PARALYSIS COMPLETELY CURED

"Fruit-atives" Performs Another Miracle

BRISTOL, N. B., July 25th, 1911
"I had a stroke of Paralysis in March 1910, and this left me unable to walk or help myself, and the Constipation of the Bowels was terrible.

Nothing did me any good and I was wretched in every way.

I then took "Fruit-atives" for the Constipation and it not only cured me of this terrible trouble, but gradually this fruit medicine toned up the nerves and actually cured the Paralysis.

By the use of "Fruit-atives", I grew stronger and stronger until all the Paralysis and weakness left me.

I am now well again and attend my store every day. I say "Thank God for Fruit-atives"

ALVA PHILLIPS.

"Fruit-atives" not only cured the terrible Constipation, but so toned up the nervous system and the general health as to completely overcome the palsy.

Truly "Fruit-atives" is a wonderful medicine.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-atives Limited, Ottawa.

GORGEOUS PARADE OF ELKS

Portland, Ore., July 11—The big events in connection with Elks' reunion week ended today with the annual parade, which was the most gorgeous pageant of the kind Portland has ever witnessed. Thousands of marchers, the most of them in magnificent costumes, were grouped into a dozen divisions and each division was headed by a band. The line of march extended over four miles of the principal thoroughfares. The entire route was handsomely decorated both sides of Willamette river, crowded. Thousands of spectators viewed the pageant.

The first division consisted of a police escort, officers and members of the Grand Lodge in decorated automobiles and the Portland lodge acting as escort of honor. Following this division New York Lodge No. 1, the parent organization of the order, held the place of honor, with Philadelphia, San Francisco, Chicago, Cincinnati and other following in the order in which their charters were granted.

WHAT WOULD I DO IN THE SAME CASE

In an editorial founded on the Titanic disaster, F. P. Dunne writes as follows in the July American Magazine:

"Probably the first thought of every reasonable man in reading the dreary details of the disaster to the Titanic was: What would I have done in the same circumstances? Probably his second bore the hope in all humility that if such circumstances should arise for him he would behave without too much of the awkwardness of panic. Only a fool would hazard a prediction of his conduct in the face of a peril so unexpected and attended by the errors of midnight and the sea. It is no discredit to the human race to say that cowardice is a gift from the devil which has been impartially distributed among mankind.

"Every man who thinks at all is afraid of death. He may be more afraid of something else, of loss of honor, health or money, of going to a dentist or like the man in Pickwick, of life without buttered muffins but he chooses death only as a bad alternative for a worse. If he is not afraid of one thing you may be sure he is afraid of another. A man will go up to the clouds in a balloon who wouldn't go down into twenty feet of water in a submarine. A steeplejack may be afraid of dogs and a lion tamer of riding in an elevator. We know a man who has made a great reputation for coolness under fire in battle who gibbers with fear whenever he has the stomach ache. One man fears fire, another burglars, another railway trains another measles.

"Conduct in an emergency depends on many things besides those abstract qualities known as cowardice and courage. A man is apt to act calmly when his surroundings at the time the peril presents itself are customary and familiar, when his nerves happen to be sound if when he has time to meditate on his action and weighs carefully its consequences.

"It is well known that men are orderly in a panic when they have a set task to perform. We once asked a fireman who had borne himself with great valor in danger if he was h't afraid. I didn't have time, he said I was busy getting the people out. Captain Smith of the Titanic was in the same case. By had his absorbing work to do and it gave him no leisure to think of his fate. So we have seen old men whose death was almost as imminent as his, apparently continue heedless of it till the end through their interest in the affairs of the world.

Again a man may be persuaded to shame or glory as the case may be by the example of his neighbor. One person afflicted by blinding fear may turn a hundred men into a panic stricken mob or he may convert them into a throng of heroes through his conduct. And one man who has established his moral equilibrium quickly can instantly convey fortitude to the others. Courage and cowardice both like company."
