HENRY J. MYSHRALL

it he pulled the trigger again to confirm his assertion and the overlooked cartridge exploded, hitting me in the shoulder.

The surprise and the shock weakened me more than the pain at the moment. I told John to get a doctor as quickly as possible. From my room I staggered into the dining-room and told Mrs. Brewer that I was shot. Mrs. Brewer led me to a couch in the hall and rushed out after a doctor. In the meantime some one came to my assistance and took off my collar and tie and opened my shirt. I was bleeding freely and was beginning to feel somewhat faint by this time.

Dr. VanWart and Dr. McNally arrived soon afterwards. My left arm felt dead and lifeless and I was weak and faint from loss of blood.
Someone applied cold towels to my forehead and that kept me from fainting. The bleeding stopped eventually and my strength was partially restored. I was then conveyed to the hospital where thanks to Dr. G. C.
VanWart I am recovering rapidly.

To this report I and John Brewer can swear if need be.

THE CONFLICTING REPORTS

In regard to John Brewer's report I would say that the boy was frightened and said that I did it myself, but someone saw too good a chance to create a sensation and start a scandal to let pass—consequently out came rumors of all kinds.

Before I saw the first report in regard to the accident I told Dr.
VanWart and one or two others just how it happened but when I saw the account in the Gleaner I asked these people as a favor to let it drop and say nothing more about it.
After hearing the next report I concluded that it was up to myself to make a truthful report and refute the sensational ones.

RE CONFLICTING STORIES.

I would like to add, Mr. Editor, in regard to the reference The Gleaner made about my telling so many conflicting stories that I was not the source they came from but people who seem to make it their business to mind everybody's business but their own.

And as to telling Father Howland and the officials of the hospital different stories, I beg to state that I simply gave them a straightforward account of the accident as you have it in today's paper. It is beyond my conception why some people should want to circulate so many sensational stories about the accident.

In regard to telling Jack Myshrall so many different stories I would say that when he asked me first about the accident I referred him to the first report in The Gleaner but when I saw that it was compulsory for myself to give a true account of the accident in order to refute the sensational stories I told him just how it happened when he referred to it again but he has greatly magnified the same.

Yours respectfully,
H. J. MYSHRALL.

THE BANK AMALGAMATION

Telegraph—Negotiations are still in progress in regard to the proposed amalgamation of the Bank of New Brunswick and the Bank of Nova Scotia. The authorities of the Bank of New Brunswick refuse to make any statement with regard to the progress of the negotiations, either to confirm or to refute the rumor.
The expectation in Halifax financial circles, which contain many heavy shareholders of the Bank of Nova Scotia, would appear to be that deal will go through. The decision, it is thought will scarcely be made by either of the institutions in quick time, as a searching examination of conditions will first be made.

NATIONALISTS MAKING TROUBLE FOR BORDEN

The chief cause of dissension with Messrs. Monk and Nantel, however, is with regard to their demand that even on the question of an emergency contribution the original demand of the Nationalists for a plebiscite be-must be adhered to.

It had been hoped that Mr. Monk, with his prospective retirement to accept a Quebec judgeship in view, would quietly wash his hands of the whole affair and not embarrass the government by any open revolt. This hope is, however, apparently now doomed. Mr. Monk is both courageous and firm in upholding his pre-election stand on the naval question.
He wants to publicly vindicate himself and his policy. And he is standing by his guns. He will not quietly resign and go into retirement. He may leave the government but his voice in opposition to it will then be heard. Hon. Mr. Nantel will, it is understood, follow the lead of Mr.
Monk.

That is the present situation and that explains the reason of the government's hesitation to call parliament. With a ministerial crisis precipitated by the retirement of Messrs.
Monk and Nantel at the opening of the house and with no safe Quebec seats ready to be opened for new ministers, the government rightly fears the attack of the opposition consequently strong efforts are being made now to bring the recalcitrants into line and secure the quiet retirement of Mr. Monk to the bench. Failing this within the next few days, it is altogether probable that the calling of parliament will be postponed until January in the hope that meanwhile present differences may be patched up, a silent exit arranged with Mr. Monk, and a semblance of harmony and unity evolved out of the present discord and conflict.

MONTENEGRIN SOLDIERS CAPTURED TOWN

As reported will be virtual annexation by Greece, is now engaging the attention of the powers.

The rumor that Bulgaria has actually declared war has not been confirmed.

MONTENEGRINS' LOSSES HEAVY

The Montenegrins, after hard fighting, have captured Berana, but it is reported that there will be a pause in the operations around Tashi. Undoubtedly this is due to the Montenegrins realizing that they have paid too dearly for their successes with heavy loss of life.

King Nicholas accordingly has issued a proclamation urging his soldiers to restrain their impetuosity and adapt themselves to modern conditions of warfare, which demand artillery preparation before an attempt is made to storm fortified positions. The Montenegrin princes, Danilo and Peter, have been busy in the engagements, personally leading their forces. Prince Peter has been promoted to major for gallantry.

General Martinovitch's division has worked its way closer to Scutari, and it is stated that an Austrian vessel has been ordered up the Boy-ana River to bring the Austrian consul and colony from Scutari.

The conclusion of peace between Italy and Turkey has greatly relieved the shipping trade, owing to the heavy insurance premiums imposed during the activity of the Italian fleet in Turkish waters. Lord Rothschild has appealed through the press for funds for the British Red Cross Society, which is preparing to send expeditions to the Balkans.

The London stock exchange today showed rapid recovery.

Athens, Greece, Oct. 17—Fighting between the Greek army and the Turkish forces stationed along the frontier began early today.

Athens, Greece, Oct. 17—A daring feat was accomplished this morning by the commanders of the Greek gunboats "A" and "D".

At 2 o'clock they made a dash to force the Turkish blockade at the narrow entrance to the Gulf of Arta one side of which is Turkish and the other Greeks. They were observed from the Turkish fort at Prevosa which dominates the entrance and a heavy fire was directed on them which they returned. They succeeded in fighting their way through, and at half past four reached the Greek town of Vonitza on the southern shore of the Bay with very little damage.
