PERSISTENCY IN ADVERTISING

One stroke of a bell in a thick fog does not give a lasting impression of its location, but when followed by repeated strokes at regular intervals the densest fog, the darkest night can not long conceal its whereabouts. Likewise a single insertion of an advertisement--as compared with regular and systematic ADVERTISING--is in its effect not unlike a sound which, heard but faintly once is lost in space and soon forgot---

DIETING AND EXERCISE CONDUCE TO HEALTH

Old Athlete Tells Middle-aged Men
How to Keep in Condition

Mike Donovan, who has been for thirty years boxing instructor of the New York Athletic Club is now 6 years old, and probably ninety-nine men out of a hundred between the ages of twenty and thirty would find him an extremely awkward customer at any form of physical encounter. He is willing to tell what he knows, for he believes that the term "self defence" means more than the ability of a man to repel an attack. When Donovan uses the term he means the ability of a man to fight off old age, or rather the common symptoms of it. He himself is grey haired to-day, but he is an athlete who can box from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until late at night and hardly quicken his breathing. No one living of his years is in better condition for hard and continuous physical exertion. At a time of life when many men are tottering to the grave he is a trained athlete.

Original Ideas on Condition

Donovan has been too busy to be much of a reader, and it may be taken for granted that the ideas he has upon the subject of physical fitness are not those conveyed to him by some theorist. They are the fruit of a lifetime spent in keeping fit and in keeping other people fit. He believes that physical fitness for the middle-aged man and the man who is still further advanced in life is easily enough attainable. All that is required is some will power, and, of course, some intelligence. It is a matter of diet and exercise. He needs to eat less, and exercise more and practice deep breathing, and do without tobacco and alcohol.

Down on Alcohol

Donovan believes that the average business man whose work is done behind a desk or counter eats about three times as much as he should. Moreover, he probably drinks too much. Donovan's idea of too much drinking is any drinking. He says that alcohol should be regarded as poison, and everyone knows that even a very little poison is a bad thing. He says that three quarts of water ought to be imbibed in the course of the day. Then at meal times there will not be the demand for liquids. He is also opposed to the drinking of tea and coffee, and after water he places warm milk. Those who insist upon drinking tea or coffee ought to drink plenty of milk with it, and the drinking ought not to be done at meal time.

For a Light Breakfast

We find his authority flatly opposed to the medical men who say that breakfast ought to be the best meal. He is against a heavy breakfast, and for that matter, too, a heavy lunch. Even at night he does not favor anything in the nature of a meal that will leave the consumer satiated. We ought to leave the table feeling that we could eat more. Mike is something of a vegetarian, but a discriminating one, for he does not endorse all vegetables. He divides them into two classes. In the first he places spinach, string beans, cauliflower and cabbage, and insists that cabbage ought to be well cooked. These vegetables ought to be eaten freely. On the black list, as far as he is concerned, go tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce and radishes.

Get Plenty of Sleep

As far as meat is concerned, Donovan says that beef and mutton are in a class by themselves. He is a strong advocate of the Fletcher system, and cautions against any boiling of meats. To the man who smokes he says that the best thing to smoke is a pipe, the next best a cigar. The cigarette is condemned wholeheartedly because of the general practice of inhaling it. He differs with such authorities as Edison in the matter of sleeping hours. The old saying of "seven hours for a man, eight for a woman and nine for a fool" finds no champion in him. Everyone ought to sleep at least eight hours. His own preference is for nine. As for the choice of exercise, while Donovan is naturally partial to boxing, he believes that walking is the best for general purposes, since everyone can walk a little if he tries.

To Keep Shoes From Slipping

Pumps often give trouble by slipping. To remedy the fault, stitch a piece of ribbon elastic tightly across inside the top of the heel. This will prevent the continual wear of the heel of the stocking.

FOR THE SAFETY OF THE CZAR OF RUSSIA

St. Petersburg, July 5.—The assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife has naturally resulted in increased fears for the safety of the Czar, upon whose life no fewer than six attempts have been made. Not in the history of the Russian railways have such elaborate precautions ever been observed to protect the imperial train than those which are now being perfected for the return journey of the imperial family from their trip in Southern Russia. Every foot of the route and every particle of the apparatus of the train and the track is to be subjected to the most careful inspection. As a further precaution against any attempted outrage on the part of the Perfidists the entire line will be guarded by troops.

LOGS RECOVERED.
