

BIG SURPRISE TO MANY IN FREDERICTON

Local people are surprised at the QUICK results received from simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler's-ka, the German remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. Mr. George Y. Diblee states that this simple remedy draws off such a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body that A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY.

MULBERRY IS ONE OF THE NEWEST COLORS

Mulberry is one of the popular shades. Its dark tone lends itself admirably to the house gown in which the long line of the Moyen-Age is adopted, but none of its straightness for the gown is slightly bloused at the low, corded waist line and at the cording over the hips.

Scalloping is an individual feature of the costume, for it is found at the bottom.

The extra cape on coats of all descriptions is a striking feature of this season's wraps. One finds the loose cape that is part of the back only, and fastening to the coat just before it reaches the direct sides, being so eliminated as a separate feature. Particularly is this a noted feature of the fur coat.

Smart as they undoubtedly are, the long coats are not over becoming to many people. With many short figures the three quarter length garment wreaks havoc, for it cuts off the height disastrously.

Topping a blue broadcloth suit of military cut, worn recently at a smart luncheon, was a small beige color velvet brimless hat.

When a woman looks in her mirror she is never able to see herself as other women see her.

Many a man gets a reputation for being good-natured because he is too lazy to take his own part.

It may be as difficult for some rich men to enter the kingdom of heaven as it for them to keep out of jail.

CAN YOU CONVERSE INTEL-LIGENTLY ON THE WAR

The weather—the theatre—the latest novel; all these sink into insignificance as conversation makers these days and will continue to do, long after peace has been signed and the war is "history." Everyone is talking "the war." But—not everyone talks intelligently. It is not sufficient merely to hazard one's personal opinion as to whether the Germans will eventually reach Paris, or whether the Czar will eat his "hot" dinner in Berlin. In addition to "rumor-mongers" and official dispatches one needs to be conversant with the views, thoughts and public sentiments of the actual nations now at war, and to read for one's self, some of the vital war news appearing in their own newspapers and periodicals. One gets just this information, together with a host of interesting and valuable illustrations, pen pictures, actual photographs from the war zone and cartoons from all the great magazines of Europe and America week by week in the Literary Digest.

The aim and scope of this paper—as its name indicates—is to give a digest or epitome of all that is best worth reading gathered from the world's press—in fact, the Literary Digest covers the entire field of human interest, not merely the war itself, but matters relating to science, discovery, politics, literature and art. The Literary Digest has been for years found in hundreds of the best Canadian homes, but at this time, more than ever, it seems to be embracing the opportunity to make many new friends in this country.

BEING WOUNDED
HAS BRIGHT SIDE

Calais, Oct. 18 (by mail)—You cannot imagine the joy of mothers and fathers when their boys come back to them from the war minus an arm or a leg or some other portion of their bodies. Human nature is a queer thing, and war brings this queerness into strong relief.

"I witnessed the arrival of a Red Cross train here. The cars were loaded with young men fresh from the Belgian border. A soldier I talked to said: 'We gave them hell, I tell you—but we caught a few pellets ourselves.'"

From the looks of them they had indeed. Some hobbled out of the cars, their arms in slings or their heads tied up or a foot off the ground; others came on stretchers to be transferred to the Channel steamers waiting at the dock. One soldier limped out on the platform. His head was bandaged all around so voluminously that he couldn't wear his cap.

One arm was in a sling; the hand was bandaged in a way betokening the absence of one or more fingers.

MOTHER AND SON

Near by stood a woman. She was looking for some one. Suddenly, the much bandaged soldier saw the woman and started. With an inarticulate sound, partly smothered by the bandages he touched the woman.

She uttered a cry and searched eagerly the bandaged face. Apparently her mother love, rather than her eyes, told her it was her boy.

"My son! My son!" she exclaimed, enraptured. A Red Cross surgeon stepped up.

"Madame," he said, "your son undoubtedly will recover, but I must tell you that most of his jaw is shot away."

"Oh, I'm so glad! so glad!" the mother cried, tears streaming from her eyes.

"I see that sort of thing many times daily," the surgeon said.

"When a mother sees her boy march away to her war she gives him up for dead, she scarcely hopes even in her mother heart of hope, ever to see her boy alive again. Always she lives in dread of the day when the brief announcement of the dead will contain the name of her boy. So, at last, when her boy comes back to her, it doesn't matter how terribly he is shot up or disfigured. It is the same with mothers everywhere, any time."

HIS WOUNDS SAVE HIM

There is another cause for a mother's joy when her son returns maimed, broken physically, but alive. She knows her boy cannot return to the battle line, a mark for bullets and shrapnel that kill.

There is another strange thing to be noted while talking to the wounded. They are quite happy to have had wounds about the face and head, much preferring disfiguring, face wounds to lesser wounds in the body or legs.

A train of wounded was on its way to Southern France. When it halted at Boulogne those of the wounded who were able, got out to walk up and down the platform. Among these was one whose face could hardly be called by that name. One eye was gone; the other was badly swollen until he could hardly see. Bandages covered all but discolored parts of his face.

"NOT DISFIGURED—DECORATED"

"You poor dear," sympathized an English woman who approached him timidly. "You poor, poor boy."

"Madame," replied the soldier with as much pride and clearness as his bandages would permit, "don't pity me. Pity my friends in the train there who got it where it won't show."

The English woman couldn't understand.

"Why—why—why," she stammered, "I thought you wouldn't like to be disfigured."

"Disfigured!" the soldier replied, "I'm not disfigured; I'm decorated!"

Honesty is the best policy, especially if you are being closely watched. A trusting wife is simply one who believes everything her husband tells her.

The people who are all wrapped up in themselves shouldn't complain of being cold.

COULD NOT GO TEN STEPS FOR THE PAIN IN HIS KIDNEYS.

When you get a pain in the back you may rest assured that it comes from derangement of the kidneys, for were there not something wrong with the kidneys the back should be strong and well.

Doan's Kidney Pills regulate the kidneys, and there is no further excuse for any kidney trouble to exist. What more needs to be said? While Doan's Kidney Pills are not a "balm for every ill" that flesh is heir to, they are a positive, never-failing remedy for every disease that has its inception in the improper action in those delicate little filters of the blood, the kidneys.

Mr. Adelard Cieroux, Eganville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for four years. They were so bad, at times, I could not go ten steps for the pain they caused me. My doctor could not do me any good. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought five boxes, and now I have been cured for over three years. I will recommend them to whoever may be suffering from kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50¢ per box; 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

MAYBE HE DID!

"The iceman can fool some of the people at the time and all of the people some of the time, but he can't fool all of the people all the time."

Speaker Clark of the House of Representatives says that he knows some of the "tricks of the trade," and to illustrate he told the following story at a banquet:

"There was a young couple, man and wife, out in my state who were most jubilant over the arrival of a baby boy. Their home was on the outskirts of a small town and they had not all the conveniences of city life. Among the inconveniences they suffered at this particular time was the lack of either scales or steelyards to weigh the baby.

"They were about to give up in despair when the iceman drove up. The proud father, quick to see the advantage, suggested to his wife that the baby be weighed on the ice scales.

"So an improvised scale pan was hung to the scales and, so you know," concluded Speaker Clark, "that one-day-old baby weighed exactly twenty pounds."

THE HEIGHT QUESTION.

General Arthur Murray said of the height of soldiers:

"The British army has raised the height limit for volunteers to five feet five. Short Britishers object to this—and with reason.

"For consider the Japanese. They are incomparable soldiers. Yet the foot-five limit would bar most of them out.

"Consider the Gurkhas, the hill tribe soldiers of India. They are as valiant as the Japs, yet their height runs from four feet eleven to five feet four.

"At one of the London recruiting stations, just after the establishment of the new rule, a short and chunky East Ender, who had been rejected by the examining surgeons, pointed with a scowl toward a tall East Ender who had been accepted and said:

"'Aw, look at him! An' I knocked 'is head off lawst Saturday night!'"

Many a fellow never realizes what a large following he has till the bill collector gets after him.

The earth is often designated as "she" because no man knows the age thereof.

The Gold Dust Twins'
Philosophy

THE floors and doors appear to wait until the dust germs congregate; the housewife hails each dawning day with grim and harrowing dismay. Says she: "My work will NEVER end; o'er dusty stretches I must bend, until, with aching back and hands I finish what the day demands."

The
"Floor-and-Door-a"
Girl

work and the endless doors, until when Hubby saw them, too, reflections said: "Why, howdy-do!"

"The Gold Dust Twins," said she, "I find, help leave the woes of dust behind. Each mark of sticky hands on doors, each tread of muddy feet on floors, all fade before the slightest touch of Gold Dust, and the work is such that, when the woodwork has been done, I find said work was only fun." This line of reasoning must show that those who've tried it OUGHT to know. If you, in one day's duties, find that there's a Grouch in ev'ry Grind, invite the Gold Dust Twins to share such tasks as tire and fret and wear.

From kitchen floor to bedroom suite, these tireless little chaps make neat, and best of all, the sum expense is measured up in meager cents. They put both dust and dirt to rout and run the last old microbe out.

A Word With Subscribers

It is a popular misconception that in times of War a new paper makes money. As a matter of fact, any newspaper which tries to do its duty by its subscribers, loses money during war time. This is true of The Daily and Semi-Weekly Mail. Both of these papers, in spite of their tremendous increase in circulation, are not making any profit out of the war. This being the case, we have to ask our subscribers who are in arrears to be good enough, to REMIT. If we are properly doing our duty toward you as a subscriber, we have to ask that you will carry out your duty to us by remitting promptly any amount that may be owing to us.

If you want to help us make our paper better, send us your subscription in advance. We assure you that we will spend it in improving our news service.

Accounts are now being sent out, and we'll be very much indebted to you if you will give the same your prompt attention.
