REV. FATHER CARNEY VS. REV. J. H. McDONALD

testimony adduced by me in my last letter, in virtue of which these cases of his from Oromocto and Pictou were completely shattered, he has recourse to a dastardly insinuation. In effect, he holds all Catholics up to scorn, by hinting that they are ever ready to perjure themselves; by so doing he forfeits all claim to the respect of his fellow-men.

If the King were imbued with the ideas of Dr. MacDonald the lot of the Catholics living within the British Empire would be very different from what it is at the present time. Looking upon them as perjurers, he could not in justice countenance their holding office. After all, Catholics cannot be the degraded class Rev. Mr. MacDonald would have us believe for of the five premiers taking part in the coronation ceremonies, three were Catholics. To come nearer home, in our own fair Canada many Catholics hold positions of trust, honor and emolument under the crown. Amongst them we have Sir Charles Fitzpatrick in the chief justiceship of the Dominion; we have Mr. Justice Landry and Mr. Justice Barry, Supreme Court judges in the Province of New Brunswick. Would Rev. Dr. MacDonald dare to call these gentlemen perjurers? His argument pushed to the extreme limit would compel him to do so. Shame on such a man!

Perjury, we all admit, is a terrible crime, and those whose duty it is to administer the laws tells us that, unfortunately, it seems to be on the increase. I have yet to learn that Roman Catholics are greater sinners in this particular than their Protestant neighbors; the records of our courts fail to show it. We have no wish to claim that we are more truthful than our non-Catholic fellow-countrymen; but we can claim, and they will not grudge us the distinction, that we have given fuller pledges of our truthfulness than other British subjects. We can claim that, thanks to the cruel penal laws to which our Catholic ancestors were subjected, we stand out honorably amongst all our fellow-countrymen as ennobled by the heavy sacrifices our forefathers made in the sacred cause of truthfulness. We are the children of those generations of faithful witnesses who, one after another, through two centuries and more, preferred to lose property and even life, rather than take an oath of allegiance not acceptable to them as such, but only for one or two unnecessary clauses introduced merely for the sake of catching them. We are the children of those who, almost up to the present day, allowed themselves to be excluded from public life solely because they would not swear to a lie about transubstantiation; for, be it remembered, Catholics were not excluded as such from holding office under the crown, they were excluded merely because an oath was interposed which, as Catholics, they could not take without swearing to an untruth. Yes, the English Protestant leaders of the earlier generations were of the class whose type is preserved in unreasoning bigots like Dr. MacDonald. Like him they were never tired of collecting from our books spicy passages, made such by garbling and other devices, in order to convict our Catholic forefathers of mendacity. But when they proceeded to persecute, they revealed at once the slight credit they attached to their own charges and betrayed their perfect confidence in Catholic truthfulness, by the stress they laid upon anti-Catholic oaths as all-sufficient devices for keeping Catholics out of every sphere of influence.

ST. LIGOURI'S TRADUCER CHALLENGED

In concluding his reference to the Oromocto and Pictou cases in his last letter Rev. Dr. MacDonald speaks as follows: "There are denials it is true, but then, according to the teaching of St. Alphonsus the denials may count for nothing. When one is asked in court 'Did you see a deed committed?' he can answer 'I say no' which will be accepted by the judge as a denial but with the witness means 'I say the word no.' It is on this ground that my informants with regard to the Pictou case notwithstanding all the denials still maintain that the marriage took place as I have stated."

Now Mr. Editor I deny this to be this to be the teaching of St. Alphonsus, and moreover I CHALLENGE THE REV. J. H. McDONALD PASTOR OF THE BRUNSWICK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH IN THIS CITY OF FREDERICTON TO SUBSTANTIATE THIS CHARGE. If he produces an edition of St. Alphonsus on Moral Theology, authorized by the authorities of the Catholic Church—no other is genuine—where it is taught, "When one is asked in court 'Did you see a deed committed?' he can answer 'I say no' which will be accepted by the judge as a denial but with the witness means 'I say the word no.' I WILL DONATE THE SUM OF $100 TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE VICTORIA HOSPITAL TO HELP THEM IN

THE CARRYING ON OF THEIR CHARITABLE WORK. If Dr. MacDonald accepts this challenge and fails to substantiate his assertion, he must accept the obligation of paying the stated sum to the Trustees of the Hospital. In case Rev. Dr. MacDonald's last letter struck me as very funny. All along the word HOME has been playing an important part in this controversy, but suddenly my Reverend friend, has made a discovery He informs us "a house is built of wood, brick or stone but a home is built of hearts bound together in love." All lexicographers will feel truly grateful to him. But as I am old-fashioned in many ways, I think I will retain the old definition, for which I have better authority. It may be found in Vol. 15 American and English Encyclopedia of Law page 513 under the heading "HOME"—"Home is defined as a dwelling house; a house where one resides; a residence. The word 'home' means some permanent abode, or residence with intention to remain."

A STRANGE DEFINITION

A passage Mr. Editor, in Rev. Mr. MacDonald's last letter struck me as very funny. All along the word HOME has been playing an important part in this controversy, but suddenly my Reverend friend, has made a discovery He informs us "a house is built of wood, brick or stone but a home is built of hearts bound together in love." All lexicographers will feel truly grateful to him. But as I am old-fashioned in many ways, I think I will retain the old definition, for which I have better authority. It may be found in Vol. 15 American and English Encyclopedia of Law page 513 under the heading "HOME"—"Home is defined as a dwelling house; a house where one resides; a residence. The word 'home' means some permanent abode, or residence with intention to remain."

A FLAGRANT WANDERING.

I have nothing in my heart, Mr. Editor, but pity for poor Dr. MacDonald. He seems to be going from bad to worse. In his last wandering the most flagrant of all, which I have no obligation to notice, he takes to his bosom the Asino, a scurrilous and obscene sheet, which was published in Rome, at least, during the year 1901—a thousand times worse than "Free Speech," which the court of our own province had to suppress. He tells us this paper, dated July 14th of that year, challenged any Catholic paper in Italy to publish an Italian translation of a certain passage found in the Latin text of St. Liguori's Moral Theology. The challenge he informs us, was never accepted. Why should it be? The passage alluded to was written for the guidance of priests in the fulfilment of their sacred duties, and was never intended for the general public. We have passages of a similar nature in medical books for the instruction of physicians, as also in law books for the benefit of lawyers, which are never spread broadcast before the eyes of the general public. Why then, in the name of common sense, should Catholic papers be asked to publish the technical instruction necessary for a father-confessor? It concerns the priest and no one else. If my words still carry weight with Rev. Dr. MacDonald, I would advise him to forego the pleasure apparently derived by him from the reading of such an obscene sheet. Should he continue in such a course his mind will become so poisoned he will be no longer fitted for his high calling.

THE NEW CASES.

I regret, Mr. Editor, my inability to consider, at this stage, the three new cases cited by Rev. Dr. MacDonald in his last letter. They all come to us from the diocese of Chatham, and as the priests of that diocese are engaged at the present time in their ecclesiastical retreat, it will be impossible for me to secure the necessary information, until the end of this week. When it comes, I will then be prepared to consider these cases. I hope to have it in time for Saturday next.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, once more for your kindness, I am
Yours sincerely,
F. L. CARNEY.

Fredericton, N.B., July 10, 1911.

VALLEY RAILWAY NEWS FROM ACROSS THE LINE

(Bangor Commercial)

It has been learned by way of St. John that Arthur R. Gould, the general manager of the Maine & New Brunswick Electric Co. and promoter of that company and the Aroostook Valley Railroad Co., has received the contract for constructing the Valley Railroad, the $7,500,000 project that is to be built from St. John, N. B., to Quebec, and which will shorten the present distance traversed by the Intercolonial Railway by some 200 miles.

The new road so far as it concerns Maine is to be extended across the upper part of Aroostook from Washburn, the present terminus of Mr. Gould's electric road, a distance of some 80 miles.

It will be recalled that a charter was obtained for such a road at the last session of the Maine legislature and the plan involved the purchase of the C. P. R. lines in this state extending to Presque Isle and the electrifying of that road. The charter for the remaining sections of the road through the provinces has just been secured through the provincial and dominion parliaments and it is understood that work is soon to begin on the big project.

It is planned to operate the entire system by electricity to be generated at the present plant of the Maine & New Brunswick and at other available water power sites along the line of the proposed road.

HIS OWN DENTIST

Mr. Henry Braithwaite the veteran guide lost his first tooth during a recent trip to the Miramichi. The molar became ulcerated and gave him a great deal of trouble for over a week. He decided that the troublesome tooth must be sacrificed, and not being in a position to call in a dentist he decided to tackle the job himself. An effort to extract it by means of a pair of bullet moulds was unsuccessful so finally with the aid of a hammer and nail he succeeded in accomplishing the task and so obtained relief.

Mrs. Chas. Herrin of St. Paul, Minn., arrived here this morning for a short visit to her brother, Mr. Austin Dunphy, Regent street. She was accompanied by Miss Vera Miller, formerly of this city, but now of St. Paul.

AN OPEN AIR MEETING.

That is about the first question is asked the landlord by the prospective tenant. The question of pure healthful warmth is of vital importance with most people renting a house. ## THE STORY Of the Hercules Spring

Some years ago an ingenious mechanic discovered a new way of locking the wires in a Spring Bed and found that the new spring would bear a weight ten times as heavy as the ordinary woven wire spring.

At great expense special machinery was constructed for the weaving of the new fabric, and the new spring was given the name of HERCULES.

HERCULES SPRINGS have been tested in every possible way and have surpassed even the hopes of the inventor. They have now stood the supreme test of time. We have been selling them for the past twelve years, and we confidently make the following offer. If any person has a Hercules Spring number one or number nought, bought from us at any time, which is not as good today as the day it was bought, bring it in, and we will replace it with a new one FREE OF CHARGE.
