BROTHER DAGGETT CONVERTED RE AMERICAN MARKET

(Hartland Observer.)
Secretary Daggett was here on Tuesday and while here received a hurry call to Bangor to meet a representative of the United States Department of Horticulture, ostensibly for the purpose of modifying the embargo that shuts out N.B. potatoes. Mr. Daggett went post-haste to arrange a trade agreement, if possible, whereby our farmers may have freer access to the American market.

Evidently Brother Daggett is converted. Two years ago he scoffed and denounced dickerings with the Yankees for a market, but if he succeeds in raising the embargo on potatoes we witness a mighty transformation and he will earn forgiveness.

OCCUPATION AND TEETH

Dangers Encountered by Workers in Mines and Factories

It is a curious but scientific fact that bad teeth often may be laid to occupation. Quicksilver miners have the worst teeth in the world. The fumes of the mercury produce constant salivation, and the system becomes permeated with the metal. Soon after this the teeth of the unfortunate men fall out. But it is not the teeth alone that are affected by the quicksilver. The men employed in quicksilver mines soon lose their appetite and become emaciated. If they keep on working in the mines they do not live more than three years.

Chloride of lime, employed by bleachers, destroys the enamel and dentine of the teeth. Is chloride of lime is used in many factories, those who come in contact with it are in great danger of serious teeth trouble. Phosphorus, used largely in the making of matches, is another substance injurious to teeth.

Soda is dangerous for the teeth, too. People who work in soda factories are affected in a peculiar way. If not treated in time, and if they continue at the factory where soda is used, the teeth break off close to the gums. Other drugs employed in dye works and canning factories have been found to be dangerous to the teeth.

Derivation of "Book"

It is generally believed that we owe to the Romans the word "book," but such is not the case. We get the word from our Saxon or Danish ancestors. Long, long before this wonderful day, when bundles of ugly-looking rags were turned into beautiful white paper, our worthy ancestors wrote their accounts, calendars, and histories, on wood, bark and parchment. In the north the box, or beech, was the tree generally employed for this purpose as it grew plentifully and had an excellent fibre. They called a bit of writing on this wood "boe," and from it came the word "book."

THE CRUSADERS OR JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

The wonderful production of The Crusaders or Jerusalem Delivered, by the Cines Company of Italy, the same people who are responsible for "The Last Days of Pompeii," "Quo Vadis," etc., will be shown at the Gaiety Theatre for two days only, starting today. This special feature production, which has taken months of hard toil, with an enormous expenditure of money, is said to be one of the greatest masterpieces of the present day. The story which is sublime in character, abounds with thrilling incidents such as floods, hand-to-hand conflicts on the walls of the Holy City and the beautiful love story between Tancred and Clorinda. Notwithstanding the fact that a big price had to be paid by the Gaiety management to secure this feature, they have decided to make no advance in prices, except that children will be admitted for 5 cents at the matinees only. The first evening performance will start at sharp 7.15 and as capacity houses were assured, it is advisable to be at the Gaiety as early as possible.

TEN HOUR DAY

Days Were Much Shorter Millions of Years Ago

In a lecture at the Royal Academy in London on the movement of the stars, Professor H. H. Turner stated that 46,000,000 years ago there were but sixteen hours to a day and twenty-nine days to a month.

Some 10,000,000 years before that the day was ten hours long, and going back still further into the recesses of time, it was reduced to one hour. That, explained Prof. Turner, was when the earth and moon were close together—when they had recently parted company, in fact, and had started on their career as separate bodies.

The principle, said Professor Turner, applied to a very large class of bodies in the sidereal system—the double stars. Astronomers knew two stars in the sky so close together that it never had been possible to separate one from another, even through the best telescopes, though it was known that one of them was very considerably brighter than the other, and it was supposed that one was describing an orbit around the other.

At the other end of the scale there were some stars that had not completed their orbit in the century since they were described by Herschel. Some of them might occupy 200 or 300 years, and there were even instances in which the orbit would occupy thousands of years.

The cause of the changes in the length of our day, said Professor Turner, was the effect of the tides on the earth's rotation. The moon raised two tides—one on one side because she pulled away the water from the earth, on the other because she pulled away the earth from the water.
