VAN HORNES WEATHER WORN FALLACIES

Sir William Van Horne's manifesto which appears in another column, reveals the panic in which some of our interests are over reciprocity. Like Mr. Meighen, Sir William quotes an ancient speech of a United States politician. It has little bearing on the present situation as the reciprocity, but that blusterer was proposing was entrance into Canada for United States manufacturers, in return for the admission of our raw products. This is the same old impudent, jughanded proposition which was dinned into our ears for a generation, as an evidence of United States generosity to Canada. It was of the heads-I-win-tales-you-lose sort, and never did have, and never could have, anything but contempt from our side of the line.

The whole argument based upon it, let it be noted, rests on the assumption that United States manufactures are to be admitted into Canada by this reciprocity treaty, which is essentially not the case. There is to be a slight reduction on agricultural implements, which Sir William assures the farmers will prove inoperative and there is to be free entrance for paper. It is surely evidence of panic when all the arguers against reciprocity, when once they get out from behind the annexation or people wish it. Sir William says bogy; assume that further free trade will follow. It will not follow unless our people wish it. Sir William says there are not a dozen persons in the Dominion who wish it, when they come to understand it, as unless our people are fools, they surely will believe it comes to pass.

But what is peculiarly terrible is the dire results that are to follow the inauguration of this agreement. It will neither bring the western farmers more for their wheat, nor the Maritime farmers more for their potatoes, nor will it make agricultural implements any cheaper. In short, it will have no appreciable effect. If so, why tell us that it makes us a bed to die in?
Sir William's history is as incorrect as his weatherworn reasoning. He admits that reciprocity was the policy of both parties in the sixties and the seventies. It would be hard not to do so, as it was the cry on which Sir John Macdonald carried on his National Policy war up to the end of the later decade. It is true that, after highly protected, industries had been created, these were afraid of any form of customs reduction, but if the country did not want reciprocity, what took Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster to Washington in the late summer of 1896, whence they came boasting that they had a reciprocity agreement in their pockets.

The recorded utterances of Mr. Foster and many other representatives of the protectionists of that time reveal the fact that the country did not want reciprocity. In fact, but for a treasonable cry of annexation, like the present, the country would have given a mandate for "unrestricted reciprocity." Sir William, who was in the fight, knows all this. He says "bad times that followed the abolition of the old reciprocity treaty—a treaty under which his admits we greatly flourished—produced annexationism in Canada. This is essentially a misstatement." Sir William was then an "American," and may have mingled with "Americans." We never heard surely of more than one public man in Canada, a Mayor of Windsor, who advocated annexation. There may also have been one in Nova Scotia. Some one there was accused of it.

Sir William says the national policy produced a crop of tall chimneys. It produced that crop long before the policy came into being, in the imagination and speeches of its advocates. Sir William's phrase is a quotation from the vivid campaign oratory of Sir Charles Tupper. But the tall chimneys did not sprout at all well. Frantic efforts were made in the census to show an increase of factory operatives, and every milliner with a few girls in her back parlor had to contribute her quota to swell the list. What that policy did do was to make great industries that had flourished without it dependent on the duties and unable without them to go alone. It was hot till 1908 that prosperity set in with a rush, and that was because the country was opening up faster than its enterprises could supply its needs.

AN INTERESTING REPORT

Published everywhere in this issue is the Annual Report for the past year of the Board of Directors of the Canada Cement Company, as read by the President, to the Shareholders, at the Annual Meeting held in Montreal on the 21st of February.
The frank statement of the policy and the general attitude of fairness evidenced by this address, are such as to warrant more than passing comment. Any lay member of the community reading the report must surely feel disposed to echo the hope expressed by the President that the increased demand and increased output in the year to come will result in further savings in the cost of manufacture; and it further cannot be felt by the public at large that any such reductions that may be obtained will according to the broad-minded policy of the Company, be used as an advantage to the customers of the Company—the concern depending for their profits upon increasing volume of business.
Especially interesting is the statement that the policy of the Company is such as to tend towards equalization of the price of cement throughout Canada so far as possible.
Another noteworthy feature of the Report is the provision made for employees to become possessors of stock. This is, as pointed out, a policy already in force in some of the largest institutions and shows that the Canada Cement Company are quick to appreciate any means of stimulating interest and confidence upon the part of the staff.
The strong financial position of the company is a well known fact, and all that is necessary to insure the continued success of the concern is continued prosperity of the country, together with an increased realization of the importance and economy of cement as a building material.

ENGLISH AVIATORS ENTER PROTEST
New York, March 17—The Aero Club of America received from the Royal Aero Club of Great Britain today a protest against awarding the $10,000 statue of liberty prize to Count Jacques de Lesseps as per a decision recently announced. The protest is presumably in the interest of Claude Grahame-White's claim.
It is understood that counsel for the estate of John B. Moissant to whom the prize was first awarded will take the matter to the courts.

SPRING REMINDERS OF RHEUMATISM

Raw, Damp Weather Starts the Pain, But the Trouble Lies in the Blood

Spring weather is bad for rheumatic sufferers. The changes from mild to severe weather, cold, raw, damp following mildness start the aches and twinges, or in more extreme cases, the tortures of the trouble going. But it must be borne in mind that it is not the weather that causes rheumatism, the trouble is rooted in the blood—the changeable weather merely starts the pains. The only way to reach the trouble and cure it is through the blood. The poisonous rheumatic acids must be thrown off and driven out. This is a solemn medical truth every rheumatic sufferer should realize. Liniments and ointment application may give temporary relief but they never did and never can cure rheumatism. A doctor will tell you this is true. The sufferer is wasting time and money with this sort of treatment, and all the time the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted—and harder to cure. There is just one sure speedy cure for rheumatism—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the weak, impure and tainted blood. They purify and strengthen it and thus root out the cause of rheumatism. Here is a bit of proof out of thousands of cases that might be given. Mrs. F. X. Boisseau, St. Jerome, Que., says:—"For almost two years I was a terrible sufferer from rheumatism. The trouble first located in the right leg, making work about the house impossible, and walking very difficult. I tried to cure myself by means of all sorts of liniments and lotions, but with no result—it was only money wasted. The trouble constantly grew worse and the pains more unbearable. Finally it attacked the other leg and I was all but helpless and completely discouraged, thinking I would be a sufferer for the rest of my life. At this time I read in the home paper of the trouble being cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. After using the pills for several weeks I could see that they were helping me and I continued taking them until I had used nine or ten boxes when every symptom of the trouble had disappeared and I could walk as well as ever I did. Had I known of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills earlier I would have saved myself much suffering and much money spent in other useless treatment as well."

Whether you are ailing or not a few boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will increase your vitality and give you increased strength to withstand the torrid summer weather coming when even the strongest feel easily fagged out. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail for 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

ONTARIO FARMER GORED BY BULL
Sarnia, Ont. March 17—John Robbins, an elderly farmer living in the eighth concession of Moore township was so badly gored by an infuriated bull yesterday afternoon that he died shortly afterwards. The animal had broken loose from its stall in the barn and escaped into the yard.
A small boy passing saw the encounter and called the old man's son who beat off the bull, but it was too late.
