BRITAIN ACCEPTS CANADA'S OFFER

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—A cable was received from His Majesty the King and the Imperial authorities late tonight accepting Canada's offer to send a contingent of 20,000 men and asking that they be mobilized at once. Inside of ten days it is expected and assembled on the training ground at Valcartier. (Que.)

The Minister of Militia on receipt of the cablegram, immediately summoned the militia council and they were in session at a late hour. It is understood that Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes is anxious to get only the very best men available.

It is definitely stated that Col. Hughes will not command the contingent nor will Gen. Lessard, who is at present on sick leave. The name of the commander has not yet been announced.

CALIFORNIA'S SENATORIAL CONTEST

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7.—The senatorial fight in California has developed into one of the most interesting contests of the present campaign. The Republican and Democratic aspirants for the nomination are pursuing peaceful campaigns, but a bitter rivalry exists between the two Progressive candidates. They are Chester Rowell and Francis J. Heney, famous as prosecutor of the United States graft cases and the Oregon land fraud cases.

Governor Hiram Johnson has refrained from throwing his influence to either side. Rowell's formal candidacy was announced first, but Heney soon followed and for some time both have been actively canvassing the state.

James D. Phelan, capitalist and former mayor of San Francisco, is the Democratic aspirant, against Thomas Griffin of Ventura.

Few guesses are hazarded as to the outcome of the contest between the Republican rivals, Samuel Shortridge and Congressman Joseph Knowland. Both are men of wealth. Knowland has been in congress for several years and is a seasoned campaigner. Shortridge is a lawyer who has been active in Republican politics for many years. He also is an able stump speaker.

Manager Fred Lake has shifted his Fitchburg team, of the New England League, to Manchester, N.H.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS KILL LITTLE ONES

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours he may be beyond aid. The Tablets will prevent summer complaint if given occasionally to the well child and will promptly cure the troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine so good and the mother has the guarantee of a government abalyst that they are absolutely safe. Mrs. Edward Covell, Lombardy, Ont., says: "A mother who has once used Baby's Own Tablets for her children will never fail to show her gratitude for them. They made a wonderful change in the health of my little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW PRESIDENT OF COLUMBIA

Bogota, Aug. 7.—Dr. Jose Vicente Concha, who was chosen president of Colombia in the election last February, was formally inducted into office today, succeeding Carlos E. Restrepo. The new president is a member of the conservative party and in the recent elections he was supported by a section of the liberals and clericals as well. He was minister of war in 1901 and a year later became minister to Washington. He disapproved of the proposed Panama treaty and retired from his post at Washington in 1903.

THE DELIGHTS OF CANOEING

In the way of small water craft there is nothing quite so alive as the canoe. It has the spring of a bird over the water, the silence of the Rater sprite steaking through mysteries of shadow and the swiftness of a fish darting on its prey.

The canoe seems to form part of the being who propels it and lends itself to a diversity of sport not surpassed by any other craft.

One of these is tilting. At a given signal apirts of canoes dart out upon a lake into deep water, and the tournament begins. In each canoe are a skilled oarsman and a man with a lance. The lances are long and wadded at the end and require agile and experience handling. With poised lances the canoes rush at each other, and then it is a wild struggle to keep the slender boats aloft while lances are plunged with powerful impact against contending knights.

The knight who is forced into the water loses the tourney, but before that happens canoes dart forward and rush back for a stronger spring. They rise like a living thing to the fray and, with water churning against their trail sides, quiver in the endeavor to preserve equilibrium against the odds of war.

If tilting is exciting sport the "up-set race" is even more so, for the reason that it requires skill of a different sort and wonderful rapidity and dexterity of movement. There is, too, an added element of danger, for the way of safety in the water never lies beneath a capsized boat.

An ideal canoe is fifteen to eighteen feet long and thirty to sixty six inches broad. It is so light weighing about sixty-five to seventy odd pounds—that one man can tote it through canps "carriers" and over log jacks.

The price is such that the canoe is often called "the poor man's yacht," because he may buy one from $6 to $25 according to the materials of which it is constructed and with reference to its size.

NEGRO BUSINESS MEN TO MEET

Tuskegee, Ala., Aug. 7.—The officers of the National Negro Business League announce that their plans have been completed for the fifteenth annual session of the organization to be held in Muskogee, Okla., the latter part of this month. Negroes who have been successful in various lines of business will be present from every section of the country.

Among the subjects scheduled for discussion at the convention are the following: "The Agricultural Possibilities of the Great Southwest," "The Part that Advertising Plays in Making a Business Successful," "Neuro Newspaper Publishing," "Scientific Market Gardening" and "Farming and Cattle Raising."

Jack Barry, the Athletics' short-stop, never fielded better in his life than this season, but his hitting has been very poor.

BOTTOM OF LAKE PAVED WITH IRON ORE

Sawtooth Reef in Stormy Superior Srewn With Many Thousands of Tons of the Mineral

A veritable open pit iron mine of immense richness lies off the shores of Keweenaw Point, which juts out into Lake Superior from the southern shore a distance of fifty miles. Sawtooth Reef, off Keweenaw Point a mile, and throwing its cruel points up from a hundred fathoms of water to within twenty feet of the surface, has caught and held many ships that have lost their course in thick fogs on dark nights or have gone ashore because of deviations of the compass. The steamer George S. Baker of the Steel Trust fleet, which was picked up by Sawtooth Reef during a dense fog recently, went on the rocks because of the compass "running away." The same was true in the case of the Moreland, which was destroyed on Sawtooth Reef three years ago, although the Moreland went on the rocks during a clear, cloudless, and fogless night, according to residents of Eagle River, who sat on the porches of their homes and watched the big ship swing in onto the reef. Whether it is the jettisoned cargoes of iron ore that cause this deviation of the compass cannot be said.

From the ill-fated Moreland, which was just off Eagle River on her maiden trip, nearly 12,000 tons of ore were jettisoned. A cargo of 10,500 tons was thrown overboard from the holds of the George S. Baker. A half-dozen other ships which have stranded along the Keweenaw west and north shore have contributed large cargoes. The steamer Waldo gave 8,000 tons of ore toward this "under the lake" mine at Gull Rock, ten miles off the point. A score of wooden ships which have gone down around the point in twenty years or so have lost their cargoes there. It is estimated that lying loose in the waters of Superior about the shores of Keweenaw are from 100,000 to 150,000 tons of perfectly good iron ore, all to be had for the taking. The copper peninsula is rusted, along its shores, from the wastings of the jettisoned cargoes of iron ore.

ONE MAN'S LIFE OUTLAYS

Frenchman Spent $10,200 on Cigars, and $5,520 For Drinks

What the average man spends, during his lifetime, on little luxuries and trivial necessities, may seem to him but a matter of small moment. As Canadians, we have been trained to spend judiciously, nevertheless if we were to realize the colossal figures into which our little expenditures run during the course of our respective lives, we might be appalled.

An eccentric personage has just died in a town in the west of France at the age of 77. When he was 18 years of age he began to keep a book of personal expenses. For fifty-two years he jotted down every item.

During this period he smoked 628,713 cigars. Of this number 43,692 were presented to him by friends. For the remaining 581,021 he spent the sum of $10,200.

He had bought $6 pairs of trousers, which cost him $460; 75 jackets and waistcoats, for $330, and 63 pairs of shoes, for $230. He used 300 shirts and 354 collars, for which he paid $265. His omnibus and train fares came to $260. In fifteen years he drank 23,875 bottles and 40,303 small glasses of liqueur, and spent on them $5,520, plus $1,245 in tips.

The Champion Cigar Smoker

What is believed to be a world record has just been set up at a congress of South German smokers, held at Frankfurt.

A special trophy, consisting of a silver eagle on a red and white ribbon, was offered to the smoker who took the longest time to turn a Mexican cigar into grey-white ash without letting it once go out. The competition began at eleven o'clock, and very nearly 200 people contested for the award. By twelve o'clock only twenty competitors were in the running—the rest had regretfully finished their "weeds" or had laid them at rest in the ash-tray for too long.

The rivals dropped out rapidly, and by one o'clock only one smoker was left—Herr Henz, a Sachsenhausen business man, who actually puffed away in peace until he perforce had to throw his diminutive cigar stump away. Two hours forty-six minutes and seventeen seconds after he had set light to it, Herr Henz was therefore proclaimed smoker laureate.
