

AFRAID SHE WAS DYING

Suffered Terribly Until She Took "Fruit-a-tives"

ST. JEAN DE MATHA, JAN. 27th. 1914.
"After suffering for a long time with Dyspepsia, I have been cured by 'Fruit-a-tives'. I suffered so much that I would not dare eat for I was afraid of dying. Five years ago, I received samples of 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did not wish to try them for I had little confidence in them but, seeing my husband's anxiety, I decided to do so and at once I felt relief. Then I sent for three boxes and I kept improving until I was cured. While sick, I lost several pounds, but after taking 'Fruit-a-tives', I quickly regained what I had lost. Now I eat, sleep and digest well—in a word, I am completely cured, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives'."

CRY FOR BREAD HEARD IN THE GERMAN CAPITAL

Paris, Aug. 23.—Telegrams from Berlin via The Hague state that the populace in the German capital has made a demonstration at the doors of the Imperial Palace, shouting for bread. The financial condition is very serious in the German Empire, and this explains the attempts made by the German troops to force the Belgians to pay a war tribute.

The attitude of the Turkish government is still the cause of great concern for the allied governments. Reports from Asiatic Turkey indicate a strong anti-British sentiment. It is stated that the Governor of Smyrna has informed the European Consuls that he will destroy the city in case any foreign country attempts to invade it.

A MEAN WAR, CZAR TOLD KAISER IN ONE TELEGRAM

London, Aug. 24.—The London Daily News publishes the exchange of communications between Czar Nicholas and the Kaiser just before the declaration of war.

The Kaiser to the Czar, July 28: "I have learned with the greatest concern of the impression which Austria-Hungary's action against Serbia has made in your empire. The unscrupulous agitation which had been fostered in Serbia for years has led to the detestable crime of which the Archduke Ferdinand was the victim. The spirit in which the Servians murdered their own King and Queen is still alive in that country. You will no doubt agree with me that we too, you and I, as well as all sovereigns have a common interest in insisting that all those who are morally responsible for the horrible crime should receive the punishment they deserve."

"On the other hand, I by no means ignore the difficulty which you and your government meet in resisting the pressure of public opinion. Remembering the strong ties of cordial friendship which have for so long united us I am using all my influence to induce Austria-Hungary to seek a frank and satisfactory understanding with Russia. I confidently hope that you will support my efforts to remove all the difficulties that may yet arise."

"Your very sincere and devoted friend and cousin,"

"WILLIAM"

ATTACK ON WEAK COUNTRY

To this the Czar replied on July 29.

"I am glad that you are back in Germany at this grave moment. I urgently ask you to assist me. A mean war has been declared upon a weak country. The indignation, which I share to the full, is in Russia enormous."

"I can foresee that I shall soon be unable to resist the pressure which is being brought upon me and shall be compelled to take measures which will lead to war. In order to avert a calamity such as a European war would be I ask you in the name of our old friendship to do everything possible to prevent your ally from proceeding too far."

"NICHOLAS."

DRAGGED INTO TERRIBLE WAR

On July 29th the Kaiser again telegraphed:

"I have received your telegram and share your desire for the maintenance of peace. At the same time, as I told you in my first telegram, I cannot regard Austria-Hungary's action as a 'mean' war. Austria-Hungary know from experience that Serbia's promises, so long as they remain only on paper cannot altogether be relied upon. In my view Austria-Hungary's action ought to be considered as an attempt to obtain a full guarantee that Serbia's promises would also be translated into action. In this view I am confirmed by the declaration of the Austrian Cabinet that Austria-Hungary is seeking no territorial conquest at the expense of Serbia. I therefore think it is perfectly possible for Russia to maintain the attitude of a spectator in face of the Austro-Serbian war without dragging Europe into the most terrible war she has ever experienced."

"I believe that a direct understanding between your government and Vienna is possible and desirable—an understanding which, as I have already telegraphed you, my government is trying to encourage with all the means at its disposal."

"Naturally military measures on the part of Russia which Austria-Hungary could regard as a menace would precipitate the disaster which we had the wish to avoid, and would also undermine my position as an intermediary, which I, in reply to your appeal and to my friendship and assistance, have readily assumed."

"WILLIAM."

THANKS KAISER FOR HOPE

The last two letters are thus given by the Daily Chronicle.

From the Czar to Kaiser:

"I thank thee from my heart for operations * * * So long as the thy mediation, which leaves a gleam of hope, * * * It is technically impossible to discontinue our military negotiations with Austria regarding Serbia continue my troops will not undertake any provocative action. I give thee my word upon it. I trust with all my strength in God's grace, mediation. Thy most devoted Nicholas."

From the Kaiser to Czar:

"My efforts to maintain the peace of the world have reached their limit. It will not be I who am responsible for the calamity which threatens the whole civilized world. Even at this moment it lies in thy power to avert it. Nobody threatens the honor and power of Russia, which could well have waited for the result of my mediation. The friendship which I inherited from my grandfather on his death bed for thee and thy kingdom has always been holy to me. I have remained true to Russia. The peace of Europe can still be maintained by thee if Russia decides to cease her military measures which threaten Germany and Austria-Hungary."

KITCHENER MADE A GREAT SPEECH

London, Aug. 25.—Lord Kitchener made his first speech as minister of war in the house of lords today. He told his hearers that this war undoubtedly would strain the forces of the empire and entail big sacrifices.

He lay emphasis on the fact that his position in the cabinet involved adherence to neither party. He said: "The terms on which I am serving are the same as those under which some of the finest positions of our manhood, now so willingly stepping forward to join the colors, are engaging. That is to say, my term of office is for the duration of the war, or for three years if the war should last longer than that."

"It has been asked why this period has been limited. It is because if this disastrous war be prolonged and no one can fortell for a certainty its duration, that after three years of war, others will take out places and see this matter through."

"There will be serious conflicts that undoubtedly will strain the forces of our empire and undoubtedly considerable sacrifices to our people will be entailed. These will be borne willingly for our honor and for the preservation of our position in the world, and they will be shared by our dominions, who are now sending contingents and giving assistance of every kind to the mother country."

"Our expeditionary force has taken the field on the French northwest border and advanced to the neighborhood of Mons, in Belgium. Our troops already have been for thirty-six hours in contact with the superior forces of the German invaders. During that time they maintained the best traditions of the British soldier and behaved with the utmost gallantry. The movements they have been called upon to execute have been those which demanded the greatest steadiness of a soldier and possession of skill in the commanders."

Lord Kitchener then alluded to Premier Asquith's statement in the house of commons that the British troops had greatly aided the French and had been able to maintain their positions in the face of fierce German attacks. He said he had sent a telegram to Sir John French, the commander of the British expeditionary force, reading as follows:

"Congratulate the troops on their splendid work. We are proud of them."
