POLES USED IN CANADA 1910

The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has compiled statistics dealing with the poles purchased in 1910. The total value of these poles at point of purchase was $1,043,874, and the average price of poles was $1.33 or less by 6 cents than the price per pole in 1909. Steam Railroads, Telephone and Telegraph Companies used 95 per cent. of these poles, the remaining 5 per cent. used by Electric Roads, Power and Light Companies; 97 per cent. of the total consumption were cedar poles, which for their cost give better service than any other wood. At present none of these poles are treated or preserved by any method, in which respect we are far behind the United States. The United States using in 1909 3,738,740 poles at an average cost of $1.89 or at 50 cents more per pole than in Canada, found that it paid them to use preservative methods. During the last three years the treatment of poles has advanced rapidly, so that in 1909, 15 per cent. of the total number were treated by the creosote or other methods. This is an increase of 67 per cent. over the number treated in 1903. At present the United States have 87 timber treating plants, while Canada has none. It is to be hoped that this great inequality will soon be done away with, and that pole users in Canada may take up this cheap and rational method of securing greater service from the poles used and thus lessening the drain on the forest.

THE TERRORS OF THE TINY TADS

1.—The Tiny Tads are wondering what kind of things those are; They think they must be Mailboxes, but can't tell from so far.

2.—"Come here, you pretty things!" they cry; the animals obey; "Just open up our doors and help yourselves," they seem to say.

3.—And so the Tinies open them, and what do you suppose? They find some Omelette, as the picture up there shows.

4.—They eat the Omelette, then they gaily walk along, Enjoying everything they see, suspecting nothing wrong.

5.—But see what happens to their heads! Down comes a lot of ink! It is a Hobgoblin bottle who daubs them thus, I think.

6.—"It will not take us long to clean ourselves," the Tinies shout. "Next week we'll have some brand new things to tell you all about."
