

OWES HER LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Cured Both Stomach Trouble and Headaches

PALMERSTON, ONT., JUNE 20th, 1913.

"I really believe that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives'. Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctor's bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old Stomach Trouble and distressing Headaches nearly drove me wild. Sometime ago, I got a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use.

Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked the reason. I replied, 'I am taking Fruit-a-tives'. He said, 'Well, if Fruit-a-tives are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can'.

MRS. H. S. WILLIAMS.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

PICKS PRETTIEST PHONE GIRL

Who is the prettiest telephone operator in the world?

That question was decided today by a Chicago moving picture concern, which carried on a contest among telephone operators in many cities for the purpose of securing the services of a young woman to take part in a new thriller that has to do with a telephone switchboard. A "jury" chosen by the film company selected Miss Irene Estelle Hough, a 19 year old supervisor living in Omaha Neb. Upon the arrival of Miss Hough in Chicago, today, the officials of the movie company agreed that the "jury" had done its work well.

"Really, I feel odd to be picked out for such a title in a contest in which more than 2,500 girls participated," said Miss Hough. She smiled in fact, she always smiles. That is one of the reasons she won.

"How shall I act?" she continued. "Will I have stage fright? I shall try hard to obey orders. I won't ever, ever look into the camera."

Miss Hough registered at the Hotel La-Salle this morning, with her father, Charles W. Hough. They will return to Omaha as soon as the young woman completes her work here.

WRAPPING CHRISTMAS GIFTS

—Stop!
—Think!
—Think hard.
—Do it right.
—It is important.
—Many "fall down" here
—They purchase fine gifts.
—They pay more than they can afford.

—They tie it with rich holly and ribbons.
—Then—well then they tie it up disgracefully.

—Though the wrapping may look well at first it is often really slovenly.

—A wobbly box, a poor quality of paper and thin string tied up sketchily.

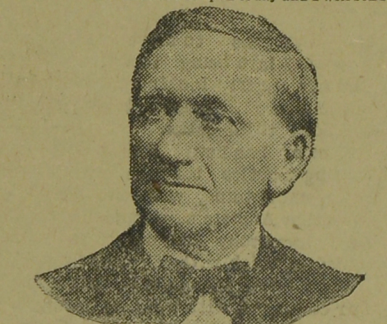

—Put such a parcel in the mail, allow heavy ones to be thrown upon it, and very likely it is soon a wreck and joins the thousands which are never delivered.

HAVE ENGLAND, FRANCE AND RUSSIA BOUGHT UP THE LITERARY DIGEST?

One would think so to read the letters which the publishers have received from German readers, extracts from which are printed below, and yet in the face of these letters rejoicing the editors for their pro-Allies attitude, certain Canadian newspapers assert that this well-known weekly sedulously favors the German cause. Verily there are many perils besetting the path of the publication which is strictly neutral and impartial in printing all the facts of this titanic war.

For obvious consideration we have no right to publish the names of these correspondents, but the original letters are on file in our office.

"There is no room in my house for a paper, which, like yours, chews such partiality against Germany, as is plainly seen in the way you are taking your selections from different papers. There is no doubt that you have joined the ranks of the yellow narrow-minded Cossack Press in this country which tries, altho on your part in a more gentle way, to arouse prejudice against Germany."

"You are well aware of the fact that most of the war news reaches us via London, Paris, Petrograd and other lying factories: the more reason why you should honor the role; and altho it alters a part. Your paper belongs to the greater majority of the English papers of this country that have been influenced or bought from that peridious Albion who has to prove yet that he is a true friend of the United States. Cancel my name from your subscription list. We want American papers in America, no British satires or hornets' nests."

"Since also The Literary Digest has become infected by a rather serious kind of Teutophobia I must for the sake of peace within myself, ask you to stop the paper. I am a German, but I cannot be blind to the fact that civilization is at stake and Christianity is in danger if the intrigue mad Englishmen win in the present war."

"Your position in regard to the present European war is altogether too one-sided, too partial, too English and far from being fair to Germany, too unjust and limited to deserve to be called cosmopolitan."

Your paper has been printing all kinds of anti-German cartoons, and it appears to me that this is not in accordance with the principles of your publication."

"I have been an admirer of your magazine for a number of years, but I begin to count it among my fallen idols. If I want English papers I'll get them direct from London. Your aim as supposed to be to present all sides impartially but in the selection of your stuff you are evidently leaning very strongly to the Anglo-French English-French-Japanese-Russian-Servian assassins-cut-throat combination."

"Keep your paper in the future. I am a German and would not have a paper in my house that only insinuates that the Germans are to blame for the destruction of ancient monuments in the European war. When the Allies will begin to bombard their enemy with confetti and you illustrate that in your paper, you may send it to me again. If an American paper states results it should state the cause, if it is out to boost the one side, sell your paper to that side."

"I sincerely pity you, that according to the judgment of your Canadian friends, you are still not enough Anglicized. I hope, however, that you will continue to give us a fair selection of all opinions on both sides and especially that you will not always cite a minority of opinions and at the tail end in favor of Germany and her ally."

"You claim to be non-partisan but you are not from any point of view. In the European war you do not give Germany any reasonable chance what ever and for that reason I can not take THE LITERARY DIGEST any longer."

"I have come to the conclusion that I don't care for such a magazine that so plainly favors the cause of the Allies against the Germans. May the failure open your eyes to the real conditions and facts of the present war."

"THE LITERARY DIGEST, printed in New York, lacks independence or originality. To use a simile, it would seem as if John Bull were the school master and the editors of THE LITERARY DIGEST the scholars. Invariably they write what John Bull dictates without giving due comment."

"The American or New York newspapers you extract from are anti-German and I don't care to read so much foolish stuff."

"It seems that you folks are surely trying to show up only the one side of the European war, and so I desire to ask that you discontinue sending me your papers promptly. I have delayed doing this until my subscription expired as I did not wish to influence you in any way from your own ideas, but what I want is a magazine that gives both sides impartially. I might quote your words in your magazine of a short time ago where you state that if this is treason why the Germans can make the best of it, so if this is treason to desire to change to another magazine why it might be well for you to make the best of it."

"Looking through THE LITERARY DIGEST I was amazed, astounded, shocked beyond description to see that your people, on page 340, had printed a caricature of Emperor Wilhelm II, taken from that dirty anarchistic inclined paper, Vorwarts (New York) comparing Kaiser Wilhelm with that blood-thirsty, thieving usurper, Napoleon."

"I again ask you to take my name off your subscriber's list at the end of time paid for. You are not giving Germany a square deal in the hour of her trial. I will refuse to accept any further numbers you may send."

AND YET WE ARE ACCUSED IN CANADA OF FAVORING THE GERMAN!

Two Canadian Officers on the Firing Line

(Toronto Globe.)

Ottawa, Nov. 30—That at least two Canadian officers with the first Canadian contingent have already been under fire at the front on the north-west wing of the fighting is the interesting intelligence conveyed in a private letter received here from Lieut. Col. C. D. Macpherson, M.P.P., of Manitoba, an officer commanding the Eighteenth Manitoba Mounted Rifles. The other officer was Major Edgar of the Sixteenth Light Horse of Regina.

"We are still in camp at Salisbury Plain," says the letter, "and will be for some time, I think. I got leave for several days and with Major Edgar I went up to London and took a jaunt to France. After we got to France we had quite a time getting to the front."

HOW THEY GOT TO THE FRONT.

"We got as far as Dunkirk on the North Sea, which is some twenty-five miles from the firing line. The last twenty-five miles was the hardest to negotiate, but luckily we got in touch with some British naval and military officers and were handsomely treated. The fact that we were the first Canadians of the contingent to go over, and had been so anxious to come that we had paid our own way, helped a lot, and so we gained valuable experience."

"Friday, November 13, was our first day out. We were motored out from Dunkirk and visited the Furnes and Neuport districts. At Neuport Bains, a seaside resort on the coast between Ostend and Dunkirk, we were under shell fire. At one point we were within four hundred yards of the German trenches. Through the great kindness of the French officers, we were permitted observations and opportunities and I don't think I shall ever forget the scene.

TRENCHES AND INTERVAL.

"It was a dull, rainy day and the North Sea roared and washed on the shore. Directly at our front were the Allies' trenches but scarcely a head could be seen. Then came the interval of space, or neutral area, through which ran the narrow Yser, emptying into the sea. Closely on the opposite banks were the German trenches, where we could see an odd sentry or two. In the area between the two lines could be seen the still, limp forms of several who had fought their last battle.

DODGING "JACK JOHNSONS."

"It was a day of artillery duels, as indeed most of the days are, and away to our rear thundered the Allies' cannon, while the Germans were replying from the sand dunes back of their trenches. While we were in Neuport Bains several shells dropped near the closest about seventy-five yards from us. It makes you duck naturally to hear the sinister, high-pitched whistle of the 'Jack Johnsons' tearing over your head. We were pretty lucky, however, as at first we did not keep sufficiently in shelter, but the French officers gave us a few tips on that line. Just as we were leaving, the Germans killed four horses on one of our

A NEGLECTED COLD WILL VERY OFTEN TURN TO CONSUMPTION.

Never neglect what at first seems to be only a slight cold. Perhaps you start to cough, a little irritation in the throat ensues, then it gets lower down, settles on the lungs and bronchitis sets in, and you start to raise phlegm of a greenish, yellowish color, and you cough persistently.

If you let the simple cold run it will surely develop into something very serious, and perhaps consumption.

On the first sign of a cold or cough go to your dealer and procure a bottle of

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

A few doses will convince you that it is just the remedy you require.

Mrs. J. W. Pearsons, Amherst, N.S., writes: "Some time ago my daughter had a very bad cough which settled on her chest. She had no rest day or night. I gave her everything I could think of, but without doing her the least bit of good. At last I thought of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I got a bottle for her. She had not taken half of it before she got relief, and with the remainder she was completely cured. Now when any of the family have a cough we always know what to get for it."

Dr. Wood's is 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

batteries. They wounded and knocked over a few men that day, but there were no infantry rushes.

"We went back to Dunkirk for the night and the next day we were informed that Prince Alexander of Teck would like to see us. We had a very pleasant interview and he was very kind to us. This day we spent in the Dixmude country and from this town the Germans were shelling pretty steadily, but were not succeeding in hitting very much. One shell landed about two hundred yards from us. The Germans seemed to fire a lot at random. They knocked over a few buildings and burned some with their shells, however.

A BATTLE-SCARRED COUNTRY.

"It was hard to believe that we were on the firing line, as we were some three or four thousand yards from the German trenches. The country is level and open here, and the front trenches are not at such close range. The Kaiser would have a terrible proposition to reach Calais or even Dunkirk. The beautiful country is largely flooded through the Belgians' clever use of the canal and river systems, and every hundred yards the German advance would mean a terrible death toll. The dreadful devastation and desolation of this battle-scarred country makes one's heart sick. For miles back from the firing-line it is nothing but grim war on every side. Beautiful cities shelled and handsome structures especially churches, battered to pieces. In addition to this, the string of Belgian refugees, especially the very old and the very young, add to the horror of the war picture. When you look it over it makes you wonder whether hell could conceive of a fitting punishment for the war-mad Kaiser who caused it all.
