ENGLISH PRESS

FEARS INVASION OF AMERICAN GOLFERS

Quimet, Travers and Others are Carefully Examining Grounds and Playing Conditions

In the London Daily Mail of April 25, there was an editorial on "The Golfing Invasion," which expressed a viewpoint of American methods and ideals in sport somewhat unusual in tone to what we usually read in English papers. Commenting upon the early arrival of American golfers, who are to compete on English courses and in the amateur championship, their painstaking efforts to test and study conditions of turf, light, atmosphere and wind, The Daily Mail says:

"In other words, their attack is not a raid; it is a matured and comprehensive plan of campaign in which as little as possible is left to chance. . . . These players take pains. They look ahead and prepare they learn beforehand exactly what is to be done and how to do it; they omit no precautions that will enable them to cut the best possible figure in whatever encounter they engage. It is this spirit of foresight and perseverance and minute attention to detail that has brought them the victory in so many and such varied branches of sport.

"And it is precisely this spirit that we in Great Britain as a rule are lacking. We are as deliberately casual as our foreign and especially our American competitors, are deliberately careful. . . . These American golfers, so early on the ground and so anxious to neglect nothing that will help them to victory, are something more than good sportsmen and valued rivals. They are also an object lesson in the right sort of efficiency."

SILVER FOX RANCHES MAKE BIG PROFITS

ranching which would be about ten per cent. The companies and non-incorporated ranches paid to their shareholders mainly in September and October dividends averaging 50 per cent, but with a wide range from nothing up to 500 per cent and over. And yet the year was in several respects an unfavorable one owing to the number of pairs which failed to produce young, and the number of litters lost at, or shortly after birth. This resulted in large part from the great number of new ranches for which skilled and experienced caretakers could not be had. A well-known breeder assures me that ninety per cent of his young pairs had litters at one year old, and that his entire ranch of old and young breeders last year averaged 4½ young per pair. This is of course remarkable as the average production throughout the Island last year was a fraction under two young per pair. Litters of seven and even eight were produced in some cases and these found ready sale at current prices of six thousand dollars each, or twelve thousand dollars per pair or better. The year's young of a single vizen were sold for $48,000.

SUBSCRIPTION FUND

STARTED FOR LOU CRIGER

Old Boston Red Sox Catcher in Hospital at the Hub--Seriously Ill and in Need of Aid--Famous Backstop is to be Sent to Arizona for His Health

(Boston Globe)

"Lou" Criger, once a prominent member of the Boston American Club one of the greatest catchers of his day in baseball, the backstop in the famous "Young and Criger" and "Dineen and Criger" batteries, is in Boston taking treatment at a private hospital. He is discouraged, broken in health as well as financially and is being given treatment at the hospital free of charge.

Hundreds of fans who heard of his arrival in town from his home in Elkhart, Ind., on Friday, have inquired as to how he was fixed financially and an investigation reveals the fact that he has no money whatever.

He has been ill for some time with a tubercular knee and other complications. He had a farm in Indiana, but that has been mortgaged to the limit. His stock died and he has been unfortunate all around, through no fault of his.

People who knew him in his prosperous days and have not forgotten what a faithful and efficient worker he was how loyal he was to the Boston Club and what his work with it meant in the championships it won, have proposed that a fund be started for his benefit through the wise expenditure of which his life may be saved.

The Boston newspapers have agreed to cooperate in the matter and John Merrill the old Boston player, has consented to act as treasurer of the fund.

While he is a very sick man his case is not regarded as hopeless. He is at the private hospital of Dr. Andreas Christian, 402-403 Marlboro St. Dr. Christian treated Criger for a serious illness eight years ago, and the sick man says he is certain that he can pull him through again. At that time Criger came to town in nearly as bad condition as he is now, and no one ever expected to see him on the ball field again, but they did, and enjoyed his great work in many a hard fought battle.

His ball playing days are over but his life may be prolonged with proper treatment and care, and in order that he may have both, the Criger fund will be started today.

FARMING IN THE NORTH

The Upper Mackenzie Valley Can Probably be Tilled

No. 1 hard wheat, grown 800 miles north of Edmonton, prize vegetables raised on the Arctic Circle, and spruce trees six feet in diameter, are some of the wonders of the Northern Territories which Mr. Henry A. Conroy, Inspector of Indian Agencies, saw on a northern inspection tour.

Known officially as "Treaty No. 8," the territory over which Mr. Conroy exercises supervision is inhabited by about 8,000 Indians. Once a year Inspector Conroy visits the 18 agencies located in Treaty 8, and distributes to the Indians about $35,000 in money and several thousand dollars' worth of food, ammunition, fishing nets, and other necessities of aboriginal life.

"Our agent there experimented with three varieties of wheat, the yields from which were taken down to Edmonton and graded No. 1 hard," said Mr. Conroy. "He grew also 300 bushels of oats. They weighed 35 pounds to the bushel. Rye and barley were also successfully grown.

"The very best gardens I saw on the whole route are at Fort Good Hope, still further north. In the upper Mackenzie Valley there is a country as large as Manitoba and every bit of it fit for settlement."

Ben Greet will begin his open-air season in Savannah in a few weeks.
