

HIS HEALTH IN A TERRIBLE STATE

"Fruit-a-tives" Healed His Kidneys and Cured Him

HAGERSVILLE, ONT., AUG. 26th 1913.

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My kidneys were not doing their work and I was all run down in condition. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen 'Fruit-a-tives' advertised, I decided to try them. Their effect, I found more than satisfactory.

Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected.

My kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes, and I regained my old-time vitality. Today, I am enjoying the best health I have ever had."

SIR WILFRID LAURIER DISCUSSES CABINET CHANGES

Tells of Flexible and Elastic Logic of Conservative Politics--Has Minister Blondin Filled up the Holes in the Union Jack?

Ottawa, Feb. 17--For one solitary hour, in parliament today, the white light of publicity was turned upon personality in public life. There was a crumpling of clay, fact Minister of the crown are very ordinary folk, after all, and find it burdensome work to maintain the attitude of real 'bigness' when the little things about them are put under the searchlight.

Even so unusually urbane and weighty a parliamentarian as the minister of justice lost his temper, and had to be called to order by the speaker for unparliamentary allegations, and was under the necessity of explaining to the house that he had retired from the bench in perfect good health, secured his pension had drawn it regularly, and was at present drawing it from the public funds, in addition to his stipend as minister of the crown and his salary as member of parliament. Hard times and war times do not make any difference to these benefactions.

Appeals and letters were produced by Hon. Mr. Lemieux to show that an effort was being made "to must" poor post office clerks and letter carriers who are struggling in these days to make ends meet, in order to raise a presentation fund for ex-Postmaster-General Pelletier, who was described "as a very rich man, worth hundreds of thousands."

The premier, himself, dealt promptly and vigorously with this business. "The government has nothing to do with it," said Sir Robert Borden, emphatically, "and employees of the post office department are at liberty to disregard those appeals absolutely, and such disregard will have not the slightest effect in the world upon their status."

BORDEN "EXPLAINS" CABINET CHANGES.

At the opening of the sitting Premier Borden rose to give the house an explanation of the changes he had made in his cabinet since the last parliamentary session. He criticized ex-Postmaster-General Pelletier as a man "of exceptional ability and vigor," and stated that his retirement from the cabinet was due to ill-health. His successor, Hon. Mr. Casgrain, had had long and valuable experience in public life. Hon. Mr. Nantel had been appointed to the railway board in succession to Hon. Mr. Bernier, another former minister, and he was succeeded by Hon. Mr. Blondin, who, as deputy-speaker, had "displayed often under very difficult circumstances great ability, discretion and good judgment."

LAURIER'S HARD JABS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier roused the whole house to roars of laughter and cheering by his picturesque railleury of the personnel of the administration. He characterized the premier's explanation as "not even copious in words, and anemic in substance." He took no exception to the description of Mr. Pelletier as a man of ability and vigor. His ability had been manifest in his various spheres of activity, and his vigor, especially in the time of dismissals, was not disputed. (Laughter.)

In 1911 he had campaigned on the policy of "no Canadian participation in any war of Britain and the abolition of the naval act, unless approved by a plebiscite." He had promised to secure these conditions, or "something better." When he failed to redeem his pledges to his electors he had justification for resigning. But parliament was told he did not resign upon conviction. He remained owing to ill-health. He was too ill to remain a minister of the crown--so he became a judge of the supreme court of Quebec.

"So," commented Sir Wilfrid, amid laughter, "we have the minister of justice unable to serve as a judge, and Mr. Pelletier unable to serve as a minister but able to serve as a judge. Such is the flexible and elastic logic of Conservative politics."

BLONDIN'S "CONVERSION"

The Liberal leader did not propose to say anything "concerning Mr. Nantel's removal" but he would ask the opportunity of making a suggestion to his successor. It struck him as incongruous that Mr. Blondin, the arch-Nationalist, should be introduced by Sir George Foster, the arch-Imperialist. "Ah," exclaimed Sir Wilfrid, "when I saw the new minister entering the chamber leaning on the arm of the minister of trade and commerce, and noted that the walk of the latter showed a little limp, I realized that he had a heavy load to carry. (Laughter) still go up stairs and see how one sinner. When the minister of trade and commerce announced that his new colleague had taken the oath and signed the roll, I hoped he would go further and say he had also filled the holes in the Union Jack which he, one time said must be shot to breathe the air of liberty. (Cheers and laughter) in which Sir George Foster joined heartily). "Now," continued Sir Wilfrid, "he breathes the atmosphere of office, holes or no holes in the flag. (Renewed laughter.)

HEADACHY, COSTIVE, BILIOUS,--"CASCARETS"

To-night! Clean Your Stomach Your Bowels and End Headaches, Colds and Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness coated tongue, sour taste and foul breath--always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels, or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed in the blood. When the poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and koi sons in the bowels. A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep--a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

THE LION LED

heart-breaking. "We were on the port side of our battle-cruisers," continued my informant, "while the German destroyers were on the starboard side of theirs. We were mad to get at them, but if we had crossed over to their side we should have lost a good deal of distance, and obviously we could not have made a short cut towards them under the fire of their cruisers."

THE LION'S GREAT GUNNERY

A Zeppelin seems to have conducted herself with the gallantry of all the Zeppelin exploits of this war for towards the end of the battle she came from Heligoland, but changed her mind and flew back quickly. "She came for us--or pretended to do," said a bluejacket, "but she took care not to come too near!"

Our gunnery was excellent from star to finish. "Of all the shells the four cruisers sent against the Lion," said a prominent naval man, "not more than half a dozen got near her, and only two or three of those hit her."

"The Lion, firing her bow guns registered more hits than the whole of the enemy's squadron put together. We saw enough of the damaged cruisers to note that they were in a bad way. Another five miles run and they would have fallen out of line and been sunk."

"I would say that when they got into port their casualties in dead and wounded must have been dreadful."
