JAPANESE WHALERS

Often Dragged Far Down in Depths
Clinging to Huge Creatures

Many of the Japanese whalers are most expert and daring men. After a whale has been cornered, harpooned, and is slowly giving out from exhaustion, the nimble expert of the whaling crew must prove his mettle. The skilled Jap, after jumping upon the animal's back and cutting two gashes in the head, one on either side, through which a rope must be run and tied, cannot always perform his work in one trial. Often the animal makes a deep dive. But the little Jap must hold fast to his quarry, and dive also, trusting to the fact that his own air supply in his lungs will last as long as that of the whale's.

The Jap is safer from being drowned than from being crushed by the infuriated animal's tail. If the little Jap lets go it usually means his death—so he hangs on to the diving quarry. Frequently these whalers lose their lives from drowning, but the members of their crew look upon this misfortune with something of a fatalistic regard.

But the main business in hand is the capture of the whale. As the fight progresses, and the maddened, frightened mammal grows weaker, finally, is dying, the boat crews row closer to the body and pray for the ease of his departing spirit. Members of the crew will call out the words, "Joraku! Joraku! Joraku!" and on the third day after the mammal has been hauled ashore a service is held and prayers offered for the animal's future contentment of spirit.

As soon as the animal has been towed to the shore line he is cut up, the Japs making huge excavations and penetrating inside the animal's body as though entering a mine shaft or gallery, and eventually making their exit all covered with blood. It is a gruesome sight, but is looked upon purely as a matter of course among the Jap whalers.

HOURS OF SLEEP

Scientist Says Ten Hours at Least
Absolutely Necessary

Prof. C. L. Schleich, who discovered the "local anesthetic," now used universally, is one of the most eminent of medical authorities. He has come out boldly with the assertion that the old adage "eight hours for work, eight hours for pleasure and eight hours for sleep," is unquestionably false. The civilized man or woman of to-day, Professor Schleich declares, has to sleep ten hours out of 24 if he or she would check the wear and tear of our modern neuroathemic existence. Those who cannot sleep even eight hours must learn it by "iron force." "Go to bed at 9," says the professor; "if you lie awake four hours, in time you will drop asleep in three, and before long within half an hour after retiring . . . force yourself to sleep and you will master life." Thus, with "gymnastics of the blood vessels," exercise, "with tyrannical regularity, you can bid defiance to time."

Hens That Hatch Fish

As is generally known, a big quantity of fish spawn is annually lost. To avoid this fish-rearers in China carefully collect spawn from the surface of the water, and when they have secured a sufficient quantity they have a number of hens' eggs, the contents of which have been carefully emptied through a small aperture, and refill the shells with the spawn. The holes are then sealed up and the eggs put under broody hens. The hens are allowed to incubate the eggs for a certain number of days, when the eggs are again broken and their contents put into water that has been previously warmed by the sun. In a very short space of time the spawn hatches, and the young fry are then kept in pure fresh water until they attain a sufficient size to be put into the ponds containing older fish. The Chinese have long understood all the intricacies of incubation, and were amongst the first to use incubators for the hatching of hens' eggs.

Lived in Three Centuries

The oldest Welshman in the world is Mr. Thomas Morris, who lives at Westerville, Nebraska. Although he is now an American citizen, he was born a subject of George III., at the little village of Berlew, Montgomery shire, 120 years ago.

His father was an agricultural laborer, and died when the boy was three years old. Morris was apprenticed to a cobbler, and followed his trade in Wales until 1871, when, at the age of seventy-seven, he emigrated. The old man is very proud of the fact that he has lived in three centuries. Morris can still walk with the aid of a stick and see with the aid of spectacles. His hearing is good.

GUARD AGAINST CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera infantum is one of the most fatal ailments of childhood and during the hot summer months thousands of little lives are lost by its ravages. The best way to guard against it is to give the baby an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets never fail to regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, thus preventing cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and all other stomach and bowel complaints. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPH CO. MAKING TEST

A force of electrical and mechanical engineers is now engaged at the two stations of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company at Belmar and New Brunswick, N.J., making the final tests of the apparatus by which the company expects to establish a direct transatlantic service by September 1 between this country and Wales, and from there with England and the continent. When communications between these stations has been brought about, the most important link in the round-the-world wireless, which is to be known as the "imperial chain," will have been completed. The New Jersey stations are only two of eighteen that are now nearing completion in the world circuit. About a year and a half will be required to put all into working order. Messages across the United States will be sent between the New Jersey stations and two high-power stations at Boinas and Marshall, Cal. California is linked to the Orient by stations in Japan and Honolulu. With the exception of the stations in England, China and Japan, which are under government control, all the others are owned by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company.

Selwyn and Co., have accepted for production early in the fall a novelty farce called "Peace and Quiet," by Edwin Milton Royle, author of "The Squaw Man."

How She Compels Others to Obey
Her Will

100,000 COPIES OF REMARKABLE BOOK DESCRIBING PECULIAR PSYCHIC POWERS TO BE DISTRIBUTED POST FREE TO READERS OF 'THE FREDERICTON MAIL.'

"The wonderful power of Personal Influence, Magnetism, Fascination, Mind Control, call it what you will, can surely be acquired by everyone; no matter how unattractive or unsuccessful," says Mr. Elmer Ellsworth Knowles, author of the new book entitled: "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces." The book lays bare many astounding facts concerning the practices of the Eastern Yogis, and describes a simple though effective system of controlling the thoughts and acts of others; how one may gain the love and friendship of those who might otherwise repel him.

In different, how to quickly and accurately judge the character and disposition of an individual; how to cure the most obstinate diseases and habits without drugs or medicines; even the complex subject of projecting thoughts (telepathy) is explained. Miss Josephine Davis, the popular stage favourite, whose portrait appears herewith, declares that Prof. Knowles' book opens the door to success, health and happiness in every mortal, no matter what his or her position in life. She believes that Prof. Knowles has discovered principles which, if universally adopted, will revolutionize the mental status of the human race.

The book, which is being distributed broadcast free of charge, is full of photographic reproductions showing how these unseen forces are being used all over the world, and how thousands upon thousands have developed powers which they little dreamed they possessed. The free distribution of the 100,000 copies is being conducted by a large London institution, and a copy will be sent post free to anyone interested. No money need be sent, but those who wish to do so may enclose 5 cents (stamps of your own country) to cover postage etc. All requests for the free book should be addressed to: National Institute of Sciences, Free Distribution Dept., 1532 B., No. 258 Westminster Bridge Road, London, S. E., England. Simply say you would like a copy of "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces," and mention The Fredericton Mail.
