

Carleton's Fighting Member Takes Hand in Debate

Mr. F. B. Carvell Made it so Hot For Rogers That He Was Forced to Flee From the Commons Chamber--Methods of Tory "Gunmen" in McDonald Roundly Denounced and the Responsibility Placed Where it Belongs--What Canada Lost by Defeat of Reciprocity

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Parliament's sitting was electric, and at times disorderly this afternoon. F. B. Carvell the forceful, plain-spoken New Brunswicker whose deadly sting has already disposed of one of the Goliaths of the Borden administration in the person of Mr. Morine, the deposed head of the Search-for-Scandals commission directed his missiles at the Minister of Public Works.

Hon. Robert Rogers cut a sorry figure and beat a hasty retreat, while the Liberals vigorously called for him to "come back and take your medicine."

"Without a doubt, he, the minister of public works, is charged with being the archpriest of all the electoral tyranny and debauchery that went on," declared Mr. Carvell, amid Liberal cheers.

A roar of laughter greeted Mr. Rogers as he rose to leave the house. "Hold on," said Mr. Carvell, in an effort to stay his exit. "I do not want the minister to leave. I have a few words to say to him."

But Mr. Rogers evidenced his conviction that discretion was the better part of valor. He vanished amid renewed Liberal cheers.

"I wanted to tell the minister," proceeded Mr. Carvell deliberately, "that when he told this house a few moments ago that he had a series of other affidavits to defend the operations in the MacDonald election which he would submit to the house some other time he was putting up one of the biggest bluffs of his career. He has not got them and he knows he has not."

"Oh, Oh," interrupted Mr. Sharpe, of Ontario.

"I am not talking to the member for North Ontario," responded Mr. Carvell. "I am talking to the empty-deserted seat of the minister of public works. It is he I am concerned with, and I do not want to bandy words with a back-bencher."

ROGERS' SORRY SHOWING

Mr. Carvell followed Hon. Robert Rogers, who spoke for an hour and furnished what the New Brunswicker designated as "the most remarkable exhibition that parliament has witnessed since 1867. A tirade of blow, bluster and threats, threats that the press shall be throttled and his army of detectives and political heelers taken into every constituency unrelieved by any semblance of such a thing as argument." Throughout his speech Mr. Rogers received the promptings by pencilled notes, from Premier Borden, who sat next to him, but the premier joined his minister in leaving the house when Mr. Carvell's arraignment followed.

Mr. Rogers opened by assuring the house that he would take an early opportunity to present to the house "some of the means employed by friends of the Liberal leader" in western province of Saskatchewan to win the election there. These he characterized with great unctious, as "setting British law and British justice in defiance."

"It can't come too soon," observed Mr. Turf, amid Liberal "Heard hears."

Mr. Rogers said no arrest was made in MacDonald that was not fully and completely justified by the circumstances. The whole thing has been misrepresented by the reptile press. It is true a mistake was made (Liberal "Heard, hears," and laughter.)

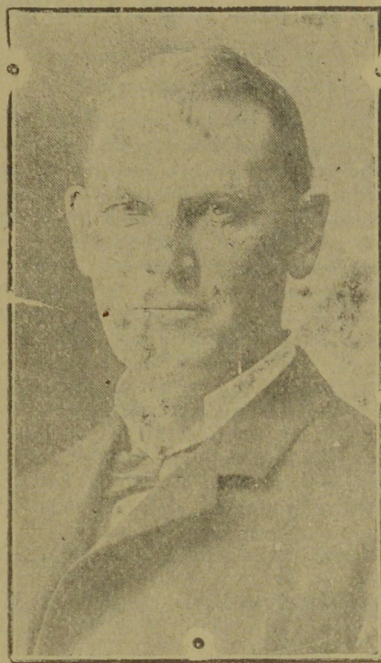

"I say a mistake was made through the generosity of the prosecution," exclaimed the minister. Through sympathy they did not go on with the prosecution." (Renewed laughter and jeers.)

The minister read affidavits from Thomas Steadman and Herbert Jarvis, both of Winnipeg, to the effect that they had been told by half-breeds that W. B. Sifton had offered them money to support the candidature of Mr. Richardson and of Augustus Chamberlain, a half-breed, to the effect that he had secured several drinks of whiskey and had found promised money.

"Why did not the minister prosecute if he had charges?" asked Dr. Neely.

Speaking of the arrests, Mr. Rogers said:

"We will put our reasons before the courts."

MR. F. B. CARVELL, M.P.

"Let's have some of them from you," put in Mr. MacLean of Halifax. "I have said I would do it at an early date," retorted Mr. Rogers.

"I am afraid you will never do it," retorted Mr. MacLean.

LAURIER CORNERS ROGERS.

Then the minister of public works ran up against an uncomfortable snag. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had accused him of being in Saskatchewan this summer. It was on a line "with the things published in the reptile press." And there was no foundation in fact for the statement.

"I was never in Saskatchewan 'at that time,'" Mr. Rogers declared.

Sir Wilfrid arose amid silence. "I certainly remember having read the report of a speech by the minister in Regina," he observed.

"It's true I was in Regina," confessed Mr. Rogers, amid cries of "apologize" and laughter. "But what I mean to say is that it was before the writs were issued."

"I hope the minister will not say in future than he was not there," observed Dr. Clark of Red Deer.

"Let us have the truth in the House at least," put in Mr. Tobin, amid further commotion.

F. B. CARVELL.

Mr. Carvell wasted no time on preliminaries. In his opening sentence he scored the minister for furnishing an exhibition which had disgraced (Continued on page 5)

CANADIAN FROGS ARE IN DEMAND

New York, N.Y., Nov. 29.—According to The Herald, Wall Street speculators in the last two or three weeks have become enamored with the latest tid bit, Canadian frogs legs. The morsel has been sent down from the Canadian lakes of clear spring water.

Frogs legs as served in Broadway hotels heretofore have originated in marshes or in muddy streams. As a result these have not satisfied the palates of the epicures of the financial district.

Several members of the New York Stock Exchange who took their vacations in the Canadian woods, however, have since prevailed on their friends to listen to their experiences. As a result the Canadian frogs legs have made their appearance in the cafes of the financial district.

The Wall Street discoverers of this delicacy assert that the frogs that provide this palatable morsel are to be found especially in the environs of Quebec.

It is asserted that the reason they have never before been made to appeal to palates of New York men is that the French-Canadian guides who would supposedly be enthusiastic about them, do not fancy them.

WESTERN TOWN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 29.—A run of twenty-one miles over the frozen prairie roads to Langdon by the Calgary motor fire apparatus, saved the business section of that town from destruction yesterday afternoon. Fifty-five minutes after the call for help was received in Calgary the city motor pump was throwing water from a slough on the outskirts of Langdon into Hicks block, where a general store and stock were consumed.

FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AN INSANE CRIMINAL

Acquitted on the ground of insanity of the murder of his wife forty-seven years ago, at Manchester Assizes, James Kelly, aged 76, has just died in Broadmoor Lunatic Asylum, where he has been detained ever since. It was a gruesome tragedy and there was no doubt about the state of Kelly's mind.

His wife, whom a few days before he had nearly strangled, was found dead in the doorway of their cottage, terribly mutilated, a large knife and a poker lying on the body. Kelly was washing the blood from his hands in a well.

Kelly made his living by playing the accordion and concertina on the Hollingworth Lake, a reservoir of the Rochdale Waterworks, where there were water carnivals. His talk was often that of a religious fanatic. After the murder he said he could smell sulphur and that he was one of the devil's children. At one time he travelled the country addressing temperance meetings.

NEW COINS FOR CHRISTMAS

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—For the time being the United States mint in this city has been converted into a veritable Santa Claus workshop, for the manufacture of hundreds of thousands of shining goldpieces that will nestle in the toes of many stockings at Christmas time. Immense numbers of bright eagles and double eagles are being turned out to meet the Christmas rush. The demand for the minor coins, quarters, dimes, nickels and cents, so necessary to the holiday shopper, is greater than ever before. The coinage of pennies alone will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars before the demand of the holiday season is supplied.

U. S. LABORERS STRANDED IN WEST

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 29.—On the request of the consul general of the United States here, the Washington authorities have asked for a thorough inquiry into the conditions at the construction camps of Foley, Welch and Stewart upon Canadian railway work. It is alleged that some of the United States citizens working for that firm as laborers have been badly treated; that they were brought into Canada from eastern American points and are now stranded in western cities between British Columbia and Winnipeg. The disclosures are said to call for immediate action and the Ottawa authorities have been notified.

AN INJURY TO HUMANITY

Young Dr. Says Hard Things About the Medical Profession in U. S.

Declares That Fakes and Quackery Flourish Across the Line--How the Game is Worked

Montreal, Nov. 29.—"The profession of medicine in the United States on the whole is working positive injury to humanity." Is the opinion of Dr. Leo B. Woodcock, of Scranton, Pa., a medical graduate who for the past ten years has been practicing in Scranton, Pa.

Disgusted with what he calls "the baneful influence of the profession he has relinquished it and returned to his native land."

"One hears a great deal of fake remedies," said the doctor, "but the fakes and quackery practised in the medical profession proper across the line are far more inimical to society than the regular methods of quack. Comes a case in point. Five years ago, I was called upon to act as a consulting physician in what was to me obviously a case of heart disease. The three doctors who acted with me tried to get me to agree to their diagnosis of appendicitis. Their idea was to operate and divide a fat fee among us. They argued that the patient would die any way and if the heart trouble was left to take its course there would be no money in it for us."

The Serbian recruits belonging to the contingents due to be called upon in 1913 and 1914 have been called out by the Serbian war office and Christian prisoners among the Turkish troops captured are being induced to serve in the Serbian army.

The weapons captured from the Turks are being hurriedly repaired in the great Serbian arsenal at Kraguevat, where also ammunition is being made in large quantities. Cattle and cereals are being requisitioned.

The garrison of the entrenched camp is being rapidly raised to 120,000, the recent visits exchanged between Count Von Berchtold, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, and the Egyptian Prince Ahmed Fuad, who is an Albanian by descent, are regarded by the Zeil as indications that the Prince is a serious candidate for the Albanian throne.
