FIERCE FIGHTING ON THE ALLIES LEFT WING

but refused and wrecked the wireless apparatus of the freighter.

After much correspondence with Washington, the Mazatlan, with 900 tons of coal aboard, was permitted to clear from San Francisco for Guaymas, Mexico, under $20,000 bond to deliver the coal consigned.

Two days later, said Smith Captain Frederick Jebson, the owner, who is a German reservist; a German officer called Helle, and one Gustave Traub, were taken on at San Pedro.

WRECKED THE WIRELESS.

"When I refused to communicate with the Leipzig I was threatened with a beating. To make good my refusal I put the apparatus out of commission," Smith declared.

"North of Magdalena Bay, however we picked up the Leipzig and transferred mail and stores to her. The coal we carried to Guaymas, where it was transferred to the German steam ship Marie, which in turn later coalled the Leipzig. Somehow the British cruiser, Newcastle got wind of us, and came cruising southward, but the Leipzig gave her the slip."

The Mazatlan was formerly under the Mexican flag. During the revolution in Mexico she was transferred for safety to German registry, and when the European war broke out she again hoisted the Mexican flag. The coal she carried south was said to have been originally consigned to the Leipzig, but later was declared to have been sold to others for delivery at Guaymas.

GERMAN STEAMER

HELD AT FRISCO.

The steamer Alexandria formerly of the Kosmos line is detained in the harbor here with a United States naval officer on board, until questions concerning her registry with Washington. The collector of the port refused to allow the vessel to clear for Valparaiso under the German flag, because he said that the vessel's cargo consisted of provisions and coal. The German cruiser Leipzig was last reported in Chilean waters.

As matters stand the steamer is at anchor here without a name or a flag but with a full crew aboard and a master and crew ready to put to sea.

GALLOP INTO LAKE

TO AVOID CAPTURE.

London, Oct. 5.—A Reuter despatch from Petrograd says:

"Side by side with the official account of the German defeat on the Russo-Prussian frontier details are published of the Russians crossing the Carpathians, which, as one writer says, destroys the legend that the Eastern Carpathians are impenetrable.

"Before attaining Uzsok Pass the Russians successively captured, thanks to a wide flanking movement, three well masked positions which were strongly defended by guns. Each time the Russians charged the enemy fled, and the Russians followed up the Austrian retreat with shrapnel and quick-fire, inflicting heavy losses.

"During the Russian retreat through the Mazur Lake district, in East Prussia, a Russian battery was surrounded on three sides by the enemy's quick-firers. The infantry was on the other side of the lake and the Russian ammunition was exhausted. In order to avert capture, the commander ordered the battery to gallop over the declivity into the lake. His order was obeyed and he himself was among the drowned.

"During an assault on the fortress of Ossowetz, a German column got into a bog. The Russians shelled the bog and the single road crossing it. The Germans, in trying to extricate themselves, sank deeper into the mire and hundreds were killed or wounded. Of the whole column there were only about forty survivors."

A STRONG RESISTANCE

From the Battlefront, via Paris, Oct. 5.—The allied armies, after having permitted their adversaries, as they thought, to exhaust themselves by continued attacks, today took a most vigorous offensive. The British and French, however, encountered such a strong resistance that their most advanced detachments on the western wing were compelled to fall back.

Only at this part of the long battle line did the opposing troops actually come into close contact.

Many picturesque villages, around which hundreds of thousands of men occupy positions, have suffered severely in the recent fighting, and probably will suffer still more before the struggle for supremacy is over.

The country where the chief fighting is going on is flat and under cultivation. In many places it is boggy, and there are scattered coal mines. The allied armies are continually extending toward the north and bending eastward toward the Belgian frontier, and are thus compelling the Germans in order to prevent the crumbling up of their main army, to move large forces from the centre and so keep pace with the allies.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

The condition of Minnie Thompson, the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of St. Mary's, is slightly improved and inquiries at the Victoria Hospital this afternoon were to the effect that there is now a good chance for her recovery.

HOSPITAL BOARD

was feared by some that the accommodation of the wards in case of serious accident might not be sufficient to meet local needs. However, a counter proposition will be made to the company through Mr. Hanson.

The secretary reported that he had not received returns from all the city churches respecting collections on Hospital Sunday. None of the outside parishes, so far as he is aware, observed the day. Returns have been received as follows:

George Street Baptist .....$20.00
The Cathedral ..... 28.80
St. Dunstan's ..... 51.06
Brunswick Street Baptist ..... 41.15
Christchurch Corporation, (St. Anne's) ..... 25.00

A very much appreciated donation of fifteen dollars was received from Mrs. Arnold of Sussex. Mrs. Arnold was one of the young lady teachers undergoing physical drill in this city recently under Capt. A. S. McFarlane and the fees or expenses handed her, she requested the captain to give to Victoria Public Hospital.

After the disposal of several communications and accounts the meeting adjourned.

whose position menaces the invaders along the whole line. The allies plan, it is thought, may compel the Germans to release the pressure on the Belgians. The rapidity with which the French changes positions is remarkable. Two entire divisions of infantry marched nearly thirty miles Saturday and twenty eight miles Sunday. The Germans, however by means of their aviators, who are continually flitting over the lines, despite numerous casualties, discovered the movements and brought up reinforcements to meet them. As the Germans occupy the inside of the circle, they are able to reach an appointed spot which much shorter marches.

It was this that enabled them to force the advanced guards of the allies to cede a small amount of ground until further assistance came.

At one point on the allies' front, a French regiment after a three days spell in the trenches, on being ordered to the rear for a rest, sent a petition through their colonel to the commander asking permission to remain until the German position facing them was taken.

This was granted and the men advanced, and although they met with such a terrific fire from the machine guns that an advance of eight hundred yards took eight hours, they captured the positions and a number of prisoners. They themselves suffered severely.

French cavalry executed a daring raid back of the German lines. Where they blew up a railroad tunnel, and escaped before their presence was discovered.

British lancers and French troopers performed a brilliant exploit at another point. Getting between the Imperial Guard and their artillery ammunition train, by a long dashing ride, they cut off the supplies, destroyed them, so that the Guards' big guns were rendered temporarily useless.

Gen. Jean Rousseau of the French cavalry, died today of wounds.
