you can throw the years in the dump along with them? If the Minister of Trade and Commerce keeps flaking off the burden of time as he has done in the past few months no one need be surprised to him presently taking part in sleighing parties and singing college songs. Such is the relief a cabinet minister feels when the post combines dignity and nothing particular to do.

ONE OR TWO MORALS

Don't get impatient if we draw a lesson or two from George Foster's altered whiskers. (Stems in his Sentimental Journey devotes a whole chapter to whiskers. Surely you can brook a rambling paragraph. Pascal says that if Cleopatra's nose had been an inch shorter the whole face of the world would have been different. It is a profound reflection. Is it unreasonable then, to assume that the Foster metamorphosis will have an effect on Canada.

No one can tell yet how it will work out but some eager observers are already proclaiming results. Briefly their conclusion is that the less whiskers Foster has the less he will have to say. And this is strange because his jaws are that much lighter. He has no whiskers now to scratch his ears in his rapid and brilliant perorations. However that may be Foster has shown real interest in only two discussions this session—the grain bill in which he sought to prove, unsuccessfully, that Manitoba No. 1 Hard by any other would sell as wheat, and the tariff commission.

But the thing goes deeper than the sources of speech. People who look below the talcum-powdered surface see there a radical change in the man's nature. To make this matter plain I must describe the difference between the old whiskers and the new. You will remember the old set? 'Yes? Well, to put it bluntly, they were "scrappy."

They had the unpruned look of a forest before the conservers have got at it.

All the undergrowth was there and the foliage strayed out of bounds. All New Brunswick whiskers are originally of that sort and that way they remain unless the barber has his will of them. Foster has had that kind of whiskers for forty years. He never believed—until the other day—in letting any barber get the best of them. From pink they might turn to grizzled grey but their outline, their tout ensemble, their miss-on-scene always remained the same. In Leviticus there is a curse for the man who cuts the corners of his beard, probably because it changes his appearance so that people who owe him money don't know him when they see him coming. At any rate Foster never cut the corners of his beard. He didn't think it was right. Ottawa and Toronto came to regard George Foster's whiskers as a thing constant, as constant, say, as the law of gravitation and a little more constant than the system of moderate protection.

But that was where they were all wrong. Having thought over and behind them for forty years George Foster came to the conclusion that his whiskers represented immoderate protection—he had too much and too many of them—so sooner than have his Government under suspicion because he had the wrong sign out he determined to shave part of his whiskers off. What of the Foster whiskers are left now may be said to symbolize adequate protection—just enough to get along with—and if whiskers show which way the wind blows the Borden Government may carry this policy out.

To become technical for a moment the new Foster whisker leaves the baccinatory, super-macillary and sub-macillary outfit if speaking muscles clear of furze, brushwood and other entangling alliances. No doubt if Foster could get rid of the Nationalists as easily, he would do it. The clearing extends on each side of the face to the outer circumference of the chin where it ends as abruptly as a member of the Dominion Alliance at a bar-room door. In other words George Foster has shaved his jaw clean, leaving just enough spinach on his chin to trim to a peak. It's not a Vandylke and it's not an Imperial. Neither is it a Henri Quatre but something betwixt and between—perhaps—a Henri-Deux-Et-Demi.

The net effect of this new fashion of Foster's is one of gay but subdued devilry. Imagine a faded Mephistopheles in spectacles—there you have him! It will interest students of such things to learn that the Foster skin where the whiskers used to be, the skin that the sun did not see for forty years, is as white and delicate as a babe's. In a younger man a change of whiskers might signify that he was in love. Foster's whiskers simply mean that his load of care has been shifted and lightened. From Foster's whiskers we draw the happy augury for Foster and for Canada. Watch them both!

JAM AIKINS SPREADS HIMSELF

But a truce to Foster's new whiskers. Long may they wave. Pass on to other matters equally pertinent. The tariff commission debate has lasted long enough to give Jam Aikins one of the chances he is always ready to seize. Aikins sits for Brandon the seat Sifton did not stand for. His initials are J. A. M. and naturally becomes Jam to the irreverent. And how he dares spread it! His speeches are fairly sticking with mixed metaphors.

Jam Aikins is a new member. Most new members are afraid to speak. They get goose flesh when they begin to think about it. If they do not loose, they do it when the press gallery is empty and when there is next to nobody in the Green Chamber. Only they can get used to the Niagara roar of their own voices in their own ears. But Jam Aikins is not troubled that way. Though a new performer to the house Jam Aikins is an old hand at public speaking. At home he is a lawyer; He shaves clean, dresses fashionably and looks like a middle-aged, well-fed stockbroker. But his real pleasure is saving souls. Lay preaching he regards as the King of indoor sports. He and another man whose first name is Jim support a chapel in Winnipeg which people call the Jim-Jam Church but it is none the worse for that. All this activity is very much to the member for Brandon's credit. It follows that Parliamentary speaking is dead nuts for Jam Aikins. It's so easy that he can play with it. In his teeming brain every subject tails into a dozen heads which arrange themselves logically through sheer force of habit. This matter over which lesser orators spend much time and trouble having solved itself as it were, Jam Aikins is at liberty to turn his thoughts to figures of speech which he does.

Jam Aikins can do wonderful things with figures of speech. He can make a spid in which common sense is entirely hidden and overlaid with allusions. A beautiful mess in which you cannot taste the game pie for the seasoning. He can swallow almost anything, even himself, if it is garnished with little sprigs of metaphor. The headstrong allegory he can run down on foot. The long Vigilant simile he tracks to his lair and puts a pin in it. Never a day passes but he turns a pint of peanut shells into toasted corn flakes with a few magic words. He can be more deliberately funny than any other man in the House. He can use kotexes in one sentence and hyperbaton in another and synecdoche in a third and metonymy in a fourth and never have a collision or an explosion or a smell of light sulphuretted hydrogen.

SOUTH DAKOTA GRAIN DEALERS

Mitchell, S. D., Feb. 21.—Evidence of the success of the farmers' co-operative movement in this state was furnished by the large and representative attendance at the opening here today of the annual convention of the South Dakota Farmer Grain Dealers' Association. The roll showed an attendance of more than 1,000 farmers who are interested as stockholders in the co-operative grain elevators. The three days' programme calls for a discussion of all phases of the co-operative movement, with addresses by Charles Adkins, speaker of the Illinois house or representatives; E. G. Dunn of Mason City, Ia., a leading factor in the co-operative work in Iowa, and several other men of prominence.

But why go on talking about Jam Aikins speeches? Some day some newspaper will print one and then everybody will know how a thwarted poet sounds in Parliament.
