

RECIPROCITY SURE, HE SAYS

The New York Sun of August 26 contained an interesting and pertinent interview with Wilson W. Butler, vice-president of the Canadian Car & Foundry Co., Montreal, and vice-president of the Canadian Steel Foundries, which latter company is now erecting a large plant in Montreal costing upwards of $1,250,000. Mr. Butler is also interested very largely in real estate in Montreal, and his attitude is, therefore, all the more significant, as, if he thought reciprocity would be injurious to the big companies with which he is associated, he would be the first to oppose it. The article from the New York Sun follows here:

Wilson W. Butler, vice-president of the Canadian Steel Foundries and the Canadian Car and Foundry Company of Montreal, who is at the Waldorf, says reciprocity is going through in Canada. He looks for a Liberal majority equal to that in the last parliament, but he says he is one of the few manufacturers up there who are in favor of the agreement.

"There has been a good deal of wild, not to say fiery, talk about reciprocity on both sides in Canada," said Butler yesterday, "but the Liberal party will be returned to power through Canadian manufacturers, the great majority of them at least, are dead against it."

"We have up there the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which is fighting reciprocity and is therefore aligned with the Conservative party. That fact carries considerable weight and influence, for the association represents many millions of dollars in capital. The majority of the farmers favor reciprocity, and in a way the fight is between the manufacturers and the farmers. I don't believe any reasonable minded manufacturer thinks for one minute he is going to be hurt by reciprocity, but many consider this as a stepping stone to something else, for instance to throwing down the tariff wall. It is similar to the funk manufacturers get into over on this side of the border when there is talk of tariff reform; capital runs to cover and manufacturers are afraid to branch out or take up new lines at such a time.

"The talk of annexation is mere political bluff. The majority of reasoning Canadians feel there is no cause for alarm in that direction. This sort of talk is used in the rural districts, and perhaps effectively. The French habitant is perhaps an ignorant sort of chap and easily influenced by anything sensational, and he is scared by the threat of Canada being gobbled up by the United States."

"I have studied the problem carefully, and I fail to see where our own business can in any way be affected by reciprocity. I can see that business may be disturbed by an agitation over the abolition of a tariff, but Canada has never been as prosperous as it is today."

LABOR AND RECIPROCITY

At the big Fielding meeting in Halifax on Saturday evening, H. J. Logan in the course of his speech read the following letter from J. G. O'Donoghue, the Solicitor of the Dominion Trades Congress, representing over 200,000 organized Canadian workmen:

Toronto, Aug. 30th 1911.
H. J. Logan, Esq., K. C.,
Barrister, etc.,
Amherst, N. S.

Dear Mr. Logan:
You ask me where the organized workers stand on the question of Reciprocity? They themselves have already answered that in their annual conventions. They are undoubtedly for it, because it means the removal of a tax that has been imposed upon the whole people for the benefit of the few, and the workers are always against class privileges. As a member of over thirty Boards of Conciliation, I have had a lot to do with the question of the cost of living of the workers, and it is my firm belief that the adoption of Reciprocity will mean a cheaper breakfast and dinner table to the workers.

That means a couple of dollars a week to the workingman's wife and as she has to "square" the butcher and the baker and the grocer she deserves every consideration. THE TRADES COUNCILS OF WINNIPEG, TORONTO, OTTAWA AND MONTREAL HAVE DECLARED FOR RECIPROCITY.

Sincerely yours,
(Sgd.) J. G. O'DONOGHUE

CARPENTER TO OFFICIATE AT ASTOR WEDDING

Providence, R. I., Sept. 9.—Although he declared he had not been definitely engaged to officiate, Edwin S. Straight, a carpenter of East Providence, who is a retired minister of the Baptist denomination, believes he will perform the ceremony uniting in marriage Col. John Jacob Astor, and Miss Madeline T. Force of New York. Mr. Straight, discussing the matter in his return tonight, from his days work, at the carpenter's banch, said that he was approached last Tuesday by Richard B. Comstock, of Providence, a lawyer, who has sound several ministers in Rhode Island, as to their willingness to officiate at Col. Astor's wedding. Mr. Straight told Mr. Comstock, as he informed reporters yesterday that he will marry anybody with a license, and that he had no objection to performing the marriage ceremony in a case where one of the parties has been divorced.
