WASHINGTON MARKET'S CENTENNIAL

New York, Oct. 8.—Old Washington Market, one of the few landmarks left standing in lower Manhattan, brushed up a bit today and doctored itself out in flags and bunting in celebration of its one hundredth birthday. With Essex market a thing of the past and the doom of Fulton market already sealed, Washington market is left practically alone as the sole survivor of the numerous public market places that formerly were conspicuous in lower New York. Fifty years ago the thrifty housewives living about Washington Square and on old Greenwich Village descended daily on the market to bargain with the Staten Island and Jersey truck farmers for their supply of provisions. But the market long ago lost its old character. The stalls are now occupied by commission dealers instead of farmers, while the buyers for the hotels, restaurants and steamships are much more numerous among the patrons of the market than are housewives.

ALABAMA GOOD ROADS CONVENTION

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 8.—The crusade for improved highways in this section of the South is likely to receive a renewed impetus as a result of the sixteenth annual convention of the Alabama Good Roads Association. Delegates from nearly every county of the State filled the city hall armory this morning when President John Craft called the gathering to order. W. W. Findley, president of the Southern Railway, delivered the leading address of the day. The subsequent sessions, which will continue over tomorrow and Thursday, will be addressed by United States Senator Barkhead and other men of prominence.

MAKING BETTER MEN

(From The Christian Guardian.)
 We should always remember that it is quite possible to improve the conditions and outward surroundings of life without in any marked way improving life itself. The man who has come up from a three-roomed cottage to live in a hundred thousand dollar mansion may be a better man or a worse man than he was; the house he lives in will never help us to decide the question of his morality or of his real worth. Clean streets and improved social conditions are good, and we must strive for them with persistent determination, but if in getting them we do not at the same time improve the quality of life that is lived in the midst of them we will not be making any progress that is worth while.

CANADIAN CHARITIES CONFERENCE

Montreal, Oct. 9.—The Canadian Conference of Charities and Correction, which had its opening here today in connection with the Child Welfare Exhibition, has attracted to Montreal many men and women who have made a scientific study of means and methods of alleviating suffering among the poor and stamping out poverty and its entailed evils. The United States as well as Canada is represented on the list of speakers. The discussions of the conference, which will continue over several days, will be conducted under the general heads of public charities, children delinquency, the mental defectives, families and neighborhoods, the delinquent, public health and housing, sickness and dependency, and recreation and education.

Queen Mary of England was much impressed by the London production of "Every woman," and as a result, it is said, Arthur Collins, managing director of Drury Lane Theatre, will be knighted on the King's next birthday.

CANADIAN YOUTH EXPELED FROM SCHOOL

New York, Oct. 8.—When the exercises at the Cedar Grove, N. J., Public High School, opened yesterday morning, Leofric Temple, the seventeen year old son of Frederick L. Temple, who is an auditor in New York was not present. The school board of the village had taken action in regard to the boy's refusal to reconsider, acting under his father's orders he was expelled. One of the members of the Board of Education said last night:—"This Temple boy has caused us trouble before. About a year ago, he publicly insulted the flag and he was asked to apologize, which he did, now we cannot have exceptions of this sort in the school, which, after all, is a government institution. If he is not an American he should go to a private school and pay for his tuition or go back to Canada, or England. But if we made an exception in his favor I suppose that any anarchist might refuse to salute the flag. He can be reinstated if he reconsiders his decision, otherwise he is expelled."

Young Temple precipitated the trouble by putting his hands in his pockets last Monday morning, when the other pupils saluted the flag and repeated a formula pledging allegiance to it.

Principal Hutchinson asked him why he did it. "I am acting under instructions of my father," answered the boy, "He told me under no circumstances to pledge allegiance to the American flag, and I propose to obey him." Mr. Frederick L. Temple, was formerly a lieutenant in the 5th Canadian Artillery of St. John, N. B.

EARNING MONEY AT HOME

A girl or woman who is forced by circumstances to do the family cooking, perhaps never thinks that from this homely but very useful art she can make some few extra dollars during the winter.

Often a girl placed in this position envies her more busy sister who starts off to her work early in the morning, returning home at night to a well-cooked meal prepared by the little sister, who must needs stay at home to look after the wants of her household. In every family there is nearly always to be found a "Martha."

The woman forced to take up this homely and to her, worthless work, from a money standpoint, need not feel discouraged. Some day she will probably make some man happy and contented by his own fireside, but until then why not use this gift in making extra dollars?

"Make money in my cooking? Impossible!" one hears little Miss Stay-at-Home exclaim. Well, why not? How about all the girls who don't know how to cook; could they not be taught, and by whom except by the girl or woman who is full mistress of the art of cooking, not so much from theory as from her own practical use?

Many mothers with growing daughters would be delighted to send their children to the house of a girl of refinement and have them instructed in the art of practical cooking, not fancy dishes alone, but to learn how to buy as well as how to cook three meals—and real meals.

If "Martha" then would send out cards, saying that she would be glad to form classes this winter for cooking lessons there is but little doubt that she would soon receive encouraging letters from many mothers to enlist their children in this private cooking school.

NOTED BLIND EDUCATOR

London, Oct. 9.—Sir Francis J. Campbell, the noted blind educator and scholar for more than forty years has been at the head of the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind, celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary today

SCARCITY OF WORK FOR MISSION FUNDS

Brantford, Oct. 8.—There was an electric moment in this morning's session of Methodist Board of Missions, when the Rev. Dr. George J. Bond of Halifax, presented a resolution emanating from the foreign mission committee that was to go forth as an appeal to the church relative to the inadequacy of the income to meet the present situation. "The board," read the resolution, "cannot exceed its work either at home or abroad. Its operations is both China and Japan are hampered, and sorely against its will, it has been compelled to decide that not a single additional man can be sent to either of these strategic centres during the year."

The resolution spoke of the worlds retrenchment and retreat as unworthy of the church and made a ringing appeal for greater concentration and liberality. The board gave hearty approval to the proposition for the appointment of three new mission superintendents, one for Alberta, one for Saskatchewan and one for the Northern Ontario and Quebec districts.

It also appointed the Rev. Dr. Fenwick as superintendent of missions for Newfoundland. The resignation of the Rev. Thomas Marshall, superintendent of missions in the Maritime Provinces was accepted and his successor will be appointed at once.

In view of the many years that Sir Francis has given to the Royal Normal College it is not surprising that even among those immediately associated with him the fact has been almost forgotten that he is a native of the United States and had established his reputation as an educator of the blind at the famous Perkins Institution in Boston before he came to England in 1870.
