CARLETON'S FIGHTING MEM- BER TAKES HAND IN DEBATE

his position. There was blow, bluster and threat with no semblance of argument. He had read affidavits which he knew would never be accepted in law—all hearsay. The deponents had testified that the half-breeds had told them that certain parties had offered them money. He also read the affidavit of a half-breed "but," added Mr. Carvell, "he didn't tell us how much the half-breed got for giving the minister that affidavit."

Mr. Carvell directly accused Mr. Rogers of responsibility. The minister of public works was himself the arch-priest of the whole system of tyranny and debauchery. Under his aegis methods had been adopted which would not be tolerated in Russia.

Mr. Carvell dealt with the proposed bill of the government to extend the Northwest Mounted Police by adding a system of plain-clothes men. Was it the purpose of the minister of public works to seek to sully the good name of the force by thus trying to extend the Manitoba system throughout the whole of western Canada? He paid a glowing tribute to the Northwest Mounted Police. No crime had ever occurred which was not traced by them and throughout all of their record-breaking annals they had proudly worn His Majesty's uniform. What need of plain-clothes men now but for the minister's designs?

ROGERS "GUNMEN"

"They will become," said Mr. Carvell, "mere gunmen for the minister of public works. He has read us affidavits from two of his gunmen. As well read evidence from Gyp the Blood or Dago Frank or Lefty Louis who like the hirelings of the Roblin government merely carry out the orders of their chiefs. And yet, Mr. Rogers has the nerve to say that this organized attempt of the Tory government of Manitoba abetted and engineered by him with the object of driving every Liberal worker out of the constituency was a smashing defeat for reciprocity. We will give this thing such an airing that it will never happen again, and no such desperate attempt to throttle the free expression of free men will again be tolerated."

RECIPROCITY NOT DEAD

When Hon. W. T. White declared in the commons on Tuesday that the Liberals were afraid to resurrect their trade policy prior to the election of 1911 and challenged them to declare whether or not they still wished to make it an issue, he let loose a "boomerang" that came back today with telling effect.

Mr. Carvell eventually resurrected the issue declared in unmistakable terms where the Liberals stood upon it, promised that the fight on the Liberal side would continue, and coupled with it, while the government benches sat visibly uncomfortable and silent, a declaration of Liberal belief in the policy of a further expansion of the British preference and in every other form of tariff relief that would make for the relief both of producers and consumers from restricted markets and high cost of living.

It was a notable utterance and was cheered to the echo by every Liberal in the house.

After discussing the MacDonald by-election issue Mr. Carvell went on to refer to the trade issue raised in the speech from the throne. According to the minister of finance, he said, relief for the turning down of the agreement with the United States was to be found in the hope of larger trade with the West Indies and Australia. But Canada's total trade with these countries was not but a drop in the bucket compared with daily increasing trade with the United States.

Every day Canada despite the tariff was sending $1,000,000 worth of her products across the line. Mr. White had sought to drag the reciprocity question into the debate. He was living in the h's of glory of holy Toronto, where he was surrounded by his manufacturing magnates, his bankers and his railway friends. Apparently he thought the question of reciprocity could be useful to the Tory party again.

LIVING IN A FOOL'S PARADISE.

"Let me tell him," said Mr. Carvell, "that from my standpoint and from the standpoint of millions of people in Canada, reciprocity was good economically in September 1911 it is good economically today, and it will be good economically always. He is living in a fool's paradise. He cannot repeat with all the money of the manufacturers and the transportation magnates money and the American money and the British Unionist money. With it all he cannot again defeat reciprocity as he did a year ago."

"He cannot do what Mr. Rogers charged Sir Wilfrid Laurier with doing: he can't again raise one policy in Quebec and another in Ontario. He cannot again join together the Nationalists of Quebec and the Orangemen of Ontario. He and his friends, are now in power and must have some regard for consistency. He will find that he cannot crucify the

JOE MANDOT HAS

BEEN WINNING MONEY

New York, Nov. 28—A neat sum of $25,000 Joe Mandot's winnings in the last nine months, shows that boxing must be a lucrative business.

The New Orleans boxer started his money-making with Pal Moore nine months ago, and finished it up by his recent bout with Champion Ad Wolcast. During this time he has fought Jake Abel, Young Saylor, Henry Trendall, Ray Temple, Willie Ritchie, Temple again, Joe Rivers and then Wolcast. Mandot never received less than $750.00 and his biggest house was with Rivers in Los Angeles, when he pulled down $5,000 for his end.
