

Look!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial? Especially if you could try it for fifty cents!

Peps is the discovery!
Peps are little tablets, neatly wrapped in air and germ-proof silver foil. They contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air sacs in the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing. Peps are entirely distinct from the old-fashioned liquid cough cures, which are merely allowed into the stomach, and never reach the lungs. Peps treatment of coughs and colds is direct treatment.

If you have not yet tried Peps, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c. box.

FRENCH FOOD IS IN DEMAND BY GERMANS

Under the title "The German Stomach" The London Lancet prints the following:

"German flour, German fruit and German beer can alone give your body the true German energy. This is one of the aesthetic commandments of Germany and the precept is necessary, as the Teuton, whether as an invader of a more holiday tripper, is always pathetically anxious to eat French food and drink French wine. A cuisine more ancient and civilized than his own is strangely attractive to him, just as it was to the hordes that sacked the energies of Rome from the time of Arminius to the fall of the final darkness in the fifth century.

THE CASE OF STRASSBURG.

"From 'La Guerre en Alsace,' a work of Tzicéan brevity and restraint, based on archives and documents, by A. Schneegans, at one time deputy of the Bas Rhin, we quote the following account of German feasts at the time of the fall of Strassburg on September 27, 1870:

"On September 18th General von Moltke, making his entry into a town that had been burned and famished, and a population of which ten thousand individuals had been reduced to the most horrible misery, to be served to him a dinner of ten covers at twenty francs a head, during which he and his noble guests drank six bottles of Chamberlain, six of Saint Julien, three of Moselle, ten of Roederer's champagne and three flasks of liquor."

BILL WAS A BIG ONE.

"This was a fair beginning and led to no ill consequences—the wine was probably excellent. On September 23rd the general, still in the same hotel, ordered twelve bottles of Riesling, twelve of Saint Julien, six of Roederer and twelve francs worth of coffee and liquors. Between September 28 and 30 his table expenses which the city defrayed, amounted to 625 francs."

THE WAR SITUATION IS LOOKING MUCH BRIGHTER

London, Nov. 2.—A Central News despatch from Amsterdam says that German 42-centimetre guns have been placed on Borkum Island, in the North Sea.

Borkum is a small island belonging to Prussia at the mouth of the Ems. It is sixty miles southwest of Heligoland. It was off Borkum that Lieut.-Commander Max Horton of the British submarine E-9, dared the Germans by sinking a destroyer under the frowning guns of the fortress.

Borkum Island is the most southern of a string of islands that skirt the German coast from Cuxhaven to the mouth of the Ems. These, with several islands owned by the Netherlands, constitute the Frisian group.

The strategic value of Borkum Island, which is six miles in length and two miles wide, lies in the fact that it commands the estuary of the Ems, and might perhaps be used as a submarine base and also in the defence of East Frisia, the district of Prussia, which forms the northwestern-most corner of Hanover and of the German empire.

German submarines are known to be operating along the southern shores of the North Sea, and heavy guns placed on the German islands might be valuable in the defence of their base.

FLEET SENDS REGRETS.

London, Nov. 2.—The commander-in-chief of the home fleet today sent the following telegram to Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg concerning the latter's recent resignation as first sea lord of the admiralty:

"I have received with profound sorrow the information contained in your telegram. The whole fleet will learn the news with the deepest possible regret. We look to you with the greatest loyalty, respect and gratitude for the work you accomplished for the navy."

SUBMARINE ATTACKED.

London, Nov. 2.—Heavy firing was heard off the Foreland at Dover this afternoon. Twelve live shells were fired in rapid succession. The concussion rattled windows at Deal.

A British torpedo boat destroyer could be seen outside Goodwin Sands and it was surmised that the British ship had attacked a German submarine which was known to be in the channel.

SEARCH AMERICAN VESSELS.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Great Britain has proposed that American ships bound for northern European ports, touch at some convenient Scotch port on the voyage and submit to examination of their cargoes by British authorities, receiving in return certificates which will relieve them of annoyance of search by British and French cruisers during the remainder of their voyage.

The state department has not accepted the proposition and indications are it will be made the basis of a protest.

BRITISH CREWS CAPTURED.

London, Nov. 2.—A despatch to Lloyd's shipping agency from Para, Brazil, says that the German steamer Asuncion has landed there the passengers and crews of the British steamers Vandyck, Hurtsale and Ganton, which were captured by the German cruiser Karlsruhe in latitude 1 south, longitude 40 west.

SOMETHING OF A SHOCK.

Dr. N. C. Scheffer, superintendent of instruction of Pennsylvania, recalled this story when reference was made to the innocent remarks made by the rising generation:

Some time ago Smith had a number of friends to dinner and just as he started to carve the roast an expression of remembrance floated over the face of little Willie.

"Oh, papa!" exclaimed the youngster, "I forgot to tell you. Cook burned her nose something awful!"

"You don't mean it," responded papa encouragingly. "How did it happen?"

"The roast did it," was the startling rejoinder of Willie. "She was trying to pull out the skewers with her teeth."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

GOING MAD FROM THE TERRIFIC PAIN

Prominent Merchant Thinks His Life Was Saved By "Fruit-a-lives".

DRYSDALE, ONT., JUNE 15th. 1913.

"I am a general storekeeper at the above address, and on account of the great good I have experienced from using 'Fruit-a-lives', I recommend them to my customers. They were a great boon to me, I can tell you, for about two years ago, I was laid up in bed with vomiting and a terrific pain at the base of my skull. The pain nearly drove me mad. Doctors feared it would turn to inflammation of the brain, but I took 'Fruit-a-lives' steadily until I was cured. I have gained fifteen pounds since taking 'Fruit-a-lives', and I verily believe they saved me from a disastrous illness."

ON DOGS

I wonder if you have ever owned a dog: a taggy, sad-eyed, drooping mongrel that stuck close to you and shared your little triumphs and big troubles with you?

I reckon a feller who has never owned a dog has missed a considerable lot with havin' outh' life. One kin be a mighty no-count piece of humanity in the eyes of his feller-men.

but to his dog he's the one, big, best everything in the world.

I reckon you can't measure a dog's devotion to his master any more than you kin measure other things as have got the great scientists of the globe guessin'. One thing I know, though, is this, any man who kin live up to what his dog thinks he is, is a good man; and don't you forget it.

ON RIDIN'

SOMEHOW or other I can't jest accustom myself to ridin' in one of them ottermobile machines. I know I ort to set back and fold my arms and look as though I was enjoyin' life, but it's no use, I can't do it. Take a feller who, all his life has done his ridin' on an old buck board with bolts and nuts jinglin' and spokes rattlin' and he can't enjoy smoothie ridin' no how.

He misses somethin' that he has grew used to. It may be the dust in his face, the clatter of the loose bolts or the guttin'-gun reports of the loose spokes; anyway it's somethin' that the benzine wagon don't seem to have, and so he don't hanker none fer a ride in the new fangled rig.

Ye see, it's all in gettin' used to a thing and that's why I say when I ride I want to do it in an old buck board full of noise and complaints, and I want to get some dust myself, not let the feller behind have all on it. Sounds queer maybe; but it's right!

Was Troubled With Choking Spells and Shortness of Breath.

When the heart becomes affected, there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, and dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

Many men and women drag along with weary step, and become worn out and haggard, when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first signs of heart or nerve trouble. On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be given a fair trial and you will find that they will soon correct both these organs.

Mr. James Leard, Tryon, P.E.I., writes: "Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I had choking spells, and was troubled with weakness of the heart and shortness of breath. I tried three doctors but they all failed. A neighbor recommended me to try your pills, so I got a box and they helped me so much I have taken six boxes. I highly recommend them to all who are troubled with their heart and nerves. I was not able to do any work for over two years; now I can do quite a bit."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
