CITY TEACHERS

paid for like service in this city. The petition also set forth the disadvantages of Fredericton teachers as compared with stenographers in regard to salary. Some of the latter receive double the amount paid to most lady teachers. A teacher has to prepare for her work by careful study and a course of training in the Normal School. The increased cost of living and the lure of the west were features calculated to attract attention just now and to prove the need of more money than was supposed to suffice twenty years ago. In addition to comparative statements submitted the delegation submitted a petition of more than one hundred of the heaviest ratepayers asking the trustees to grant the request of the teachers.

General conversation followed and after the chairman assured the delegates that the petition would receive careful consideration, they withdrew. Subsequently the trustees decided to take up the question at a special meeting shortly to be held in connection with consideration of plans for new school buildings.

CLEANING OF BUILDINGS.

In his report the secretary referred to several matters engaging his attention during vacation. In order to banish even the appearance of germs all the buildings are being thoroughly cleaned, the floors and desks scrubbed and necessary repairs are being made at the different buildings.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Mrs. Clark, Mr. Sharkey and Mr. Spurdun were appointed a committee to look into the salary question and Mr. Sterling and Mr. Lemont will audit the accounts of the secretary for 1913.

Mr. Sharkey from the committee reported in reference to repairs made at Morrison's Mills School and Mr. Weddall referred to some improvements made at the High School building.

A big bunch of certified bills were ordered paid and under certain conditions the secretary was authorized to pay them. The action of the secretary in paying the teachers' salaries previous to Christmas was approved.

ALASKAN GOLD DEPOSITS ARE RICH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—The geology and mineral resources of a part of the Yukon-Tanana region, in Alaska, including the gold placers of Rampart and Hot Springs, are described in a report made public today by the United States Geological Survey.

Placer gold was discovered in the Rampart district probably as early as 1895, and since 1896 systematic mining has been carried on the first claim worked being on Little Minook Creek.

Later, as the area being prospected increased, placers were located and mines developed on the tributaries of Baker Creek, and still later on Sullivan Creek and neighboring streams tributary to Patterson Creek.

Prospecting on the tributaries of the Yukon and Tanana west of the productive areas has revealed the presence of gold in a number of localities. Although much ground is held on some of these streams, especially in the Gold Hill district, the presence of gold in commercial quantities has not been demonstrated. In the Gold Hill district this may be due in great part to the fact that very little besides annual assessment work is being done and that what is done largely futile.

The scene of greatest activity in the Rampart and Hot Springs districts has shifted to the south as successive discoveries have been made. The Rampart district yielded its greatest output in 1906 and 1907. The placers along the north margin of Baker Flats reached their maximum production about the same time, but have not fallen off so rapidly as the Rampart district. The Patterson Creek locality has steadily increased its production since the operations were begun, the season of 1911 recording the largest output in its history.

sidy. The amount received from this source was $34,509.93, out of which there was expended $25,777.82, leaving a balance of $8,732.11 still on hand. The farmers will no doubt appreciate the economy practised at their expense.

Lack of space will not permit a further review of the financial transactions of the economical Flemming government but the matter will be dealt with in a future article.
