SHEEP FOR BREEDING

Some Things to Observe in Founding the Farm Flock

In starting a farm flock of sheep it is important that the farmer should have an ideal before him as to the kind of sheep he wants. We cannot say that there is any best breed, for each breed has its own merits and deficiencies. The mutton-producing sheep are divided into two classes—the long-wools and the Downs. Of the former we have the Leicesters, Cotswolds, and Lincolns; of the latter the Shropshires, Oxford Downs, Southdowns, and Hampshire Downs. Both these classes of sheep have their merits. The long-wools are larger, yield a larger clip of wool, and are possibly slightly more prolific than the Downs. On the other hand, however, neither their mutton nor their wool is quite so good quality, and they are not so hardy. This latter fact is due to the nature of their fleece, writes Donald Ewing in Farmer's Magazine. Being long and open, it "parts" down the centre of their back when wet. This allows the rain to penetrate to the skin of the sheep, so that they are wet through almost every rain, and cold and catarrh are more or less prevalent among them during the fall and spring. Against this the wool of the Down breeds is close and tight, and even a very heavy rain does not penetrate it. After a drenching fall rain they will get up from under the fence or tree where they have found shelter, shake themselves, and be as dry and comfortable as before the rain. Added to this is the fact that the Downs yield a fine quality of mutton and wool slightly more valuable than the long-wools. Still, as we said before, we cannot claim that there is any "best" breed. Every prospective sheep-raiser must choose for himself, following his own preferences.

Selecting Sheep

Having chosen the breed, it is important that certain well-defined principles be followed in selecting the individuals. We are not dealing here with the raising of breeding stock, but of sheep-raising in a commercial way. At the same time, when selecting the foundation for the flock, it is better to get pure-breds or good grades, conforming very well to breed type, rather than cross-breds or mongrels. It lends character and value to our lambs if they conform fairly well to some recognized breed type. Aside from breed type, there are certain characters we must have.

First, we want constitution. This is indicated by a good heart-girth, bright eye, wide muzzle, and pink skin. This last I regard as rather important. If we will part the wool so that we can see the skin, we will notice a decided difference in different sheep. Some will be decidedly bluish in tinge, while others are quite pink. We should avoid bluish or pale skins, and choose a good, pink skin as indicating a good constitution and good circulation.

Then we must look for flesh-producing qualities. As the best meat is found along the back and loin, and in the hindquarters, we must look for a strong, broad back and loin, and for deep hindquarters, carrying the flesh well down toward the hock. In fact, the same general form which indicates meat form in the steer also indicates it in the sheep. The general form should be blocky and square, with good top and underlines, not too long legs, and that general roundness and smoothness, as indicated by feeling the animal over, which shows quality in the sheep as well as in the steer.

The wool, though of minor importance, is still important, and we must see to it so far as we can that the sheep we are selecting to form our breeding flock have reasonably good wool-producing characteristics.

Pearls of Great Price

There was exhibited at a Court Jeweller's in Bond Street a striking collection of pearls. One magnificent rope is valued at no less than $300,000; while for a single pear-shaped drop pearl, perfectly symmetrical, $70,000 was asked. But probably the most exquisite article in the collection was a single necklet of gems of extraordinary hue, the matching and graduation being superb. The cost of this article was $190,000.

If one of the stones were lost it would be impossible to replace it with an exact duplicate. Black and pink pearls also found a place in the exhibition; whilst a passing reference must be made to a pair of button-shaped ear rings valued at $40,000.

Illicit Distilling in the Highlands Smuggling appears still to continue in the Highlands. The Excise officers recently discovered in the district of Kintail a new smuggling still and head hidden in a cairn between the fishing village of Bundaloch and Camushnie.

KAISER'S TROOPS

THE USUAL STORY.

Rome, Oct. 7.—A telegram received here from Berlin says:

"The civilians of Lanaeken, Belgium having attacked German troops, reprisals were necessary. Lanaeken was bombarded and its church destroyed. Along the road between Lanaeken and Tongres all the houses were burned." Both Lanaeken and Tongres are in the province of Limbourg.

GERMANS LOSE SHIPS

London, Oct. 8.—On the sea the day's dispatches bring the news of the loss of four German warships. A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says that a British submarine sank a German torpedo boat destroyer last night off the German coast. The London Press Bureau allowed the publication of the dispatch, but would neither confirm or deny the same.

Tokio reports say that the German cruiser Fomoran and two other German gunboats had been sunk by the Japanese in a naval encounter in Kia Chau bay.

Rheims is still under German fire, according to a dispatch to the London Times from Apery, France, which says that "the panic among the inhabitants has been increased through the action of German aeroplanes which are dropping bombs containing a high explosive, in an attempt to destroy the railway station. So far this place has not been damaged, but refugees report that fourteen persons were killed by one of the bombs."

The terrific cost of the war in men is emphasized again today in estimates by the attacks of the Berlin War Office who place the total for all armies at 1,600,000 killed, wounded and missing. Of this enormous total the Germans have lost 225,000 the French and British 325,000 Austria 125,000, Serbia and Montenegro 15,000 and Russia 400,000.

Petrograd dispatches today have nothing but success to report, while the official statements from Berlin not only dispute every claim by Russia, but announce positive gains for the German armies.
