HEIR TO AUSTRIAN THRONE SHOT DOWN

Archduke Franz Ferdinand and Wife
Murdered in the Street by a Student--
Fusillade of Revolver Shots Discharged
Into Their Automobile---Royal Couple
Were Mortally Wounded and Died in a Few Minutes---The Murderer Narrowly
Escaped Being Lynched

Sarajevo, Bosnia, June 28.—Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austria-Hungarian throne, and the Princess of Hohenberg, his morganatic wife, were shot dead in the main street of the Bosnian capital by a student today while they were making an apparently triumphant progress through the city on their annual visit to the annexed provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The archduke was shot full in the face and the princess was shot through the abdomen and throat. Their wounds proved mortal within a few minutes after reaching the palace, to which they were hurried with all speed.

Those responsible for the assassination took care that it should prove effective, as there were two assailants, the first armed with a bomb and the other with a revolver. The bomb was thrown at the royal automobile, as it was proceeding to the town hall where a reception was to be held, but the archduke saw the deadly missile coming and warded it off with his arm. It fell outside the car and exploded, slightly wounding two aide de camps in a second car and half a dozen spectators.

STUDENT KILLED BOTH.

It was on the return of the procession that the tragedy was added to the long list of those that have darkened the pages of the recent history of the Hapsburgs. As the royal automobile reached a prominent point in the route to the palace, an eighth grade student, Gavrio Princip, sprang out of the crowd and poured a fusillade of bullets from an automatic pistol at the archduke and the princess. Both fell, mortally wounded.

Princip and a fellow conspirator, a compositor from Trebinje named Gabrinovic, barely escaped lynching by the infuriated spectators and were finally seized by the police, who afforded them protection. Both men are natives of the annexed province of Herzegovina.

The first attempt against the archduke occurred just outside the girls' high school. The archduke's car had restarted after a brief pause for an inspection of the building, when Gabrinovic hurled the bomb. This was so successfully warded off by the archduke that it fell directly beneath the following car, the occupants of which Count von Bos-Wadek and Colonel Merizzo, were struck by shrapnel of iron.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand stopped his car and after making inquiries as to their injuries and lending what aid he could, continued his journey to the town hall. There the burgomaster began the customary address, but the archduke sharply interrupted and snapped out:

"Herr Burgomaster, we have come here to pay you a visit and bombs have been thrown at us. This is altogether an amazing indignity." After a pause the archduke said:

A DEADLY FUSILLADE.

On leaving the hall the archduke and his wife announced their intention of visiting the wounded members of their suite at the hospital on their way back to the palace. They were actually bound on their mission of mercy when, at the corner of Rudolfstrasse and Franz Josef Strasse, when Princip opened his deadly fusillade.

A bullet struck the archduke in the face. The princess was wounded in the abdomen and another bullet struck her in the throat, severing an artery. She fell unconscious across her husband's knee. At the same moment the archduke sank to the floor of the car.

After his unsuccessful attempt to blow up the imperial visitors, Gabrinovic sprang into the River Miljacka in an effort to escape, but the witnesses of his crime plunged after him and seized him.

A few yards from the scene of the shooting an unexploded bomb was found which, it is suspected, was thrown away by an accomplice after he had noted the success of Princip's attack.

GLORIES IN HIS DEED.

The assassins were interrogated by the police during the course of the afternoon and both seemed to glory in their exploit. Princip said he had studied for a time at Belgrade. He declared he had long intended to kill some eminent person from nationalist motives. He was awaiting the archduke at a point where he knew the automobile would slacken speed. The presence of the princess in the car caused him to hesitate but only for a moment. Then his nerve returned and he emptied his pistol at the imperial pair. He denied that he had any accomplices.

Princip is eighteen years of age. Gabrinovic is twenty-one years old. He told the police that he had obtained the bomb from anarchists at grade, whose names he did not know. He similarly denied that he had accomplices, and treated the whole tragedy with cynical indifference.

Davidson is one of nearly a score of defendants in the Callahan case, nearly all of whom have been tried and some of them convicted. This is Davidson's second trial. The first trial was held last April and ended in a disagreement of the jury.

The Cardinal will be eighty years old on the twenty-third of next month. For the past two months he has been abroad, having been summoned to Rome to attend the recent consistory. Before his departure from this city His Eminence declared his belief that it would be his last visit to the Eternal City.

Rowell, the Liberal Leader is Certain to Make Gains--Banish the Bar
His Policy

Toronto, June 28.—The campaign in the Ontario provincial elections, which wound up tonight, has been on such unusual lines that the results tomorrow are somewhat more problematical than might have been anticipated a week ago.

The Liberal policy of the abolition of the bar has tended to more or less of a departure from the old political methods, and each side claims a considerable defection from the other's ranks. While at the outset of the campaign it looked like a Whitney victory beyond a doubt the tide seems to have turned in the past two weeks towards Rowell. Church and temperance people have been stirred up in this election contest as never before, and it is just a question how far this feeling will go towards obliterating political lines at the polls tomorrow and making something of a sweep for temperance.

As usual, both sides claim victory for tomorrow. The Liberals assert that there will be a landslide from the government and N. W. Rowell will be the Premier of the province when the legislature next meets. They base their claim on the fact that many pastors of churches have spoken in Rowell's favor from pulpits and platforms, that a number of preachers have entered the fight as candidates, that many Conservatives are going over to Rowell on his banish the bar policy, and that the people are dissatisfied with the Whitney government's refusal to deal with the question of assessment reform on modern lines, as well as their refusal to give married women possessing property qualifications the right to vote.

On the other hand the leading Conservatives appear quite undisturbed by these claims. They profess to have assurances from various points in Ontario that Sir James Whitney's government will be returned by a fair-sized majority, and that his present following in the house is reduced, as seems fairly probable, the reduction will not be large enough to interfere with his carrying on the administration another four years. Independent opinion is to the effect that the Whitney government will be sustained by a slightly lessened majority.

STOCK MARKET WAS WEAK THIS MORNING

New York, June 29.—While Wall Street observes such crimes as the assassination of Ferdinand of Austria it is realized that the Duke was an exceedingly unpopular Prince and that his death was unlikely to produce international convulsion in the dual monarchy. Therefore the market instead of declining opened a little higher than on Saturday with fair volume of activity and the appearance of good buying in a number of the active issues. C.P.R. of which a considerable amount is held in Vienna was unaffected by the assassination opening up $\frac{1}{4}$ at 192 $\frac{1}{2}$.

WEST VIRGINIA ON THE DRY LIST

A 2 to 1 Vote for State Wide Suppression of Liquor Traffic

New Law Goes Into Force on July 1st--Nine States Now Under Prohibition

Charleston, W. Va., June 28.—State wide prohibition of the liquor business in West Virginia becomes effective next Tuesday midnight. It brings the total number of states in the prohibition column up to nine.

With West Virginia added, the list will be: Georgia, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, West Virginia. These nine states of total prohibition territory, plus the local no-license area, make up 2,132,726 square miles in which 48,029,760 persons or nearly fifty per cent. of the country's population live, according to the latest figures of the prohibition leaders.

The 32,000 majority with which the people of West Virginia accepted the dry proposition was relatively the largest ever given by any state. It was approximately two to one for state-wide suppression of the liquor business. It was a surprise even to the prohibition forces, who were indebted largely to the determined stand which many of the large employers took in favor of their cause. The state has a population of 1,221,119 by the census of 1910.

The mandate of the legislature, embodied in the Yost bill, for the enforcement of the new law, beginning July 1st, departs in many respects from the methods hitherto tried along this line. The chief features centre about the creation of a commissioner of prohibition, whose particular business it will be to see that by next Tuesday midnight some 1,200 liquor selling places in the state have disposed of their stock and that thereafter all persons shall be punished by law if they keep liquor for sale.

In an effort to instruct the people as to the provisions of the new law, Commissioner Blue has been lecturing throughout the state.

"In other states," says Mr. Blue, "where prohibition has been adopted one of the forces that has had to be contended with has been the drug store. The Yost law will regulate this feature. Druggists may sell alcohol only to persons not addicted to its use upon prescription of a reputable physician, who has examined the person and in detail sets forth in the prescription the reasons for the use of alcohol. The governing bodies of druggists have approved of this plan. For scientific or mechanical purposes alcohol will be sold only after affidavit as to its intended uses and uniform records of all such sales will be kept, to be inspected periodically by those in charge of the enforcement of the law.

"No druggist, however, can sell in any form, whisky, brandy, ale or any beverage of an intoxicating nature."

TWO TEDDY BEARS WERE UP A TREE

The two young bears whose mother stumbled into a trap on Friday evening have fallen upon new experiences and received a liberal education the world and its ways since that time.

Their travels began when Mr. Bartlett of Gagetown found the old she bear in a trap and the cubs who were "hanging around their parent scuttled up a tree. Mr. Bartlett secured help and felled the tree. It was then a case of dodge and tackle and Mr. Bartlett made two sure tackles of two frightened little bears.

They were sold to Mr. G. L. Day who in turn sold them to Mr. W. H. Allen of Penniac. The last heard of the teddy brothers they were enjoying the luxury of an express crate and eyeing with usual interest the novelty of a busy day in the express baggage room at Grand Central Station, New York. The pups will land in some garden or park and grow to get used to iron bars and the curious faces of the children.
