ROBBING WOMEN OF THEIR HEALTH

Anaemic Unless Checked Passes
Into Hopeless Decline

Anaemia is like a spectre that steals on you unawares and drives all happiness out of existence. It is a thief that robs you of your life and energy. Thousands of women in this country are the victims of anaemia (that is, bloodlessness), which spares neither rich nor poor, young or old. It robs women of her health, her vitality, her beauty—of everything that gives a woman her charm. The chief symptoms of this trouble include a distaste for food, prostrating headaches, extreme languor, loss of weight, nervousness, pale cheeks, lips and gums, heart palpitations, dizziness and a constant feeling of wretchedness.

The only way to effect a cure is to increase the blood supply—to make it pure, rich and red. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of young girls and women from the early fate that threatened them through anaemia's ravages. These pills enrich blood, stimulate circulation, nourish the nerves, and restore the energy and perfect health that make women attractive. If you are a victim of bloodlessness in any way, do not let it run into a hopeless decline; but again the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. The following bit of evidence proves the worth of this medicine. Mrs. Maurice Sims, Liverpool, N.S., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. About two years ago I was so badly run down that I had to give up all work and go to bed. My husband and parents were much worried about me as they thought I was going into consumption. The doctor who was attending me changed his medicine several times, but it did me no good and I began to feel very much discouraged myself. One day a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to do so. In a few weeks I felt much better and I continued taking the pills for a couple of months until I was again in perfect health. I believe that if I had not taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would not have survived and I shall always be very grateful for what they have done for me."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Her Complaint

The stout party had been in the boot shop for over an hour, and the patient shop assistant had had half the stock down for her inspection. She found fault with them all, until his patience became quite exhausted. "These would suit you," he said, taking another pair down as a last resource. Still the lady was not satisfied.

"I don't like this sort," she said. "They have a tendency to get wider when they are a bit old."

"Well, madame," retorted the exasperated assistant, politely, "didn't you?"

A young barrister was defending an old convict on the charge of burglary, and consulted a veteran member of the bar who happened to be standing near.

"How much time do you think I should take up in addressing the jury?" he asked in a rather pompous manner.

"Take as long as you can," was the gruff reply. "The longer you talk the longer you'll keep your client out of gaol."

BABY HAD DYSENTERY

Had Two Doctors, But No Result

WAS CURED BY THE USE OF DR. FOWLER'S
EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

Mrs. Martin Farragher, Dogberry Corner, N.B., writes: "I can very strongly recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for Dysentery and Summer Complaints. My little girl, at the age of two years, had the dysentery very bad. We had two doctors, but with no result. My mother brought me a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and when half the bottle was used the little girl was running around playing with her dolls with great delight and joy to the family, for we did not think she would ever get better."

Imitators have even gone so far as to imitate our wrapper in color and style, and have adopted similar names, such as Strawberry Compound, Extract of Strawberry, Wild Strawberry Compound, etc., which preparations they have been trying to sell as the genuine, at a bigger profit to themselves, but unfortunately not to the consumers, who sometimes have had to employ medical aid afterwards.

Do not be led into taking a substitute for "Dr. Fowler's" and thus endanger your life. Price, 35 cents. Manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DOES INDIA HOARD HER YELLOW GOLD?

Many Millions of Precious Metal is Unaccounted For

From time immemorial India has absorbed gold as a sponge absorbs water. The flow of gold to India has always continued. In the last twelve years she has received $680,000,000 in gold, partly in sovereigns and partly in bullion, in addition to enormous quantities of silver. It all goes into the country, but very little ever comes out. Lord Rothschild observed some years ago that he had noticed that none of the smooth gold bars sent to India from England ever came back. What happens to this great stream of precious metal, which continuously disappears like those rivers in desert lands which lose themselves underground?

The testimony of experts is most conflicting. Some say it is hoarded while a few are ready to prove by a formidable array of statistics that it cannot be extensively hoarded. Those who believe that India possesses a vast store of hoarded treasure make the wildest guesses at its probable total. The most popular estimate of the hoarded wealth of India puts the total of $1,500,000,000, which would amount to five dollars per head of the population; but some credible estimates are far higher. The expert quarrel, again, about the probable effect of India's absorption of gold upon the world's money markets and the prices of commodities. Some say that all gold-using countries benefit thereby, while others, such as Sir Edward Holden, appear to hold that "the drain of gold to India" is a potential menace. The commission, while declining to endorse either of these mutually destructive contentions has declared in effect that an increased use of gold in India should not in future be encouraged by the Government, but India already seems disposed to resent this recommendation.

India has been subjected to repeated invasions and innumerable internal wars, and her people have never completely lost their hereditary sense of insecurity. Banking facilities are still sparse, and it would be surprising if Indians did not hoard.

Hoarding does not necessarily mean burying in the ground or concealment in the roofs of houses, though those practices are doubtless extensive. Mr. J. M. Keynes, a member of the commission tells a story of a Brahmin in Eastern Bengal who even hoards currency notes in his roof. Once a week he retires privily and spreads them out in the sun to remove the damp. A very large proportion of the hoarded wealth of India is however, in the form of gold and silver ornaments. It is into these ornaments that the bulk of the bullion and sovereigns, as well as much of the silver, disappears.

Business Farming

Farming is always a business, but the average farmer keeps no books. He pays a bill, makes no record of it, loses the receipt, or keeps it in one of a dozen cluttered boxes where it cannot be found.

In order to protect themselves in case of sudden death the wife and children should be made familiar with every detail of the business. There is recorded the case of a rich man who deposited his money in several banks, was killed in an accident, and his family are living in absolute want because they cannot ascertain where the money was banked. Another instance is that of a man who placed thirty thousand dollars in a bank for the assistance of his family, died far away, and his folks cannot find where the money is placed. One of my most valued books is a large blank book in which I record every detail of farm work with date of day, month and year. If we begin to plant or sow a piece of ground I put down date, how much seed it took, cost, kind of fertilizer used, name of variety, etc. if a debt is paid, down goes the date, amount paid, what for, and if I got a receipt.

By making the entries each noon or night the books can be so kept up-to-date that an executor can look over the record, stock, and produce books, etc., and see in a few moments how affairs stand; and the farmer himself knows about his work.—C. E. Davis.

THE POLITICAL MUDDLE IN THE COUNTY OF YORK

(Moncton Transcript.)

The Chatham, N.B., Commercial, which has supported the Flemming administration and is rather independent in politics generally, discusses the situation in York county as follows:

"From latest appearances, the local government party in York county seems to be in an even more unenviable condition than was at first thought. A few months ago they were at each other's throats over the selection of a candidate for a vacant seat in the legislature, and as neither would give way, each faction ran a candidate."

It then describes the squabble over the police magistracy at Fredericton and says that the government failed to induce the two factions to agree, and that the government was ultimately forced to appoint according to The Commercial, a young Liberal and active opponent of the government to the position.

Our Chatham contemporary apparently thinks the Conservative disruption in York county is typical of the provincial situation generally. It says:

"The relinquishment by Mr. Hazen of the control of provincial affairs, has been followed by a series of very bad breaks on the part of his former colleagues whom he left in control. The effect of these has been perceptible all through the province, and the situation in York is only typical of conditions which exist in other counties, although they may not be so apparent in some as in others."

In another editorial paragraph it is even more candid than in the foregoing, and adds:

"Premier Flemming has again announced his intention to 'come back' as soon as the enquiries are over. Should he do so, no matter what the result of the enquiries is, his return to active participation in the control of affairs, would unquestionably result in his government being swept out of power at the next election."

Seeing still further the handwriting on the wall, it draws from the result in Manitoba a deduction as to that which will happen in New Brunswick and with keen prophetic vision indulges in the following prediction:

"It is an old saying, and a very true one, that pride will have its fall. The Roblin government in Manitoba, like the Flemming government in this province, had a tremendously big majority in the legislature and they thought they owned the province and could do as they liked. They were under the impression, so sure were they of their position, that public opinion could be defied with impunity, so they went on their way with a callous disregard to the proprieties of public life. There is, however, a limit beyond which public opinion will not pass, and in Manitoba this has already been reached. Public opinion in New Brunswick is rapidly reaching that limit also."

Possibly the latter sentence might, with increased undoubted accuracy, have stated that public opinion is already educated to that point.

A bill pending in Congress provides for the equalization of wages in the Government printing office.
