STRAY TOPICS FROM LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 30.—Within a few weeks, New York City will lose another famous landmark, closely connected with the early history of lower Manhattan. St. John's Chapel, the noted Episcopal house of worship in Varick street, the cornerstone of which was laid in 1803, will be torn down to make room for the widening of Varick street and the extension of Seventh Avenue. The street improvements which are undoubtedly much needed, were decided upon by the city some time ago and the work will soon be begun. The chapel which is the property of the Corporation of Trinity Church, was considered by architects a fine specimen of the British Georgian period. The chapel which cost $172,000 a large sum for that time, was dedicated in 1807. It contained a fine organ built in Philadelphia, which cost $6,000. In 1812 the fine instrument was carried away by a British cruiser and was recovered only after payment of a $2,000 ransom. Among the distinguished families which used to worship in the chapel in the early days were the Veseyes, the Barclays, the Charltons and the Lispenards. After fifty years an alarming exodus of families of rank began. The leading citizens one by one removed to less crowded localities in the northern part of the island and warehouses took the place of the handsome dwelling houses. In 1908 the Trinity vestrymen decided that the chapel had outgrown its usefulness and steps were taken to sell the property. The chapel then had 735 communicants and 1058 baptized persons connected with it. The action of Trinity called forth a torrent of criticism, and the legal fight went to the Supreme Court. In the end the Trinity vestrymen agreed to keep the chapel open so long as it appeared that there was a religious need for the work.

The closing week of the Coney Island season, with its so-called Carnival, is a thing of the past and the decent citizens of New York sincerely hope that the "Carnival" just ended will have been the last ever held in Coney. Ever since this Carnival feature was introduced by the owners of the amusement places, hotels and restaurants in Coney Island, the closing week of every season was scarcely more than an orgy of rowdiness, licentiousness and lawlessness in general. This year the conditions were far worse than ever before and the scenes at Coney during the closing week were chaos and riot. Women were insulted and subjected to violence, children kicked about and trampled upon, while the men belonging to the decent and law-abiding class were utterly helpless in their efforts to put a stop to the roidism and to protect the women from insult and abuse. The police, although a small army of them were on the ground, were absolutely helpless and unable to suppress the excesses of rowdiness. The newspapers have taken the matter and a determined effort will be made to put an end to such disgraceful scenes during the closing weeks at Coney Island in the future.

Recklessness and greed are liable to prey any person in trouble, particularly when that person is an offender against the law. A young man who claims to be from Kansas, asked a saloon keeper in Newark the other day to cash a check for $25 for him. The saloon-keeper with an eye to business was willing and gave the young man $23.50 all he had to spare just then and asked him to return later for the rest. Later in the day, the young man tempted by his cupidity, actually returned for the balance. The saloon-keeper however had learned in the meantime that the check was worthless. He did not expect to see the young Kansan again. When the Westerner came for the balance the saloon keeper had him promptly arrested.

The home of a wealthy Flatbush resident, who is still with his family at their summer home near Brewster, N. Y., was visited by burglars the other afternoon. Before going to his summer home the owner of the house had placed all his valuables in storage leaving only the heavy pieces of furniture in the house. The burglars who had expected to make a big haul were so disappointed that in their fury they wrecked every piece of furniture in the house doing considerable damage. But there was absolutely nothing for them to steal.

Somebody evidently thinks that New York is not sufficiently supplied with theatres for several lots on the South side of West Forty-eighth street were sold the other day to same person whose name is kept secret and who intends to erect upon the ground a new theatre. There are rumors in circulation which connect the name of nearly every prominent manager with the project, but all of them plead not guilty, and this puzzling uncertainty is causing a great deal of talk and speculation in the theatrical districts.

Two boys, one of them five, the other nine years old were brought before the Children's Court the other day on a charge of burglary. They were arrested in the house of a retired merchant, into which they had broken and had gathered up several thousand dollars worth of jewelry, bric-a-brac and clothing, all ready to be taken away, when they were surprised by the police. The young offenders boldly and proudly confessed their guilt and steadfastly refused to disclose the identity of the older boys, who they said, had induced them to break into the house, promising them $1 each. In view of the youth the boys were paroled in the custody of their parents.

More than a week ago a young scamp of about seventeen years held up and robbed a Brooklyn tobacco-nist. The tobacco-nist's daughter, a little girl of ten years, who was an eyewitness of the hold-up, saw the young highwayman on the street the other day. Without saying a word to anybody she called up the nearest police station by telephone and asked that a detective be sent to her assistance. When the man of the law arrived the little girl pointed out the young highwayman and had him arrested. When the offender was brought before a magistrate, his counsel, making a strong plea for the boy, asked the tobacco-nist to consent to a parole. The tobacco-nist was willing, but his daughter insisted that he be punished and it required a great deal of persuasion to induce her to relent. It was the mother of the prisoner who won the girl's consent, after she had promised that her wayward son should report every week not only to the officials but also to the girl's father.

WOULD BAR SIFTON FROM LONDON POST

Winnipeg, Sept. 29.—There is a general interest here in the remarkably strong-worded editorial, attacking Hon. Clifford Sifton, of The Free Press, which appeared in The Telegram newspaper yesterday, in connection with the recent campaign.

In regard to the stand taken by The Free Press in support of reciprocity while Mr. Sifton did such strenuous work against it in the east.

The Telegram makes use of the expressions "Lust of the wolf" and "Cunning of the fox" in reference to Mr. Sifton. The consensus of opinion here is that The Telegram article is very plainly intended as a demonstration against any recognition by Mr. Borden of Mr. Sifton's services in the campaign. Highly significant is the fact that coincident with the appearance of this savage onslaught on Sifton in the Conservative paper, Hon. R. Rogers started post haste for Ottawa. There is an idea in Conservative circles here that Mr. Sifton has Mr. Borden's promise of the high commissionership in London. If there is any truth in this it is very evident that Mr. Rogers, who is admittedly in control of the Conservative organization here, has made up his mind to wage a determined campaign with a view to preventing the fulfilment of any such promise.

BAR COMMON DRINKING CUPS

New York, Sept. 30.—Following the example of Massachusetts, New Jersey and several other States, New York City will tomorrow put into force a law to prohibit the use of "common drinking cups" in any place of public resort or employment such as parks, theatres, schools, railroad stations, factories and workshops.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It's a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness to the scalp entirely disappear.

Don't neglect your hair. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and you will be surprised at the quick results.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

ANTI-LAURIER POETRY USED IN ONTARIO

An interesting indication of the kind of campaign conducted against the Liberal party in portions of Ontario has come to light in the shape of a pamphlet entitled, "Who's Going to Rule This Country?" Designed for circulation in those parts of the province where Protestant sentiment is most militant and the Orange organization, the pamphlet consisted mainly of two sets of verses, one a supposed "Special Order from His Holiness the Pope," and the other "Canada's Reply to the Pope of Rome." A few extracts from each ditty are as follows:

SPECIAL ORDERS FROM HIS HOLINESS THE POPE.

Down on your knees, Ontario! and make obeisance low.
 To me, your sovereign Lord and King, as Canada shall know,
 Too long your recreant Protestants have scorned my holy plans,
 But now your haughty populace must bow to my commands.

Close up your schools, Ontario! and I will teach your young,
 Your English cannot be compared with the old Lat'n tongue,
 You educate them far too well, you make them sharp and wise,
 And what you call the "sins of Rome" you keep before their eyes,

Hearken to me, all Canada! Sir Wilfrid is my son;
 All that a son could do for me, he verily has done,
 His plans are laid, his men told off—and soon with one great rush,
 The enemies of Holy Church for ever we will crush.

CANADA'S REPLY TO THE POPE OF ROME.

Ye Protestants of Canada arise in all your might,
 Your liberties are threatened, grave dangers are in sight,
 The sky is dark, the clouds are black and soon the thunder's roar
 Will echo loud, while lightnings flash from distant shore to shore—
 The storm blows straight from Rome!

Will he succeed? shall we submit to be the slaves of Rome—
 Shall we allow her priests and nuns to regulate the home?
 To part asunder man and wife, and let the children go?
 Ten thousand voices cry aloud emphatically "NO."

We will not bow to Rome!

We treat with scorn and deep contempt her "Ne Temere" decree,
 And fling the answer in her face—"Young Canada is Free!"
 We stand beneath the Union Jack, ready to face the foe—
 To chase the tyrant from the land and let the world know
 We do not bow to Rome.

As Bob Moha failed to post a forfeit his bout with "Cyclone" Thompson at New Orleans Oct. 8 has been called off.

FASHIONS FOR THE MARRIED WOMAN

In the matter of colors (and except for the vivid green, which is more a compliment to the Irish than because it is really one of the season's colorings) we are emerging from the craze for brilliant tints which have held sway all the year, and those who are "in the know" tell us that greys and blues are to be the leading favorites. It allows a good wide choice, as there are innumerable shades of both blue and grey and when the two are put together—as they not infrequently are—a lovely soft harmony is obtained. A note of brilliancy is sometimes struck by the silk coats, which may be, and of course, of flaming red or orange, and crude greens and purples; but no matronly matron would dream of wearing such a garment, for they are very conspicuous, and to increase the width of the shoulders—a not-at-all-to-be-desired effect on the stout or middle-aged, but rather charming on the young and slim for whom fashion caters as a rule. But it is possible to make these little coats in silk which matches the dress, or something dark and harmonizing with it, and then they are a very becoming addition to any woman's wardrobe; and very ornamental when enhanced, as most of them are, with rich embroideries or handsome lace. Although designed for ornament only, they are also useful, especially when at the seaside, when the scarf and mantelet is also a much-needed garment. We have at last learned how to wear scarves gracefully, and realize their value as a completion of a costume. The only thing against them is that they are very costly—at least the best are; it is impossible to get rich embroidery and rich materials cheaply, but it is quite possible to make a delightful scarf for oneself for very little money out of three yards of printed nylon. Line it with chiffon, the color of the flowers, and bind it with a two or three-inch wide band of satin, which matches the ground of the nylon; the ends may be left square and finished with fringe, or gathered up and ornamented with a tassel. Some of the quaintest have "flower fringes" at each end, made out of sprays of lily of the valley, quaking grass, forget-me-nots, etc., and sometimes trailing sprays of ribbon roses and foliage are worked on the nylon. Besides the scarf proper there is a great revival of little scarf-like "Mantelettes" which are made in nylon silk muslin, crepe de chine, or any soft, silky material. Some are shawl-shaped, back and front, others are plain, long scarves caught up in the middle of the back and gathered together above the waist across the fronts. But one of the newest took the form of a Roman Cross (at least it would have done if it were laid out flat; the short square top formed the back, with a tassel draping from each corner, and hanging down below the waistline; the two side pieces fell over the arms to below the elbow, with a shorter section joining it to the back; the long front was split up the middle, the neck rounded at the back but sloping in a V to the waist where it fastened under an ornamental clasp. There was a rolled collar of the same silk as the mantle, and little tassels hung at the two front corners as well as the corners of the sleeves. Altogether it was a very fascinating little garment, warm enough for autumn evenings, yet very smart and ornamental, and it might be carried out in anything velvet, fur, or cloth, when the winter days are upon us.

GRIDIRON SEASON BEGINS IN THE WEST
 Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—Today marks the real opening of the football season in the middle west, though several of the college teams made their debut a week ago, while others will not begin their schedules until next week. The outlook for a successful season is regarded as promising. Minnesota is reported to have fully as good a team as last year, when the Gophers disputed with Michigan the championship of the West. Illinois, which also claimed the championship, is back with as strong if not a stronger team than last season, and Illinois and Indiana likewise have put formidable elevens in the field. At Michigan the coaches are reported to be well satisfied with the outlook. Iowa rejoices in the return of practically all of the veterans of last year, and Purdue is hopeful of making a much better showing than in 1910. Wisconsin again is an unknown quantity, as are Chicago and Northwestern.

The strong teams, however, are not confined to the "big eight" or to Michigan. Notre Dame and Marquette will be well up in the running and Nebraska is considered on par with some of the "big eight" elevens. Lake Forest, Beloit, Knox and Washburn, not to mention Michigan Agricultural College, which beat some of the best last year, are expected to be found near the front when the season closes.

The most important game scheduled for today is that between Minnesota and Iowa State College, at Northrop field. Indiana will play De Pauw at Bloomington and Ohio State will face Oberlin at Columbus.

Young Corbett has been given a license to referee bouts by the boxing commission in New York.
