ming. Examined by Mr. Teed he said he was the man mentioned in the Dugal charges. He resided at Woodstock and represented Carleton in the legislature. He was appointed provincial secretary in March, 1908, and surveyor general in October, 1911. At the present time he was minister of lands and mines. The witness then gave some information about the crown land leases, and the rate of stumpage which prevailed when he took office. He said that he worked out the skeleton of the act of 1913 relating to crown lands, and introduced the bill in the legislature. He then described for the benefit of the court the main features of the bill. Witness fixed the value of the lands for lumber purposes and had the assistance of Mr. W. H. Berry. He considered Berry a very competent official. It was Mr. Berry who made the classification of the land and reported to witness as head of the department. It was decided to make a fixed rate of stumpage for a period of years. The witness went on to say that he was informed by Mr. Berry that the lumbermen were desirous of making a contribution to the party funds. The idea did not originate with the witness. He told Berry that he (witness) could have no connection with anything of that kind and that Berry's usefulness as an official would be gone if he received money from the lumbermen. He admitted advising with Berry as to how the fund should be taken care of. He suggested that Mr. E. R. Teed of Woodstock, would be a proper person to receive the funds. Witness and Teed both lived at Woodstock and consulted about the matter. Teed consented to handle the fund. He never made a request to any lumbermen to contribute to the fund, and had had no conversation with any lumbermen before or since the charges were made. He understood that the payments were entirely voluntarily, otherwise he would not have permitted them to be made. Neither Mr. Rundle or Mr. Fenderson ever complained to him about extortion. He never instructed Mr. Berry to collect $15 a mile from the lumbermen. No money was extorted from the lumbermen with his knowledge or consent. The witness then submitted a statement showing the amount received per mile from the sale of crown lands since 1899. He claimed that last year the government received $112 a mile.

At four o'clock Mr. Teed informed the court for an adjournment to give him an opportunity to consult with his client on some matters on which he was not fully instructed and his request was granted.

Mr. Carvell—You regard this as a good time to adjourn, after you have put in that statement.

Mr. Teed—I am not a politician and know nothing about the rules of that game, but (laughingly) I am glad if I have, unwittingly, displayed a knowledge of political expediency.

The court adjourned until ten o'clock this morning.

TEED AGAIN ON STAND.

E. R. Teed again took the stand Thursday afternoon and Mr. Stevens resumed his examination.

To whom did you pay the $15,000 loan to the Flemming-Gibson company?

A.—I think I paid it to the book-keeper. Mr. Flemming was in the office.

Q.—Was it paid in money?

A.—Partly, and part, I think, in checks. I used to transfer some of the cash from the deposit box to my credit in the bank and draw on it by check. I also transferred some of the cash to a safety deposit box in the Royal Bank at Woodstock.

Q.—Who was the president of the company? Mr. Flemming?

A.—I don't remember. I can find out.

Q.—Have you remembered who signed the note?

A.—I think it was signed with the company's stencil and I think it may have been signed per J. K. Flemming?

Q.—To which box did you give Mr. Flemming the key?

A.—The one in which the money happened to be at the time. I kept one key and gave the other to Mr. Flemming. It is only recently that the boxes were installed at Woodstock.

Q.—You have no knowledge whether Mr. Flemming opened the box?

A.—Except that he told me he did not.

Q.—To whom were the eighty-three shares of Maine & N.B. stock sold?

A.—That is a question I would prefer not to answer. The gentleman is responsible, he is not connected with any of the parties in this case, and I do not want to reveal his private affairs.

M. G. Teed also objected.

Com. Fisher—If Mr. Teed can assure us that the purchaser was not connected either directly or indirectly with any person connected with this case I think we might let it go.

Witness—All I can say is that the purchaser came to me and said he understood I had some securities which were paying pretty well and he was willing to buy them. I wanted to sell, so we made the transfer. I also sold twelve shares to the Eastern Securities Company and I don't know for whom they were acting.

Q.—At what price did you purchase the Brazilian stock?

A.—I cannot tell, but I can tell at what it stands.

Q.—Does it show a profit or loss?

A.—At a loss, I think. My recollection is that they were purchased in different lots. The total price was $3,931, that would be an average price of about 90.

Q.—At what does the stock stand now?

A.—About 72.

Q.—Was there a profit on Detroit?

A.—A small loss.

Q.—Have you still the fifty shares of Southern Pacific?

A.—Yes, that is charged up at $4,643, about 90. It is quoted this morning at 96.

Q.—What further investments did you make?

A.—Those were the only stock transactions I had in connection with the fund. As the funds returned I took them to the bank and placed them on special deposit. I think that is the whole history of the fund.

Q.—How much did you invest?

A.—$43,685.

Q.—That would leave $11,500 uninvested?

A.—Around that amount. My recollection of it was that sometimes there would be some of it invested and sometimes there would not. At no time was the whole fund tied up.

Q.—To what further use was the fund put before you gathered it in again?

A.—I don't know of any further use.

Q.—When it was transferred from the safety deposit box it would be mixed up with your own money?

A.—Yes, except perhaps, the balance kept in St. John.

Q.—At any time was the balance below the amount you owed this fund?

A.—No.

Q.—Why was it transferred to your personal account?

A.—I did not know any other way of handling it and the amounts were never large.

Q.—What use did you make of this account?

A.—I used the funds to pay for the securities.

Q.—You did not make any personal use of the fund?

A.—I never intended to and I did not.

Q.—Did Mr. Flemming profit in any other way by this fund?

A.—No, these were the only transactions I had with Mr. Flemming in connection with the fund.

Q.—You have a statement of the present condition of the fund?

A.—Yes and always had a statement with the fund, showing what belonged to the fund and what to me. The account now stands: Fifty-six shares of Maine & N.B.; forty-five shares of —

A.—That is what I thought, but the records would show. I am willing to take your word for it. Did I buy it from the Maine & N.B. Co.?

Mr. Carvell—I think so.

Witness—Well, whoever I got it from I paid the money for it.

Continuing, the witness said that his present holding and their cost to him were:

|                              |            |

A.—I would rather not give it.

Q.—What objection have you?

A.—I would not want to give a detailed statement.

Q.—If you put it that way, I would like to know.

Judge Wells—The expenses are very moderate. I am amazed at the moderation of the witness.

Q.—How long did you have those bonds?

A.—The bonds were part payment of the M. & N.B. stock.

count? A.—It was at different times, but after the Dugal charges were made.

Q.—Where was the $36,000 odd, prior to that?

A.—The greater amount of it was cash from the conversion of securities after the charges were laid. There was the cash I held uninvested, the payment on account of the Flemming & Gibson Company loan.

Q.—It was since the last session at St. John that you made some of these changes?

A.—The only change is that at that time I had the M. & N.B. stock where I now have cash.

Q.—Mr. Sayre has stated that you went to him personally for a contribution. Did you go to him?

A.—I met him and the gist of the conversation was as Mr. Sayre gave it, except that he asked me some questions as to what was expected of him. I told him I did not know. He said they expected to come in. I said that was entirely up to him, my only duty was to receive the funds. He asked what the others were doing and I said I understood it was $15 a mile. I made no demand on him. That was at the Royal Hotel. He came to see me at the request of Mr. Berry.

A.—Did he pay you any money?

A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Did the Miramichi Lumber Company pay anything?

A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Did you and Berry talk with Mr. Brankley about a contribution from his company?

A.—It may have been mentioned.
