WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

Which Will Be Visited by The Mail Part of Tourists in December.

Where is Bermuda? Every one has heard of it, yet many well-informed people will be puzzled when asked that question. Bermuda is on the other side of the Gulf Stream, a most important fact, as that great warm current is the impassable barrier that protects the little group of coral islands from cold and inclement weather and confers upon them all the charm of the Tropics, without the disadvantages sometimes experienced in the latitudes between Cancer and Capricorn. Bermuda is not, strictly speaking, within the Tropics, though most tropical vegetation flourishes luxuriantly in its balmy climate nor does it belong to the West Indies, though possessing many of their characteristics.

The Islands are within forty-five hours' sail of New York, by the fast and commodious steamships of the Quebec Steamship Company, Ltd. Should an inquirer want more precise details, he will learn that their latitude is about 32 degrees, 16 latitude north, and longitude about 64 degrees, 50 latitude west, and that they lie 600 miles east by south from Cape Hatteras; that the group is some 25 miles in length; that it consists of four principal islands, connected by bridges, and a smaller islet; and that the area is about 194 square miles.

When the traveller leaves New York in Winter for Bermuda, he usually leaves a snow-clad shore with an icy wind blowing briskly. The crowd of people who come to see their fortunate friends off for more genial climes, stand shivering on the end of Pier 47, and watch with interest the big steamer pull out and turn her prow toward the south. Only the most hardy ones remain on deck to have a last view of New York and the Statue of Liberty. Fewer still are there as Sandy Hook is left behind; the hospital warmth of the steamer's social hall and commodious saloon is more acceptable. The next day a perceptible difference is noticed; gradually wraps and overcoats are laid aside, and a grateful change in the quality of the atmosphere is experienced. The promenade deck is the popular resort, and passengers only

"go below" when the welcome announcements from the dining-saloon about the excellent cuisine of the Quebec Steamship Company's steamship would tempt less vigorous appetites than old Ocean's ozone has already produced. When the Gulf Stream is passed, both sky and water take on brighter and deeper hues. In the warm seas flying-fish may be seen sporting and skimming from wave to wave. At length the Islands rise into view, emerald green and sparkling white in a placid sea of richest turquoise. The colored pilot comes aboard, and guides the ship through the coral tur as the steamer approaches the wharf. Its white houses, glistening in the bright sunshine, rise from the water front on a gentle eminence, and contrast pleasantly with the green foliage of many gardens. On the busy wharf are gathered many people, for the arrival of the steamer from New York is quite an event in Bermuda. The formalities of the Custom House are quickly and courteously transacted, and serve chiefly to remind the visitor that he is in a foreign land, but still within the realms of His Majesty King George V. Bermuda's houses are built of coral, nouncement of dinner or supper summons the reef, the ship speeds along the coast for many miles, while the passengers enjoy a matchless panorama of low, rolling, verdure-crowned hills, white houses nestling amid the richest foliage—palms and cedars and tropical flowers—changing with every mile.

At last the capital of Bermuda, Hamilton, is reached—a charming picture the same coral rock of which the Islands themselves consist.

It is white, and, when cut from the quarry, is soft, so that it is easily sawn into blocks of any shape, but hardens rapidly upon exposure to the air. Of this beautiful stone, not only the walls, but even the roofs of the houses are made, and very picturesque the snow-white houses appear, nestling amid the foliage and flowers of the gardens.

LISTEN TO US

"We are only little ones, but we know Zam-Buk eased our pain and cured our sores. Perhaps it would cure you, too, if you tried it?"

Isn't this sound advice from "babes and sucklings?" Take it! The speakers are the children of Mrs. L. Webster, of Seymour St., Montreal, and the mother adds weight to their appeal. She says: "My little girl contracted scalp disease at school. Bad gatherings formed all over her head, and not only caused the child acute pain but made her very ill. The sores discharged, and occurring on the scalp we feared she would lose all her hair. She was in a pitiable plight when we tried Zam-Buk, but a few days' treatment with this balm gave her ease. Then the sores began to heal, and we continued the Zam-Buk treatment. In a short time she was quite healed.

"My little boy sustained a serious scald on the neck. It set up a bad sore, and quite a few things we tried failed to heal it or give him ease. Once more we turned to Zam-Buk, and we were not disappointed. It acted like a charm in drawing away the pain, and soon healed the wound."

Zam-Buk is "something different" in the way of balms. It contains powerful healing herbal essences, which, as soon as applied to skin diseases, kill off the germs and end the painful smarting. Other essences contained there so stimulate the cells that new healthy tissue is speedily formed. Eczema, itch, ulcers, cold sores, abscesses, festering sores, blood poisoning, chronic wounds, cold cracks, etc., are healed and cured in this way. Use it for all skin injuries and diseases. It is also of great service for piles. All druggists and stores at 50 cents box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.
