THE PRODUCTION IN 7 ACTS AND 289 SCENES BY THE BARKER
COMPANY, LONDON

To the generation of today Victoria's serene reign has passed into history. There are, however, many yet living in this country, as well as abroad, who had the rare privilege of seeing the face of Her Majesty, and almost as many heard her voice.

The great film of "Sixty Years a Queen" now gives to those who have neither seen nor heard the Royal Sovereign, an opportunity to be brought to closer knowledge of some of her noble deeds. A pictorial can transmit what words cannot.

The management of the New Gallery Kinema, in London, England, where this impressive pictorial was first presented, was hesitant in announcing the premiere of the work because it realized, in a measure, the magnitude of the subject and the impossibility of encompassing, within the limit of a two-hour exhibition, all the many stirring episodes that marked the reign of Her Majesty.

It was not a question with the London management what to include in the pictures, but what to eliminate for lack of room in the film, for the Queen's life so teemed with incidents that are graven in the world's memory.

Victoria lived for her country. By her life she showed the world the true meaning of feminine greatness.

LITTLE OF EVERYTHING

For a bet of ten shillings, a Barnsbury laborer consumed twelve buns and a gallon of ale in twelve minutes.

Old-age pensioners at Chiswick, England, are admitted free to one of the picture theatres every Friday on production of their pension books.

For "placing an obstacle on the rail, thereby causing a train to stop," a peasant of Njni Novgorod was recently fined. He was trying to commit suicide, and the "obstacle" was his own head.

Leopold Federmann won the Bavarian beer-drinking championship by consuming at a three-hours' sitting at Munich fifty-three pints. Hans Hehnert came second with thirty-nine pints, while the third competitor accounted for twenty-seven.

It is estimated that the motor cars and motorcycles running in Great Britain and Ireland aggregate a value of approximately $275,000,000, while their first cost, the money spent on the purchase of motors during, say, the last ten years, cannot have been far short of $500,000,000.

Mr. John T. Stone, president of the Maryland Casualty Company, of Baltimore, reduced his own salary by $6,000 a year. He was receiving $36,000 a year. He told the directors that he was being overpaid and asked them to sanction a reduction. He explained that the cutting his own salary was preliminary to a reduction of expenses in all departments.

A curious novelty was introduced on the Paris stage in a little play called "Bleard, dit le Bouif," at the Théâtre Cluny, in the Latin quarter. Every evening a racing character in the piece gives the audiences a tip for next day's racing. Qualitatively enough, the tips proved extraordinarily successful.

WHY NOT SPORTS?

It seems to us that one of the best means to encourage general interest in the country as a place to live in is for communities to aid in organizing amateur sport and give the young people a reasonable amount of time in which to make themselves proficient in the particular sport in which they desire to engage. If the farm work has to be stopped one or two nights a week a half an hour or an hour earlier in order that the chores may be done in time to get to the ball field, it will in the end mean a very small loss; in fact, it generally proves a gain, as interested boys are much better workers than those who look upon their daily operations as drudgery with no play thrown in. The old adage, 'All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy,' will never wear threadbare. It is just as true to-day as it ever was, and we believe that parents and the older folks generally should take an interest in the sports of the young people. There is a great means of developing not only good physique but first class mental training in meeting opponents on a common ground fairly and squarely, and doing the utmost that lies within one's power to win on a fair basis a game of football, basketball or hockey. Many a man owes the measure of self-control which he has in his older life to experiences on the diamond or gridiron. There is plenty of land in the country to provide athletic fields, and here should be sufficient interest taken to insure a number well supplied with the best possible pastimes which amateur sport offers, and where the people know the players, take an interest in the team, and everything is done on a square and fair basis.

SANTA CLAUS MAY HAVE LEAN PACK THIS YEAR

New York, Aug. 15.—Whole regiments of German soldiers which annually cross the Atlantic about this time are being kept at home this year, and there is no saying when they will come, if at all. Some of them possibly have started the trans-Atlantic voyage and perhaps now may be on their way to New York or other coast ports, with the danger of being captured by British warships said to be on the lookout for "prizes." But these regiments of soldiers in reference, while gaily attired in the colors of the Fatherland, are little troubled whether they fall into British, French or American hands, for they are of the tin and wooden variety, manufactured for the Christmas trade.

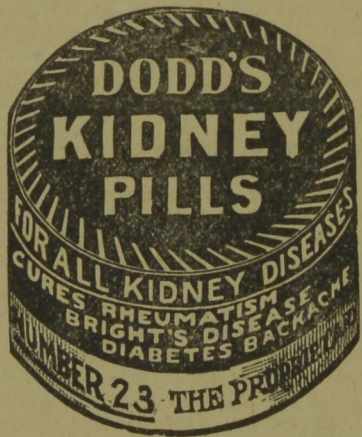

Tin and wooden soldiers are about the only kind that Germany is willing to have leave her domain now, but it begins to look as if the soldiers, the dolls, the mechanical toys and various other Christmas products of German ingenuity and handicraft are not destined to take their accustomed places on American shelves and showcases this fall and winter unless Germany succeeds in gaining mastery of the seas. It is a far cry to Christmas, perhaps, and possibly a bit incongruous to be talking of Christmas toys in the same breath with a general European war; but looking at the matter from another standpoint, the fact that that one has a decided bearing upon the far-reaching are the effects of a war and what a multiple of channels of both trade and pleasure that they other is just another example of how strike.

Foreign toys amount to pretty nearly half of the volume of business done in the American toy market each year, figured in dollars and cents, even though the cost of their manufacture is considerably less than the domestic product. Of the toys brought to America from abroad, the great preponderance are from Germany. In the year 1911 the value of toy importations into the United States, according to Government statistics, was $8,151,038.

Germany is the great toy-producing nation, the volume of its returns last year from this industry being close to thirty million dollars.

A few shipments of toys from Germany was received before the war assumed a serious aspect. But the great bulk of the German toys designed for the holiday trade this year are still awaiting shipment at the other side, in German steamships from Hamburg. The supposition is that they will remain at home indefinitely.

"John Halifax, Gentleman," has been dramatized by John Dunsinuir, an English playwright, and probably will be seen in America during the coming season.

SAFEGUARDING VALUABLES

Latest Type of Safe Has Not Lock Key or Keyhole

Nowadays the safe thief must be a highly trained expert. The Bill Sykes type of burglar has passed. Every year the work of the professional safe breaker becomes harder and more dangerous. Actually music must now form a part of his training.

The latest type of safe has no locks, keys or keyholes. Instead, there is a tightly-stretched wire, which responds to its own musical note. The wire is connected with an electric battery inside the safe, and to open one must sound a tuning-fork, or a note on bugle, organ or trumpet, it precisely the same key as the wire. When the note is sounded the sensitive wire vibrates, and turns on the current which operates the locking mechanism.

Three wires are used in some instances, necessitating, of course, three trumpet blasts in different keys before the mechanism will work.

The obvious danger to this apparatus is, of course, that one of the wires might get out of tune, in which case the safe would remain snugly locked until the right key was struck.

MISS G. E. FUSS

Troublesome Twins

Twins in the French army are causing the officials a lot of trouble. They so closely resemble each other they can fool all the officers, and when one has a privilege he will trade it with the other for a reasonable sum. This interchange has been the cause of a great lack of discipline in the regiment.

One day one of the brothers was confined to the barracks, but by changing his cap with its regimental number for that of his brother, the defaulter was able to pass the guard with impunity whenever he wanted to go out. The colonel of the regiment has now issued the following order:

"The soldier Bonhomme (even number) will wear his hair as long as the regulations, construed with the utmost leniency, will allow, and will shave his beard and moustache. The soldier Bonhomme (odd number) will allow his beard and moustache to grow full, and will have his hair regularly cut as closely as possible by the regimental barber."

The Chinch Bug

In the United States the losses due to the ravages of the Chinch Bug during the last sixty years, considerably exceeded $350,000,000. Fortunately no very serious outbreaks have as yet occurred in Canada, but the insect has established itself in Middlesex County in Ontario, and has been reported also from Nova Scotia.

Invented New Word

French scientists have adopted the word "frigory," meaning the amount of cold necessary to reduce the temperature of a kilogram of water one degree Centigrade, as a unit of measurement for refrigerating and allied industries.

Cooking by Gas-jet

For cooking small articles a Western inventor has patented a pan adjustable at varying heights along a rod, to be clamped on a gas light burner.

Spectacles as Binoculars

Ordinary spectacles can be made to serve as binoculars by the invention of a frame holding an auxiliary pair of lenses to be fastened in front of the others.

PERSISTENCY IN ADVERTISING

One stroke of a bell in a thick fog does not give a lasting impression of its location, but when followed by repeated strokes at regular intervals the densest fog, the darkest night can not long conceal its whereabouts. Likewise a single insertion of an advertisement---as compared with regular and systematic ADVERTISING---is in its effect not unlike a sound which, heard but faintly once is lost in space and soon forgot---
