OCTOGENARIAN TO FAST EIGHT DAYS

Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—Dr. Henry S. Tanner, the advocate of prolonged fasting as a cure for disease, today celebrated his eighty-first birthday by beginning a fast which he will endeavor not to break for eighty consecutive days.

"I am going to try to show a good way to settle once and for all the Beef Trust and the high cost of living," said Dr. Tanner today. "I am good for an eighty-day fast, and intend to accomplish it. I shall live to be a century, and when I pass the hundred-year mark I am going to get married. Sick people think that I must come to the drug shops in order to get well again; but fasting is a growing sentiment, and it is all nonsense when a person stops at the end of thirty days.

DOGS HAVE SPOILED SHEEP RAISING

W. A. McKAY

Mr. W. A. McKay said he could remember when 600 or 700 head of sheep were kept within the limits of the City of Fredericton. Dogs had ruined the sheep-raising industry, not only in the city but also in the country.

Mr. C. R. Gunter said he had got 18 cents per pound for unwashed wool at the mill. He favored the Shropshire breed. He thought credit should be given the local government for what it had done.

Mr. A. D. Thomas said that the practice of the farmers of using their own rams was dying out mainly because bred rams had been imported. The local government deserved credit but credit was also due its predecessor.

JAMES MITCHELL

Mr. James Mitchell said that he could not see why the farmers could not raise sheep in this province. It was done in the west. He felt sure that sheep could run in the winter much better than was generally supposed. He had had experience both in the west and in New Brunswick. Out west 14 cents per pound was the price.

HON. GEO. J. COLTER

Hon. George J. Colter said that the country along the main River St. John was better for sheep than that on the Keswick and uplands.

COMMISSIONER RITCH

Mr. Ritch addressing those present said that the price obtained for a sheep's wool should pay for the maintenance of the animal. The average yearly cost was $2.00 to $2.25. Speaking of the dog nuisance Mr. Ritch said that in England dog-licenses cost 7s. d. ($1.90) with exemption for trained sheep-dogs. In Ireland the license was 5s. ($1.25) with no exemption. In Australia it was 10s. ($2.50) with no exemption. He had never heard of a dog-licence in any country but Canada. Dipping was universally practiced in the great sheep-raising countries. Sheep were dipped twice a year and the quality of wool greatly improved.

Dealing with wool-marketing systems, Mr. Ritch gave figures showing the number of head of sheep in various countries of the world. Canada, he said, had been the most backward of the new countries of the world as far as sheep-raising was concerned. The climate was supposed to be one cause of the lack of development. Yet Russia, with a similar climate, had made great strides in sheep-raising. Mr. Ritch then quoted the following figures to show the number of head of sheep in the various countries of the world:

GHOULS ROB VAULT; SECURE ONE BOY

Erie, Pa., Feb. 9.—With the remains of Mrs. McCollum, sister-in-law of the late Congressman William L. Scott, missing from the family vault, there has come to light a case of body-snatching that may equal the daring grave ghouls who stirred the country more than a quarter of a century ago, when the body of A. T. Stewart, New York's pioneer merchant, was stolen.

The discovery that the Scott mausoleum had been desecrated was made by two women. The police believe the body is being held for ransom, and that the vandals also intended to carry away the bodies of the millionaire and his wife.

The caskets had been sealed in recesses in the walls, in the seal over the remains of Mrs. Scott was also broken and when the tomb was examined it was found that this casket was halfway out and to all appearances was ready to be carried away. The remains of the millionaire were lying next to those of his wife, but his casket was not disturbed. A number of palms stored in the vault had been broken down and two other caskets were broken into, but no attempt was made to carry either of them away.

Congressman Scott was one of the most prominent railroad magnates of his time and was president and director of railroads in the United States and Canada.

Capt. J. A. Read leaves on Monday morning for Washington, D.C., to take command of the bark, Edna M. Smith.

IN GREAT BRITAIN.

In Great Britain clipping was the same as in Canada. The clipped wool was divided into three classes, hogget, withers and ewes. Hogget wool was the first clip off a sheep and better than any other because of its spinning qualities. Withers were few in number. Ewes, which were in good condition, were classed with whithers. The wool was then packed in bags supplied by the wool-brokers. The bags are of hemp. Jute should never be used. The wool is sold at wool-fairs held shortly after the shearing season. Wool-merchants generally bought the wool and stored it auctioning when required. He also described the grading system, followed by the wool-merchants, and the sorting system at the English mills.

IN AUSTRALIA.

Mr. Ritch also described the Australian sheep-raising system with large runs and clipping by machinery. The sorting, he said, was done on the runs immediately after being clipped and packed in pressed bales on the runs also.

Tub-washed wool he said, was a thing of the past in countries where scientific sheep-raising was practiced. Tub-washing made it impossible to properly grade wool and consequently lowers the price.

CANADA HAS FUTURE.

Canada had a future before it as a sheep-raising country. It was important to shear, wash, etc., properly. An increase in the number of sheep would mean an increase in the wool-export trade, with better prices. Canadian mills were giving good prices for wool when the method of washing, etc., was taken into consideration.

A DEER STORY FROM NEW YORK

Tarrytown, N. Y., February 9.—Adrift in the middle of the Hudson river on a flow of ice which was being carried down the stream by the tide, a wild deer late yesterday engaged in battle for more than an hour with an eagle, which hovered over the animal.

Hundreds of passengers on the New York Central trains witnessed the strange sight. Residents of Tarrytown who have lived along the Hudson river for decades could not recall having witnessed such a spectacle.

Unless the ice floe breaks up or is carried out of the open channel the wild deer should reach New York before Sunday. Scores of photographs were taken by those gathered along the river. Boatmen believed the deer will be captured alive by some small craft further down river.

HERE'S A CHANCE.

The Daily Mail will be sent by mail to any address from now until the close of the ensuing session of the Legislature, for only twenty-five cents. It will contain full reports of the debates and committee meetings and as this will in all probability be the last session of the present Legislature, the proceedings promise to be of exceptional interest. The paper will be sent from this date the order is received.

CANTERBURY.

Feb. 6.—The weather for the past week has been very cold, with frequent snow storms, which keeps the unemployed men busy breaking the roads, and also favors the lumbermen who are busily engaged at their work.

Rev. Mr. Smith, our Methodist minister, could not fulfil his appointments last Sunday, on account of the snow-storm on Saturday. The prospects are not much better for this Sunday.
