A Word With Subscribers

It is a popular misconception that in times of War a newspaper makes money. As a matter of fact, any newspaper which tries to do its duty by its subscribers, loses money during war time. This is true of The Daily and Semi-Weekly Mail. Both of these papers, in spite of their tremendous increase in circulation, are not making any profit out of the war. This being the case, we have to ask our subscribers who are in arrears to be good enough to REMIT. If we are properly doing our duty toward you as a subscriber, we have to ask that you will carry out your duty to us by remitting promptly any amount that may be owing to us.

If you want to help us make our paper better, send us your subscription in advance. We assure you that we will spend it in improving our news service.

Accounts are now being sent out, and we will be very much indebted to you if you will give the same your prompt attention.

WOMAN'S BEST MEDICINE

Mrs. Kelly Advises all Women to Take "Fruit-a-Tives"

HAGERSVILLE, ONT., AUG. 26th, 1913.
"I can highly recommend 'Fruit-a-Tives' because they did me an awful lot of good and I cannot speak too highly about them. About four years ago, I commenced taking 'Fruit-a-Tives' for a general break-down and they did me a world of good. We bought a good many dollars' worth, but it was money well spent because they did all that you claim for them. Their action is so pleasant, compared with other laxatives, that I found only pleasure, as well as health, in taking them. They seemed to me to be particularly suited to women, on account of their mild and gentle action, and I trust that some other women may start taking 'Fruit-a-Tives' after reading my letter, and if they do, I am satisfied the results will be the same as in my own case."

"WE ARE TOO RICH" SAYS MR. EDISON

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 2.—"The trouble with us is that we are too rich; too many of us have so much money we wouldn't know what to do with more if we had it. That's why we haven't more readily grasped the opportunities offered us through the European war." This was the opinion expressed here by Thomas A. Edison.

The inventor arrived in Cleveland Thursday by boat from Detroit. Mrs. Edison was with him. They drove from New York to Detroit and left in their automobile Thursday for their home in East Orange, N. J.

"The world is now witnessing a titanic struggle that will result in the final suppression of militarism and the realization of universal peace," was Mr. Edison's comment on the war.

"I am working on a storage battery for submarines for the United States government," he continued. "This country is becoming intensely interested in submarines and the government is planning to have a fleet of the best on earth. The government feels that a better fleet will be a good insurance policy against war. Europe will be completely exhausted after this great war and will not be able to inflict much damage on us for thirty years at least."

(Formerly Watson)

Boston Record says: The N.Y. Sun makes a sapient and timely observation concerning the excessive talk about "culture" and "kultur" in the war. Says the Sun, in speaking of Randolph S. Bourne's Atlantic Monthly article on "Our Cultural Humility":

A person who is enthusiastic, poetic or radiant about his "culture" hasn't got it. "Culture" is not puffed up, doesn't admire itself.

In other words, all this talk about superior "culture" in relation to the war, is humbug. This war is not being fought for or by culture, but in spite of it. Culture never yet was shot from a 42-centimeter gun or painted with the blood of men and the misery of women.

It is certainly not good business for the Federal Government to be hiring buildings in St. John and elsewhere for the accommodation of volunteers, while the barracks in this city are allowed to go unoccupied.

BELFURT AND BRUGES LIKE DEAD CITIES

@Chicago, Nov. 2.—The Daily News correspondent who succeeded in passing through the lines to Belfort sends the following from Basle on France: "It may be said without exaggeration that in these days even to enter Belfort the great sultry fortress of the Vosges is no small feat."

"When I finally stepped out on the platform of my destination with a party of others I found myself between files of soldiers with fixed bayonets, leaving but one possible exit. We were led to a captain's office and each was subjected to a minute inquisition. I obtained permission to walk across the town accompanied by a policeman. Distant bugles sounded ceaselessly. We passed near the great durable balloon sheds, which the German newspapers have reported as having been destroyed by aeroplanes. Nothing could be further from the truth."

"We travelled through dead streets with all the house shutters closed. Whole districts seemed deserted and we scarcely met a soul. In other quarters the pavement resounded with the tread of soldiers in heavy boots. Carts of forage passed us."

"The defensive works around the town are being continually strengthened. Returning toward the station I saw soldiers digging trenches, and I had seen others doubtless pursuing a similar task, on all the heights surrounding the fortress, where dark lines of troops came and went, silhouetted against the pale sky. Here and there fires glowed and smoke arose."

ON THE BELGIAN FRONTIER

Nov. 2.—The wife of a very well known English officer has just made an adventurous tour about behind the German lines in the disguise of a Flemish peasant woman. She stained her face with a strong infusion of coffee and carried a market basket.

@This woman describes Bruges as a city of supreme sadness, gloom, desolation and pain. Wounded Germans are everywhere wandering aimlessly through the streets and are apparently uncared for. Motor cars, vans and all manner of vehicles are used to hurry the wounded out of town.

The hospital organization this woman says, seems to be at sixes and sevens. Large numbers of the less Success comes to the man who does not fail failure.

Indigestion of the conscience is usually due to stolen sweets.

severe cases are left to take care of themselves.

The revelry that has marked the conduct of German soldiers in other towns is totally absent in Bruges. Soldiers are moving in and out in a constant procession. They all look serious, tired and harassed as though some dark fate was hanging over them. They are constantly looking behind them. There is no hilarious foregather at the cafes, no drinking, no uncouthness. Everything is strangely almost uncannily quiet.

"I saw strings of barges moving out," said the official's wife. "They are filled with marines, guns and ammunition. The men were all splendidly fit and well trained and the retreat, for such undoubtedly it was, was performed unobtrusively and rapidly."
