

Diamonds for Grand Opera Stars

BASE metal is no fit setting for the golden voice of a great singer. So—in the new Edison Phonograph, the Reproducing Point is a Diamond.

This gem is a permanent part of the instrument—doing away with metal needles which must be changed with every record. With the liquid, melting, thrilling tones of the glorious grand opera voices come to you in all their ravishing richness and clarity. To hear Martinelli and Bonci—Lucresia Bori and Anna Case—Polesse and Caronni—is a treat indeed; and they are heard at their best with the new Edison Phonograph.

The new Edison Phonograph has the diamond reproducing point, unbreakable and long playing records, superior motors and construction, concealed horns, and the Cabinets are made in true Period styles, in perfect harmony with the finest furniture.

Remember, you have a standing invitation to call and let us play for you any Record, or any number of Records, that you care to hear.

Whether you have an EDISON—or intend to get one—come and see the new instruments and hear the new records.

PERSISTENCY IN ADVERTISING

The stroke of a bell in a thick fog does not give a lasting impression of its location, but when followed by repeated strokes at regular strokes at regular intervals the densest fog, the darkest night can not long conceal its whereabouts. Likewise a single insertion of an advertisement—as compared with regular and systematic ADVERTISING—is in its effect not unlike a sound which, heard but faintly once is lost in space and soon forgot—cussions it will be apparent that neither the British empire nor South Africa was the aggressor in this struggle. War was in the first instance, declared by Austria-Hungary, and thereafter by Germany, under circumstances in which the British government employed its utmost powers to maintain peace of Europe and to safeguard the neutrality of Belgium.

So far as we ourselves are concerned, our coast is threatened, our mail boats are arrested and our borders are invaded by the enemy. This latter does not occur, as you say, in an involuntary manner, and with an apology which latter, at any rate, was never tendered to the government. Under these circumstances it is absurd to speak about the aggressive action on the part of the Union, seeing that altogether with the British empire we have been drawn against our wish and will and entirely in self-defence into this war.

As regards your insinuation concerning the loan of seven million pounds which the British government was kind enough to grant us and for which the public of the Union, as evidenced recently in parliament, are most grateful, it was of such a despicable nature that there was no necessity to make any comment there on. It only shows to what extent your mind has been obscured by political bias.

You speak about duty and honor; my conviction is that the people of South Africa will in these dark days, when the government as well as the people of South Africa are put to the supreme test, have a clearer conception of duty and honor than is to be deduced from your letter and action. For the Dutch-speaking section, in particular, I cannot conceive anything more fatal and humiliating than a policy of loyalty in fair weather and a policy of neutrality and pro-German sentiment in days of storm and stress. It may be that our peculiar internal circumstances and our backward condition after the great war will place a limit on what we can do, but nevertheless I am convinced that the people will support the government in carrying out the mandate of parliament and in this manner, which is the only legitimate one, fulfill their duty to South Africa and to the empire, and maintain their dearly-won honor unblemished for the future.

Your resignation is hereby accepted. (Sgd.) J. O. SMUTS.

A Word With Subscribers

It is a popular misconception that in times of War a newspaper makes money. As a matter of fact, any newspaper which tries to do its duty by its subscribers, loses money during war time. This is true of The Daily and Semi-Weekly Mail. Both of these papers, in spite of their tremendous increase in circulation, are not making any profit out of the war. This being the case, we have to ask our subscribers who are in arrears to be good enough to REMIT. If we are properly doing our duty toward you as a subscriber, we have to ask that you will carry out your duty to us by remitting promptly any amount that may be owing to us.

If you want to help us make our paper better, send us your subscription in advance. We assure you that we will spend it in improving our news service.

Accounts are now being sent out, and we will be very much indebted to you if you will give the same your prompt attention.

SPLENDID WORK

oeuvre, to reach the hostile trenches in a single rush. They never have succeeded in doing this against us. If, by creeping up in dead ground, they succeed in forwarding their positions by night, they are easily driven back by fire in the morning. A few of the braver men sometimes remain behind at close range and endeavor to inflict losses by sniping. Sharpshooters also are often noticed in trees or wriggling about until they get good cover. The remedy is to take the initiative and detail men to deal with the enemy's sharpshooters.

NEVER CLOSE WITH BAYONET.

"Few night attacks have been made against us. Previous to one of them a party of the enemy crept up close to the British line and set alight a hay-rick so it should form a beacon on which the centre of the attacking line marched. Generally, however, in these night and early morning attacks groups of forty or fifty men have come forward as independent units, sometimes widely separated one from the other, and making every endeavor to obtain any advantage from cover. Light balls and searchlights on some occasions have been used. Latterly these attacks have become more and more half-hearted.

"Against our men the enemy has never closed with the bayonet.

"The German trenches I have seen were deep enough to shelter a man when firing from a standing position. As regards our men, there was at first considerable reluctance to intrench, as always had been the case at the commencement of fighting. Now, however, having bought their experiences dearly, their defence are such that they can defy the German artillery."

In Peace and in War

—in sickness and in health—in good times and in bad times—in all climes and in all seasons—

is the one staple, universal breakfast cereal and sells at the same price throughout the civilized world. War is always the excuse for increasing the cost of living, but no dealer can raise the price of Shredded Wheat. It is always the same in price and quality—contains more real nutriment than meat or eggs—is ready-cooked and ready-to-serve.

Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, heated in the oven to restore crispness and eaten with milk or cream, will supply all the nutriment needed for a half day's work at a cost of not over four cents. Deliciously nourishing and satisfying for any meal with fruits or creamed vegetables.
