Since the Local Government is constructing concrete sidewalks around the parliament buildings, they might as well make a job of it. The walk on Queen street in front of the building is in bad shape and should be replaced with one of concrete. Another might be laid down on St. John street between King and Queen, and another on the King street side of the buildings. If these walks are built, some people who are not local government officials will be in a position to benefit from the expenditure. While the contractor is on the spot with his plant the work can be done more cheaply than it can be at some future date.

John Burroughs Condemns The War-Drunk Kaiser

To the Editor of The New York Tribune:

Sir:—Considering the genuine liking and admiration we Americans feel for the German people, based as it is both upon race kinship and long association with the German element in our midst it is a curious psychological problem why our sympathy from the first day of the war should have been so overwhelmingly on the side of their enemies. Our unanimity in this respect has been most remarkable. As one man north and south, east and west, in conversation, in private letters, in the pulpit, in the press we have voiced our condemnation of the war-drunk Kaiser and the military clique that surrounds him and in our secret hearts have prayed for the success of the Allies.

I believe that I make no extreme statement when I say that of all the Continental people, except possibly the people of the Scandinavian peninsula, we like the Germans the best, and certainly we owe more to them, both in our material civilization and in our aesthetic and intellectual culture. They are a great people; they touch us on all sides; they have added immensely to the richness and stability of our national and civic life. We like them as mechanics, as farmers, as kitchen help, as teachers, as neighbors, as co-workers in all fields. They are a sober, reliable, unassuming, home loving, human people.

CAN'T FIND A PRO-GERMAN.

Yet we stand at this stage of their terrible struggle wishing only for an overwhelming defeat in their armies. I have yet to meet a pro-German anywhere in the country or to see a pro-German newspaper. In the little country village in the Catskills, near where I spent the summer, every farmer and villager and city boarder I met was eagerly waiting for news of the defeat of the German hosts. When the morning mail arrived the people gathered at the post office and waited almost breathlessly for tidings in favor of the Allies. The men of German descent, of which there were many, had no sympathy for the Kaiser and his onrushing hosts. Upward of sixty years ago three young German brothers settled in this little Catskill village as blacksmiths; and what steady, honest, efficient men they proved to be! They married American women and had families. Their sons are among the substantial and always reliable business men of the community. I saw more or less of them almost daily, and if their sympathies were at all with the warring hosts of the land of their fathers, I failed to get an inkling of it.

TIGERS BOUND FOR BLOOD.

This frame of mind in which our nation finds itself is not of our own seeking; we have not cultivated it; quite the contrary. It has been forced upon us by events over which we have no control, and it has been intensified as these events have multiplied. We saw German militarism springing with a tiger's bound for the blood and life of a neighboring people whose only offense was that they had for a generation been making ready to try to ward off such an attack; we saw a small peace loving, industrious, inoffensive people, whose territory lay in the way of this fierce onrush of the Germans, trampled and murdered and despoiled, their villages and cities burned, their farms laid waste, their treasures of art and architecture consumed, their gold and silver demanded—we saw, and still see, millions of as worthy and likeable people as there are in the world homeless, foodless, swept before and trampled upon by invading armies like autumn leaves, and we heard the cry for mercy and succor that went up from them and it still rings in our ears. We saw the vast military power of Germany loosened, as if it had long been straining at the leash, as it had, we saw it eager and ready—the readiness that is the fruit of long premeditation and preparation. It was as clear as daylight that it felt the thrill and the joy of its predetermined mission. It had been created for this and now its day had come.

WRONGS CRY TO HEAVEN.

How remorseless and resistless it swept on; how the gods of war must have made their Valhalla ring with their approval! The iron brute Bismarck must have stirred in his grave. The gay, chivalrous and, as we often think, frivolous people of the western border were hurriedly pulling themselves together to resist the unprovoked onslaught, and their ally across the channel was as hastily marshalling her forces to rush to the rescue. What a spectacle it all was! Who can ever forget those early August days! One of the most efficient and admirable people the world has ever seen in the grip of a merciless military autocracy, welded and hardened into such a weapon of destruction.

If They Are, Some Serious Lung Troubles Are Sure To Follow.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS on their first inception, and will thereby prevent you from becoming affected with some serious lung trouble, such as bronchitis, pneumonia or even consumption.

When you ask for "Dr. Wood's" see that you get it as there are many imitations on the market.

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price, 25c and 50c; and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. Thomas Bridges, Corrie, Ont., writes: "I was so bad with a cold I gave up work, and I was in bed four weeks being unable to do anything. I thought the cold was turning to bronchitis, so I changed my medicine to Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I used three bottles, and they completely cured me, and I am as strong as ever. I highly recommend it to all sufferers."

THE GERMAN MARCHING SONG

From the German of Hoffman Von Fallersleben, rendered freely into English verse by George Sylvester Viereck.

Deutschland, Deutschland, land of all lands,

First and foremost in the world,

When thy children face united

Every foe against thee hurled,

From the Meuse unto the Rhine,

To the sea, with flag unfurled:

Deutschland, Deutschland, land of all lands,

First and foremost in the world!

German truth, and German woman,

German wine and German song,

Shall retain their ancient glamor,

Though the years be dark and long,

Noble deeds they shall inspire

In our hearts and make us strong:

German truth and German women,

German wine and German song!

Brotherhood and right and freedom

Bless thee, German Fatherland!

For this goal we strive together,

One and all, with heart and hand.

For upon these mighty pillars

Evermore thy wel must stand:

Bloom and flourish in thy glory,

Flourish, German Fatherland!

owe their singular effectiveness in curing Rheumatism, Lumbago, and Sciatica to their power of stimulating and strengthening the kidneys. They enable these organs to thoroughly filter from the blood the uric acid (the product of waste matter) which gets into the joints and muscles and causes these painful diseases. Over half a century of constant use has proved conclusively that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills strengthen weak kidneys and
