MOTHER'S DAY

MAYOR ISSUED PROCLAMATION.

I hereby proclaim Sunday, May 10th, as Mother's Day in Fredericton and I respectfully request all citizens, young and old, to remember mother by wearing a Flower on that day.

"Mother's Memory—flower white,"
"Mothers Living—flower bright,"
Visit her, write her, if living or in some way let her know that she has not been forgotten by you.

MOSES MITCHELL,
Mayor of Fredericton.

MUSINGS OF A MODERN MAID.

That sweetly encouraging smile which a wife flings across the table at her husband when he begins telling his oldest story at a dinner party is the one that the poet meant when he sang of "the smile that is sadder than tears."

A woman loves all men in general and adores one man in particular; a man loves no woman in particular, but adores all women in general.

It is easier for a husband to flatter his wife than to praise her, because flattery may be only a matter of habit but in order to praise her he must take time to look at her occasionally.

A woman with nerves affects a man like a buzzing mosquito on a summer night; but a woman with "nerve" shocks him like a cold bath on a winter morning.

Lots of husbands have original ways of being good but their follies and foibles are so much alike that there has been no such thing as an "original sin" among them since the days of Adam.

Dr. James R. Angell, well known American educator, forty-five years old today.

The Original and Only Genuine

Beware Of Imitations Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

STOOPING VS STANDING

For centuries women have been bending their backs in every piece of work they do. To scrub the floor or pick up a handful of dirt or wash out a shirtwaist, some way, somehow, they had to stoop. And even now hundreds of women in every one of their daily tasks manage to bend their backs. A like traquet hoops or stoop their entire one hundred and thirty pounds to the floor to pick up a match.

Instead of this useless constant and unnecessary waste motion why not do the simplest thing in the world, viz: put these various tools on a stick or on a handle and lift the article up to you instead of stooping yourself down to the article?

We now have a long handle dust pan, one of the very best is made of steel and with a wire handle. It is to be laid on the floor and the dust brushed into it with a long handle broom. The pan closes automatically and may then be placed on the left arm so that it can be carried from upstairs to downstairs without spilling the dirt.

Another tool that has at last been put on a handle is our old enemy the scrubbing brush. Any one who will stop to think of the positively disgraceful appearance a woman presents while flat on her abdomen, and prostrate on the floor in the midst of wet suds and surfaces, would surely be willing to put every scrub brush on a stick to stay there forever. To those women who say that the floor cannot be cleansed as thoroughly when standing by using the brush on handle, let me say that it positively has been proved to be easier done in this more efficient way, and it is only a matter of tradition which holds so many women to the belief that they must shake their entire bodies and bruise their knees in order to make a space 10x12, thoroughly clean.

There are also other kinds of scrub brush and mop combinations which are so arranged that the brush is used on a handle, or removed and replaced by a cloth. It is very much easier, and the work is also done better, when the pressure is applied by one standing that when she is stooping and sprawling like a frog swimming.

Besides the long handled dust pan and scrub brush, we have many more dusters and brooms on handles for the cleaning of walls, ceilings and ornaments.

While on this subject of stooping we much rather speak of the low height at which sinks, tables and set tubs are placed. About ninety per cent. of all laundry tubs are set far too low. It is not necessary to stoop over in order to apply the right pressure to work. In fact, the more one stoops the less energy one will have to put into the labor. Raising the set tubs and raising the kitchen table will also raise the efficiency of the worker.

Most women go up stairs the wrong way and bend the back and not the knees. It is necessary to become a camel just by peeling vegetables at a table three inches too low? Why not sit down to wash dishes, iron and make cake? It's only a habit which prevents us.

We understand that a Posture League has just been formed. I apply as a charter member and suggest that all housekeepers become active members, daily aiming to follow the highest ideals of posture—erect spine, stooping from the waist, not the shoulders, and avoiding throwing weight on the abdomen.

Douglas Fir Lumber

The production of Douglas fir lumber has increased thirty-eight per cent. in the last two years, according to a recent publication on the forest products of Canada. This percentage is double that of any other leading Canadian wood for the same period. This tree made up 67 per cent. of the total lumber production of British Columbia, which province is estimated to contain as much timber as all the rest of Canada. The importance of the Douglas fir is exemplified by a statement made by Dr. C. S. Sargent, the leading authority on American trees, who says: "No other American tree of the first magnitude is so widely distributed, or can now afford so much timber, and the rapidity of its growth and its power of reproduction under favorable conditions make it the most valuable inhabitant of the great coniferous forest of the northwest."

Gas in Hungary

Petroleum and natural gas have been discovered in a third region in Hungary, since the first discoveries five years ago.

Steel Straps

Trunk straps made of steel links have been invented that are intended to withstand more rough handling than leather ones.

Boat With Wheels

A submarine boat with wheels to enable it to run on the bed of an ocean or river has been added to the United States navy.

Swinging Stool

To lighten the labor of housewives a swinging stool has been invented that may be fastened to a kitchen sink support.

THE NEWEST IN NECKWEAR

The ready made collar has reached a wonderful state of perfection—or near perfection. There was a time when most of us thought that even we ourselves unskilled as we might be in the use of a needle could make better work of a collar than we could find in the ready-made variety. But that day has gone by. A stitch or two is all that is needed to make the ready made collar an integral part of the frock with which we desire to wear it.

One of the stitches must always be taken to keep the buttons from popping off in the first wearing. And as the buttons used to trim collars are usually of a decorative nature, they are hard to match and if once lost, cannot be easily replaced. So always sew on the buttons on a ready-made collar. They are usually held by a single strand of thread.

The new organdy collars area boon now that warm weather is coming. Nothing is so desirable in warm weather as dainty neckwear. The high boned net collar of several seasons ago was attractive when it was fresh but it was almost impossible to keep it fresh. Didn't we used to struggle with soap suds and small brushes over those collars stretched over bath towels spread on marble and preclain wash basins? And then we were always getting the soap suds on the fabric of the frock itself. The new organdy collars are removed from the frock with which they are worn quite as a matter of course and they are so simple in construction that their laundering is a very easy matter.

The use of organdy untrimmed with lace and of sheer linen hand embroidered is a pleasant change from the befrilled collars of the last year. And of course the new collars are far more durable than was tulle ruffling. Ruches and ruffling of tulle and net have not by any means gone out of style. They are too becoming too attractive to leave us for a long time. But the other neck finish as have to some extent taken their places—at least divided the duty of making the neck dainty.

The flaring organdy collar should not, strictly speaking be bones. It should be made stiff enough with starch to hold its position. Sometimes even starch is not necessary. If the collar is ironed while it is quite wet, it will often come out crisp and stiff.

A BOTTOMLESS LAKE

Peculiar Body of Water Discovered in Rockies by Foresters

In the heart of the snow-clad Rockies hundreds of miles west of Edmonton lies a lake whose waters are always troubled, into which a large river flows but out of which there is no visible exit. The leader of a forest survey party sent out by the Dominion Forestry Branch to examine the forest in this wild region states that the Indians shun this lake as the abode of evil spirits, and, to give credence to this superstition, from time to time deep rumblings may be heard where far below the surface the water swirls through the hidden outlet. The river that enters the lake rushes from a subterranean cave many miles down the valley, the portal of which no man has ever yet passed.

ACHING BACK GETS RELIEF QUICK!

ONE RUB WITH "NERVILINE" CURES

Every Bit of Stiffness and Soreness Goes When "Nerviline" Is Used

Pain in back or side is awful hard to reach. Deep in the tissue is a congested or strained muscle. It is a long way for a liniment to go. Liniments you have used have not reached it, and the pain bothers you wheever moving or lying down.

What a pity you haven't tried Nerviline! Penetrating, you ask? Yes, and powerful too.. Nerviline strikes in far deeper than any application you have ever used. You might pay a dollar, ten dollars, a hundred for that matter, but you could not equal Nerviline either in strength, quickness of action, or permanency of relief.

If you think this too much to say for Nerviline, try it and be convinced. If you receive from Nerviline even a little less relief from pain than this advertisement induces you to expect, you can get your money back.

The only pain remedy in the world sold under a guarantee is Nerviline—surely it is safe to try it.

Nerviline is sold by druggists everywhere, 25 cents or 50 cents a bottle, or direct from the Catarthozone Company, Kingston, Ontario.

RID THE HOUSE OF ANTS

The warm, damp days so frequent in spring always bring ants. The only way to get rid of these insects is to destroy their nests. But is often difficult to locate them. A good plan is to place little mounds of coarse sugar around. The ants will each take up a grain and make for their nest with it, so should be watched. When the nest is found drench with kerosene or a strong solution of carbolic acid. Ants dislike the smell of camphor. This scattered around will keep them away but as they are usually around food, camphor is scarcely practical because of its strong odor, which the foods may absorb. In such a case try sprinkled pepper.

A mixture of kerosene and turpentine is a safe remedy to use to keep bed-bugs down. March and April are the months when the greatest number of eggs are laid, hence one should take extra care then. The bedstead, can be wiped off with the mixture, and it is imperative that dust should be kept out of all cracks and crevices. The bugs love dust for breeding places. Benzine, gasoline and naphtha applied also are good remedies, but being inflammable are not safe to use. Corrosive sublimate is also very efficacious, but it is dangerous to have around, seeing that it is a deadly poison.

NET BORDERED KERCHIEF

The craze for net as a trimming has reached the handkerchief counter, for white net footings is used as a hem to some of the handkerchiefs. The hem will be from one to two inches wide. This design could be carried out by any girl who knows how to use a needle and she could probably make six at the cost of one bought ready for use. Finest lawn could be bought by the yard and the footings by the piece. Then the former would be cut into squares and the latter basted to the edges for hemstitching. The stitching could not very well be done at home, but it costs very little to send it out to be done.

White handkerchiefs could be brought up to date by outlining the initial with a color or by working tiny sprays of flowers in each corner in delicate shades.

No one will feel perfectly gowned this season who fails to finish their toilet with a kerchief showing a touch of color.
