Was Troubled With Eczema.

Would Nearly Yell With Pain.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS CURED HIM.

Mr. R. J. Swales, Harriston, Ont., writes: "I have been a great sufferer with eczema. I tried all kinds of salves, but they did me no good. Sometimes I would nearly yell with the pain, and would pass little white worms. I was told to get at the blood, so I used four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it has made a complete cure."

All skin diseases such as eczema or salt rheum, itching or burning rashes, boils, pimples, eruptions, ulcers, etc., are all caused by the blood becoming impoverished, and while not usually attended with any fatal results, may sooner or later develop into some serious blood trouble, and the entire system become affected.

Burdock Blood Bitters will cleanse the blood of all its impurities and by this means cure all skin and blood troubles.

This valuable preparation has been on the market for the last forty years, so you do not make any experiment when you give it a trial.

"SISTER SUSIES" SEWING SANDBAGS

London, June 2—What is needed most to end the war quickly?

"Men, more men and still more men!" said Lord Kitchener.

"Munitions, munitions and more munitions!" said Field Marshal Sir John French.

"Sandbags, sandbags and more sandbags!" says Lieut. Col. J. A. Tyler of the Royal Field Artillery.

In an appeal to the "Sister Susies" who have been sewing shirts and knitting socks, muffs and body belts for soldiers, Col. Tyler not only emphasizes the fact that sandbags are quite as important as munitions in this war, but now that the weather has begun to moderate are far more useful than muffs and such in the trenches.

"We need hundreds of millions of sandbags," he says. "The number required for a single battery for the protection of guns, officers and men, runs into the tens of thousand. A mile of trenches requires something like one hundred thousand and for each little post, observation station, or shelter of any kind behind the trenches so many more are needed. Then every house, barn or other locality occupied in the area in which shells fall, for a distance of two or three miles behind the trenches ought to have its own dug-out for use when necessary, into the making of which the sandbag enters. Furthermore, when we advance we have not time to empty our sandbags and carry them on. We require fresh ones."

O'LEARY DOING HIS BIT

London, June 1—"I have seen by today's papers that I have been killed in action. No, I am still in the firing line doing my bit for King and country. I trust God is not going to call me so soon until I have done a bit more for my country. I came out of the last battle with only a few scratches, thank God."

So writes Sergt. O'Leary, V.C., in a letter dated May 29. His parents have been overwhelmed with inquiries. They received the above letter last night.

MILES INSTANT DEATH WHILE MOTORING

Ingersoll, June 2—When the automobile he was driving went over a steep embankment on the Putnam road, a short distance west of here, recently, Elbert G. Howey of Otterville, formerly of London, was instantly killed, and Charles Forman, a companion, who jumped, had a miraculous escape. Mr. Howey's neck was broken and his death is supposed to have been instantaneous. The automobile was badly damaged.

Mr. Howey and Mr. Forman were on their way to London from Otterville. They passed through here at nine-thirty o'clock and the accident occurred a few minutes later. Forced to swerve the car suddenly to the side of the road, when a young man who was riding a bicycle fell in front of him, it crashed into a board fence erected as a means of protection at the side of the embankment. A portion of the fence gave way and the car toppled over. Mr. Forman jumped but Mr. Forman retained his hold on the steering wheel. The car went over sideways and it is supposed that Mr. Howey was killed when it made its first turn. He was picked up at fifteen feet from the top of the embankment and a considerable distance from the badly damaged car. Mr. Forman escaped with a slight injury to his leg.
