The true Canadian is essentially a sportsman, and the ten pages or so filled with Dominion Championships and Records in sport and Athletics will make a wlde appeal.

The Empire section occupies one hundred pages, opening with a descriptive introduction. Copious information about the Navy and Army is given, and each part of the Em pire has a separate section, on the same plan as the Provinces of Can-ada. The system of Government, the character of its people, its trade with Canada and the rest of the world, as well as a brief historical outline, are given for each unit of the Empire, and the Empire of India has a special sect on of great interest assigned to it.

The Imperial Year Book, with its mass of electional statistics, is mine of information for the political worker, while its non-pertizan character is manifested by the insertion of portraits of both Sir R. L. Bor-den and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The work has been brought up-to-date the inclusion of the final figures of Dominion Finances for the past fiscal year, the recent general elec-tions in Ontario and Manitoba, the names of Canadian recipients of the King's birthday honors, the winner of the Canadian Men's Golf Chamsionship, and the administrative chan ges in far-away Nigeria.

It is announced as a Dominion Day sity of New Brunswick, preached at publication, giving it something of the character of a National Birth-Church at McAdam yesterday.
