Pure Blood Is Absolutely Necessary To Health

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" PURIFIES

These Wonderful Tablets,
Made of Fruit Juices, Are The Best Of All Tonics To Purify And Enrich
The Blood.

Pure, rich blood can flow only in a clean body. Now, a clean body is one in which the waste matter is regularly and naturally eliminated from the system. The blood cannot be pure when the skin action is weak, when the stomach does not digest the food properly, when the bowels do not move regularly, when the kidneys are strained or overworked.

Pure blood is the result of perfect health and harmony of stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives", by their wonderful action on all these organs, keeps the whole system as clean as Nature intended our bodies to be clean.

"Fruit-a-tives" tones up, invigorates, strengthens, purifies, cleans and gives pure, rich, clean blood that is, in truth, the stream of life.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

GENERAL DELAREY

KILLED BY THE POLICE

Capetown, Sept. 17.—Gen. Jacobus Hendrik Delarey, the well known Boer General, has been accidentally shot dead near Johannesburg.

General Delarey, accompanied by position as Commander-in-chief of the defence forces of the Union of South Africa, was returning yesterday evening by automobile to his farm, when the police, who were watching for a gang of desperadoes the General. It is evident that known to be using a car similar to that of General Delarey, challenged the General. It is evident that neither General Delarey nor those in the car with him heard the challenge, for they proceeded without stopping. The police fired at the car, and a bullet entered General Delarey's heart.

The shooting of the General has caused a great sensation throughout South Africa.

FLANKS BECOMES THE DECISIVE POINTS IN GREAT BATTLES

London, Sept. 18.—It is very remarkable that in these tremendous battles the flanks become more and more the decisive point, although the whole line must be seriously engaged before the flank can be effectively turned. The probable explanation is that in a struggle involving several groups of the enemy only that corps which exposes its flank can be attacked by an overwhelmingly superior force.

It was intended to drive the English and French into the fortified towns of Lille, La Fere, Laon, Soissons, Rheims and Chalons, just as was done in 1870, but quick as the movement was all these towns were evacuated and most of them are now being re-taken as easily as they were lost.

General Von Kluck, who in escaping, lost heavily in men, motors, horses and supplies, is now entrenched on the north bank of the Aisne and he faces an exact repetition of the former defeat provided the French advance upon the flank is again from the direction of the Compeigne movement. The allies may be expected to undertake it and he will probably be compelled to retreat as far as Laon and La Fere.

For the moment he is not dangerous and harder fighting will take place east of Rheims.

The great thing about the present position is that the Germans' prestige is gone. They have had a serious defeat and they cannot afford defeats of this kind. If the Kaiser cannot win a crushing victory in the near future his cause is probably done for.

in saving warfare when at the outbreak of the war with Great Britain 1899, at the age of fifty-two, he was made a General. One of the most successful of the Boer leaders, he will be best remembered by his defeat and capture of Lord Methuen at Klerksdorp (March 7, 1902.) The British General was severely wounded in action, and Delarey released him at once, a courtesy which earned for him the esteem of his enemies even more than his military skill and daring. After the war he went to England with Generals Botha and DeWet, and took a prominent part in the peace negotiations, and subsequently visited Europe and India in the interests of the Boers. In Feb 1907, he was returned unopposed for Ventersdorp in the first Transvaal Parliament following.

CHINESE COAST PIRACY

Government Helpless to Stop Evil on Account of Lack of Funds.

Seventeen Chinese pirates shipped as passengers the other day on a small steamer plying the China Sea, overpowered the crew and made off with $30,000.

As a matter of fact, the China Sea is the only part of the globe where this ancient and bloodthirsty means of livelihood is still in a flourishing condition. There ancestor worship is still practised by the pirates and it would be considered scarcely honorable for a man to give up the profession by which his forefathers have subsisted for generations.

At present, according to officers of the Japanese liner Nippon Maru, piracy is in a more flourishing condition than it has been for years, for the Government is without funds to operate a coast patrol. The whole coast of China is infested with sea bandits, who lie in wait in the mouth of creeks and rivers and pounce upon small native boats. So far their activities have been confined to Chinese vessels, although the steamer Shang hai, which was robbed by the 17 who shipped as passengers, was flying the British flag.

During the days of the opium traffic Chinese piracy was in its glory. The pirates chose the opium ships as their special prey, and those who did not pay tribute before their ships sailed were very likely to have the cargo confiscated before it ever came to port.

An anonymous writer in Chambers Journal, an English publication, told of one adventure of this sort in which the pirates were beaten off. A German bark, the Etienne, had started from Hong Kong for Tien-Tsin. It had six chests of opium aboard. The second day out the vessel was becalmed, and lay "like a painted ship upon a painted ocean," within a mile of Mrs Bay, a pirate stronghold.

Through marine glasses the crew of the Etienne could see a crowd of men swarming like ants down the shore at sunset and preparing to launch boats. The Chinese carried spears, and they propelled their boats with long sweeps. There was one bit of artillery aboard the Etienne, a carronade, which is a short gun of large calibre, useful only at close range.

The carronade was fired once, in the hope of bringing assistance, then reloaded and preparations made to receive the pirates. On they swept in three big boats, black in the sunset glow, and yelling loudly. The pirates were naked to the waist. The crew of the Etienne were served with rifles and cutlasses, and three barrels of bottled beer which had been sent aboard the ship just before it sailed as a gift to the officers, were brought on deck. The beer was emptied into tubs on deck and the bottles smashed. The deck was then strewn with broken glass.

The pirate ships as they approached fired several times, and one 12-pound shot struck the main mast of the Etienne. When they were within 100 yards the carronade of the European ship was discharged and there was a thinning of the Chinese aboard one of the vessels. The short cannon was hastily reloaded, and when another Chinese ship drew alongside was fired point blank into its bows. Then the Etienne's crew, very small in comparison with the number of the pirates, swarmed into the rigging in order to pick off the Chinese with more ease.

As the barefooted Chinamen swarmed upon the deck of the Etienne they were thrown into the greatest confusion by the broken glass and leaped howling about the deck nursing their wounded feet, while the crew aloft poured down an effective fire upon them. But it was not long before the pirates began to clamber up the rigging. With rifles and revolvers the Europeans picked them off. "They tell like overripe fruit into the sea," says the author. But there were plenty more waiting to take the places of those who fell. Eventually, however, the pirates were repulsed and forced to flee after heavy loss in the sharp sea battle.

How to Cut Glass

There is a method of cutting glass without the aid of a diamond which is very little known. Take a piece of common string and dip it in alcohol and squeeze it reasonably dry. Then tie the string tightly around the glass on the line of cutting. Touch a match to the string and let it burn off. The heat of the burning string will weaken the glass in this particular place.

While it is hot plunge the glass under water, letting the arm go under well to the elbow so that there will be no vibration when the glass is struck. With the free hand strike the glass outside the line of cutting, giving a quick, sharp stroke with any long flat instrument, such as a stick of wood or a long-bladed knife, and the cut will be as clean and straight as if made by a regular glass cutter.

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS "CASCARETS"

To-night! Clean Your Bowels and Stop Headache, Colds, and Sour Stomach

Get a 10-cent box.

Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your Bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.
