SOME PLAIN TALK

The newspapers of the United States continue to give unmistakable expression to the feeling of the people of that country with respect to the stupid utterance of the German Ambassador at Washington in regard to Germany's "right" to invade Canada. There is no newspaper which is more widely recognized as truly voicing United States opinion than the Springfield Republican. Says that journal, for the instruction of Count Bernstorff and others whom it may concern:

"It might be helpful to point out that no European Power could ever invade Canada without causing a tremendous commotion and arousing the keenest apprehension in the United States; and that, too, is said without the slightest reference to the Monroe Doctrine. Canadians and Americans have been living in North America, together for some three hundred years, and they will be living here side by side for at least three hundred years to come. No European Power should ever attempt to conquer Canada without carefully weighing the probabilities of having the United States to conquer at the same time; and this is offered as a purely academic contribution to a subject as remote in its character as one pleases."

Mrs. Pat Campbell, the English actress, said to a New York interviewer:—"When I left England—a little over three weeks ago—the men were in such a state of fervor and enthusiasm they could think of nothing but war. And when they are like that—What can one do but let them go? In England, you know, it is not as it is in Russia or Germany or in France, where there is compulsory military service. No man of ours is compelled to go to war—that fact gives our armies of volunteers a strength of will, of individual desire to fight, which the others cannot have. It is all too horrible—too horrible! What a fuss we make when one man murders another, and with what equanimity we accept this wholesale murder! You cannot allow yourself to think what loss and destruction, what misery this war creates!"

LORD Kitchener, the British war secretary, seems to be pretty good at stopping strikes. A great British biscuit factory was working day and night turning out biscuits for the army. In order to do enough work, it had to call in non-union men. Some of the union men did not like this, and a walking delegate came around to order the union men to strike. Kitchener told him that every man as he walked out of the factory would be shot and that the walking delegate himself, who was making the trouble, would be among them. The strike, needless to say, failed to materialize.

Count von Moltke, the great German strategist of 1870, one said that he knew of ways to get the German army into England but of no way to get it out again. Now Kaiser William thinks he is much smarter than Moltke, and is said to think seriously of sending the German army to the southern coast of England. He expects that the British fleet will be occupied with the German fleet while he is engaged in sending the German army across the Straits of Dover.

Hats off to Australia. One of her cruisers assisting in the work of guarding Britain's commerce on the Pacific ocean has put the German cruiser Emden out of business. There will be great joy in the antipodes over this achievement.

The member of the Local government who described himself and colleagues "as a cheap outfit" seems to have done pretty close to the truth, although the people who pay the bills will scarcely agree with him.

Turkey and Russia will soon be battling for seventh place in the naval league.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir George E. Foster, Hon. J. D. Hazen have been obliged to decline invitations, to come to New Brunswick and address public meetings with the object of stimulating the work of recruiting. If it is necessary to address public meetings to secure men for second contingent it is scarcely necessary to go outside of the province for speakers. There is there a man better fitted for the work than Rev. Dr. Campbell of Sackville?

It is to be hoped that there is no truth in the report that the Suburban train service between Fredericton and Marysville is to be withdrawn. The present management of the I. C. R. have done some strange things and one never knows what is coming next. If they attempt to meddle with this train service they will find it necessary to seek refuge in a bomb proof cellar.

The Standard says that Hon. Geo. J. Clarke is in Montreal. Hon. Mr. Murray is to join him there and accompany him to Ottawa and that Lieut. Governor Wood is reported to be in the upper provinces. Thanks for this information. Now tell us why was it necessary for them to take the Dugal report along?

MORE CROOKED WORK

some information as to the report of the Royal Commission. He said that he was sorry to see that a document which the government press charged was so expensive was being treated with such carelessness as to be trundled back and forth from Fredericton to Ottawa.

"It surely cannot be true," said Mr. Carter, "that Governor Wood would take such a valuable report from the confines of New Brunswick. The governor of this province would surely need no aid in considering such a document. If a politician such as the acting premier had it in his grasp then, of course, he might hasten to show Hon. Mr. Hazen what a wonderful piece of work it was and how thoroughly Messrs. McKeown, Fisher and Wells had done their part."

"Hon. Mr. Murray might well be guilty of the same eagerness," continued Mr. Carter, "but Governor Wood, although a keen Tory politician all his life, undoubtedly when he became governor made up his mind to leave politics behind him and consider only the interests of the people. It may of course, require some explanation—for there are people who are never satisfied—why the governor's private secretary took the Royal Commission's report to Fredericton Junction to meet the Montreal train, upon which Governor Wood journeyed to Ottawa and to whom he gave the bulky document, but that of course, will be made in good time, and Governor Wood cleared entirely of any suspicion of hobnobbing with Ottawa politicians over the report and its political consequences to Premier Flemming and his government."

SUPT. BERRY'S CROOKED WORK.

"Did you ever get William H. Berry back?" inquired an innocent-looking bystander.

"You are mistaken," said Mr. Carter, "his name is not 'William' but 'Willard.' You will remember some point was made of that fact by Mr. Flemming's counsel. But he's back all right and I understand improving 'Government House'—for that is what the people call his magnificent home at Oak Bay. He appears to be healthy and affluent and no doubt is so. Acting Premier Clarke must have been surprised to see his former chief scaler so bold and fearless, and, as it were, defying him and his government to proceed against him for his official conduct but it is possible that the acting premier was not in possession of all the facts. Some important things have been disclosed since the inquiry closed and the acting premier, Mr. Clarke, as well as the acting minister of lands and mines, Mr. Murray, might care to inquire into them. So long as Berry is available they might ask him why he accepted personally one thousand dollars from Hubert Sinclair, another thousand from George M. Stevens, a thousand from Allan Ritchie, and still other contributions of a like nature from the lumbermen, in addition to the fifteen dollars per square mile for the campaign fund and while he is making inquiries of Mr. Berry, get him to explain what became of the check for $2,903.32, dated August 20, 1912, which was given by the Dalhousie Lumber Company in settlement of the balance of their stumpage account. Let Mr. Clarke inquire of Col. Loggie if this money was ever paid into the Crown Land Department or what reduction was made in the first scale submitted to the department. He will find that it was not paid into Crown Land revenues and I think it will afford him all the opportunity he wants to prosecute Mr. Berry in the interests of the people of this province."

The Cruiser Sydney which battered the German cruiser Emden and drove her on the rocks belonged to Australia's "tin pot navy."

MOTHER! IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs"

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs!" then don't worry because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

The special meeting of the Married Ladies' Society for the Better Control and Guidance of Husbands was in session.

"My husband formed the habit of spending three nights a week at the club," said the weeping member, "and I threatened him with a divorce suit. Now he goes to the club every night in the week."

It is no longer fashionable to cultivate a swarthy skin. The best way to avoid it is to use Elderflower Witch Hazel Cream on the face, hands and arms after bathing, boating, tennis or motoring. It relieves the skin from burning caused by the summer sun, and leaves it smooth and cool.
