DOMINION ELECTION

Nomination . . . Sept. 14th
Polling . . . Sept. 21st
Reciprocity Candidate for York

ALFRED B. ATHERTON, M. D.

FOR BORDEN—FOR BOURASSA

A vote for Mr. Crockett and Mr. Borden is a vote for Mr. Bourassa. A vote for Mr. Bourassa is a vote for the disruption of Canada. Let men who are truly loyal to Canada and to the Empire ponder over what is involved in the alliance of Mr. Borden and the leaders of the Conservative party with Mr. Bourassa and the leaders of the French Nationalists in Quebec.

If that alliance of the old Tory with the old Bleus succeed it would mean the dedication of the Ultramontane separatists within the Conservative party. Mr. Borden would have no more power to control or to shake off Mr. Bourassa than he now has to control or to shake off Mr. Foster. And even were the alliance to fail this time, the very fact that the league has been made between the Conservative leaders and the Nationalists gives organized political power and prestige to what otherwise would never have been more than a passing aspiration. Already Mr. Borden has put into the hands of the enemies of Canadian unity a weapon with which damage may be done more disastrous than all loyalists can repair.

And back of the Nationalist program of a separate French State on the St. Lawrence is the Ultramontane policy of which Mr. Bourassa is the accredited exponent. What spell has been put upon the leaders of the Conservative party that for the sake of party success they should be either so blind or so traitorous as to join hands with the declared enemies of Canada? Let honest citizens consider seriously their own responsibility when a vote for Mr. Borden is a vote for Mr. Bourassa.

SIR JOHN'S TESTIMONY

We have already quoted some views of Sir John Macdonald on reciprocity, to which we add the following. It is an extract from his opening speech in the campaign of 1891, delivered at the Academy of Music, Toronto, on Feb. 21:

"It has been said in the opposition press that we have been rather changing our views. As Sir Charles Tupper has explained, we have been consistent with regard to all questions relating to fiscal policy and the development of trade and the industries of Canada. We have never varied our policy is quite consistent with the desire to extend our trade to all nations of the earth including our neighbors across the border.

"We have offered to the United States to negotiate like two sensible nations, desirous of getting mutual trade. And what does Mr. Blaine say? He says: 'I think we ought to have a basis to negotiate.' And Mr. Blaine went further so anxious was he to meet other views. He said that after the 4th of March he would agree to meet the British minister and a delegation from Canada to consider the question, and that is the position in which the matter stands now."

Mr. H. B. Hetherington, who had a meteoric career as a Tory politician in Quebec County prior to his removal to the west, has been heard from at last. He has a long letter in the St. John Standard condemning reciprocity. Mr. Hetherington at one time travelled about the province lecturing on "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion." Now he says he is engaged in "rescue mission work." The fiery outburst of this fanatic in the column of the Standard part of which is featured in black type should make votes for the Liberal cause.

Mr. O. S. Crockett pretends to think that the County of York is in need of more manufacturing industries. His newspaper mouthpiece considers it good policy to slander and ridicule those who have their money invested in industries which give employment to labor. The latest target for its abuse is Mr. Ellwood Burt, the well-known lumberman and mill-owner of Burt's Corner. Mr. Crockett and his organ will gain nothing by such tactics.

In a speech at Buckingham, P. Q., on Monday, Mr. Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, according to The Montreal Star, related this little bit of Tory history: "The Nationalist ideas are the same as Sir J. A. Macdonald expressed when, in 1885, after Gordon was massacred at Khartoum, he refused to send contingents to Egypt." What do the "truly loyal" Tories of York think about that?

Our old friend, Mr. William Lemont, is "whooping her up" against Reciprocity in this campaign. Mr. Lemont does not need Reciprocity. As soon as the elections are over it is his intention to hike for the United States and annex himself to that country for the winter. One member of his family has already established himself in Uncle Sam's domain and two others will accompany Mr. Lemont.

The defeat of Reciprocity means that inside of three years twenty-five million feet of American logs, which now come down the St. John River to the mills, will be manufactured in Maine. This is about one-fourth of the entire cut and will mean a twenty-five per cent. reduction in the number of men employed. How do the business men of Fredericton like the prospect?

If the municipal elections in Manners-Sutton were run on party lines, the vote polled by the minority candidates seem to indicate that it was not altogether a false alarm that caused O. S. Crockett to hastily break an engagement to speak at Foster's meeting, and take the first train for Harvey. It looks as if Manners-Sutton is breaking away from Toryism in the Reciprocity question.

Engrossing Clerk Bliss has been trying to frighten the farmers of York by telling them that Reciprocity will admit the products of the favored nations to Canada. Mr. Bliss should go a little further and tell the people that if we fail to get Reciprocity one quarter of the lumber now rafted at the Fredericton booms will be manufactured in Maine.

If Mr. Lewis Bliss could succeed in turning out the Federal government it would make little difference to him if no American logs came down the St. John River. Other people, with a stake in the country, however, and who are not looking for a government job, would feel the loss very keenly.

The fact that Mr. Ellwood Burt is the owner of two automobiles which are paid for and registered in his own name is urged by the local Tory organ as a reason why the farmers of York should vote against Dr. Atherton and reciprocity. It is a small canvas and worthy of a small politician.

Mr. O. S. Crockett has contested two elections in York and on both occasions he has been in a minority in his home city of Fredericton. The indications are that the majority against him here on Sept. 21st will be larger than ever. His opponents in the previous contests did not reside in the city.

Toronto Globe.—If Mr. Borden cannot eulogize both Messrs Bourassa and Monk during his Quebec tour, can he make a pet of one without angering the other or — But what's the use? Mr. Borden has about as much use for either as they have for him. All three have but one common desire—to defeat Laurier.

Having elected his candidates in the municipal election, Mr. John A. Young has established a very good claim on the Tory nomination for the next local election. The outlook is certainly none too bright for the St. Marys doctor who is anxious to become a member of the legislature.

It is reported that one loud-mouthed Tory who is now stumping York against Reciprocity, was recently compelled to go to an American lumbering concern and ask for an advance on some logs which are lying in his mill-pond. This same man is accusing the Liberals of being annexationists.

The sturdy electors of Stanley, the majority of whom will reap great benefits from Reciprocity, now have an opportunity to administer a well merited rebuke to the office-seeking bosses of the village who have long boasted of their ability to control the votes of the parish.

North Shore Leader.—Dr. Bryne has taken the stump for Hon. D. Morrison. The doctor was a staunch Liberal up to a few months ago. What a difference a small hospital appointment makes with people that have little ballast.

Where is the merchant in the city of Fredericton who does not strive to increase his trade year by year? If it is right for individuals to increase their trade it is certainly wrong for a nation to do the thing.

From 1851 to 1861 when reciprocity the province of New Brunswick increased its population 58,157 people. From 1861 to 1891 under the National Policy the population increased by 100,000.

The Tory organ is claiming that have come to Canada during the last five years. At this time, but who ever heard of an American farmer coming to Canada to work the Tories are governing the country.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux in a recent speech in Quebec, took occasion to tend to some good advice to Roman Catholic priests as to how he found they were playing the role of Tory partisans.

Mr. R. L. F. Borden, the Tory leader, spent Sunday at St. Andrews, the guest of Sir William Van Horne. Sir William is one of the millionaires who does not want Reciprocity.

The Tory platform in York in the Federal election of 1900 was Purity, Prohibition and Patriotism. Mr. Crockett has dropped everything except the last named plank.

DR. SILAS ALWARD
EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS

which sacred trust I feel I never betrayed. I appear before you tonight as a voter, not a politician; as one who has nothing to gain or expect from the triumph or failure of either party, save and except the best interests of my native province and adopted city.

I am not before you tonight to make an apology for my political record; nor do I intend to deal in personalities, but to speak upon the overshadowing questions of the hour. These questions are beyond the range of party or personal friendship.

After dealing with Dr. Pugsley's great work for the port of St. John, and expressing his cordial approval of the reciprocity agreement Dr. Alward said:

"You will, on the 21st of the month, say in a most pronounced and emphatic manner—Well done good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful in a few things, we will make you lord over many. No man in public life, in New Brunswick, has been more bitterly assailed than my friend Mr. Pugsley. And yet he appears not to notice it. It seems to pass him by as the idle wind that he regards not. It appears to have no more effect upon that placid nature than the sting of the wasp upon the trip of the shield of Achilles. Our minister (political) seems modelled after the minister (clerical) so graciously referred to, who, after already referred to, who, 'Allures to brighter worlds the way.'"

LET HIM FINISH WORK

Leave our minister to complete the great work on to lines laid down. We need his greatest knowledge and man, at this crisis in our national life; a man who possesses intellectual power, greater capacity for work and far be it from an optimist among pessimists. No greater credit could be given a man than accorded by the position, which entreats them to lay their hands, and leave well enough alone. When the Liberal party took up the seals of office, the opposition were positive that, on their first appeal to the people, they would go down to sure and certain defeat. But election has followed election, till after the lapse of fifteen years, they now again appeal to the people, and opposition pays them the flattering compliment: "Leave well enough alone." What greater commendation. They reply "No, we will go on to the accomplishment of great things."

"New occasions teach new duties; times makes ancient good uncouth. They must upward still, and onward, who will keep abreast of truth." The career of the great Liberal party down through the centuries has been as unrelenting as it has been unpausing, and its lofty mission will not be fulfilled till liberty and justice shall become the birthright of the humblest citizens of our great dominion wherever the flag floats and the roll of its drums is heard.

A great storm of applause marked the conclusion of Dr. Alward's speech and no one who saw the enthusiasm he created could doubt its effect.

ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING

There was an enthusiastic gathering at the Anti-Reciprocity Committee Rooms at about nine o'clock last night consisting of four men and a boy. The latter was dancing for edification of the others. This is one of the instances of the manner in which the electors of Fredericton are opposing Reciprocity.

EXPECTS GOOD TIMES

Mr. Joseph O'Leary who has lived in Boston twelve years working as an employee of an express company has returned to his former home, Newmarket, and leased a farm. Mr. O'Leary says that his knowledge of conditions in Boston have led to believe that if reciprocity becomes a fact that the farmers of New Brunswick will have a great chance for a market in the New England States.

Mr. James P. Tyerell of Montreal is at the Barker House.

As a result of the municipal elections the members of the highway board in Stanley, being all in one end of the parish, will find it convenient to attend meetings.

Even though party lines did not cut much figure in the recent municipal election contest there will be more Liberals in the new council than there was in the old one.

Solicitor General McLeod has abandoned Mr. Crockett and gone up to Madawaska to give Mr. Max Cormier a helping hand.

Dr. Atherton, the Reciprocity candidate in York, is meeting with great success in his canvass of the county.

Mr. Crockett had a majority of 860 in the last Federal election in York and there were 1400 votes unpolled.

It is not surprising that the border parish of North Lake should have returned a supporter of reciprocity at the recent municipal election.
