Don't Starve Your Hair

Many a Head of Hair, Apparently Healthy, is Slowly Starving to Death

Hair must have sulphur or die.

When the blood fails to supply sulphur in sufficient quantities, the hair loses its color, dies and falls out.

When this condition begins, do not delay. In order to live, the hair must have sulphur, and the only combination containing sulphur that the hair roots will absorb is

It is the finest Hair Dressing made, and keeps the hair soft, glossy and beautiful. It removes dandruff, stops the hair from coming out, and promotes hair growth.

AN AMERICAN TOURIST PRAISES ST. JOHN VALLEY

Editor of Daily Mail:

Dear Sir:—I will date my letter from this delightful little Canadian city of a little less than 8,000 inhabitants, although I have been stopping several miles nearer the United States line at a parish or town as we would call it, known as Kingsclear on the St. John River and 100 miles from St. John and the sea by boat and about fifteen miles nearer by rail.

I am about to say a word for this beautiful country that needs only enlarged markets to make it "flow with milk and honey" or thrift and money, this I will speak of farther on.

The St. John Valley starts in at St. John, which is about 350 miles northeast of Boston. It lays on each side of the river to its source in Aroostook Co., Maine, 450 miles from the sea. Its headwaters are within 100 miles of the Kennebec, Androscoggin, Saco and other noted Maine streams. The Saco starts just over the line in New Hampshire and enters the sea near Biddeford. The first half of the St. John River is not very eventful only as it flows through a rough wooded country. Perhaps the first great natural object is the Grand Falls, 225 miles from the sea, where the river passes through a wild and perpendicular gorge with a drop of 74 feet. This gorge or channel is about 150 feet wide, as a record of dry years compared with the present. In 1870 a great drought reduced this mighty stream to 10 feet wide in places at these falls as testified to by a creditable eye-witness, now living.

More than 100,000,000 feet of logs pass through this narrow pass, down to the big mills at St. John, during the annual spring drive.

The river is exceedingly crooked or curved and passes through an almost continuous chain of islands the last hundred miles to the sea and misleading waterways as large as a river, one of these is named the "Mistake" it has so often misled the navigator up the main channel as he thought.

The river varies in width from one fourth of a mile to more than two miles and the first 100 miles averages half a mile, being nearly a mile at Fredericton. This city was once the home of Benedict Arnold, the noted Revolutionary general who went over to the British side after his somewhat unjust criticism, by his superior officers and being made jealous by credit given to others due him.

The most noted object of interest along the river is the "Reversible Falls" so called at the junction of the river with the sea or the Bay of Fundy. The tide here is some thirty-six feet. At some forty miles above at Moncton, on the Petitcodiac, it sometimes reaches seventy feet here, it rolls in, in a high vast wave called a "Bore" often fifteen feet high and so swift cattle and sheep are overwhelmed and drowned. The falls of which I now speak (There is only one similar in the world so far as known,) and are made possible by thirty-six feet of tide and a low ridge of limestone rocks, crossing near the mouth these rocks rising some fifteen feet higher than at dead low sea level, so that at low tide this vast body of water plunges down over these rocks in a maddening foam. In a few hours the tide rises and reaches a perfect level and smooth surface for a few minutes when vessels drawing not more than ten feet pass through but the mighty tide keeps on rising and in a few hours has reached a height of more than fifteen feet above a natural low river level and a mighty body of water is falling into the river and pressing back the great body of fresh water to Fredericton, eighty-five miles by water where it is often two feet tide.

This whole valley is supposed at one time to have been one vast grand lake and has emptied out through the Kennebecasis River into Courtney Bay Three miles south of its present outlet but by some convulsion of nature broke through the soft limestone ridge into the sea its present mouth, and then this great valley was drained or very considerably for there are many lakes and arms of water reaching out and the river took the lowest level to the ocean.

A great and very interesting history could be written of the making of the St. John Valley as it now is, for, under its splendid intervals at Sheffield and Mauderville may be found, large logs 10 feet or more in length, underground of river deposit and now comparatively sound after hundreds of years—silent historians of the evolution of the valley.

Now a word about the people of the valley and New Brunswick in general. The people are not as wealthy or progressive as in the United States, there are but three cities or markets for their farm products and not a tenth can be taken of what could be raised at a paying price to the farmer. Let me quote a few figures: hay, the now principal factor for profit is worth $10 baled and $8 loose, but they cannot find a market for it in the United States want it. Deserted farms are seen all through this splendid agricultural district. The boys look the situation over, judge of their success by their fathers and hear the call of the great Northwest or see Uncle Sam shyly beckoning them over the fence—and so it goes on. The great need is reciprocity. The progressive wide-awake people know it and the Tory party knows it too, but they must have an issue and many believe it a good thing but out of sentiment went against it.

In closing I wish to say there is no prettier country to pass a short vacation in than the St. John Valley. Transportation is easy and very reasonable, the people social and hospitality their leading feature. The scenery of the river is not surpassed by the Hudson.

Indians in their native villages can frequently be seen living much the same as a century ago—making baskets, bead work and bark canoes.

Deer, moose and wild ducks are plentiful and occasionally a bear is seen. Salmon live in the river and are caught in great quantities, also sturgeon frequently weighing 400 pounds.

I hope more American travellers will be drawn to this delightful valley for a most desirable vacation.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Urlic Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have—a gift from me to the Urlic Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it is fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some or it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for use. Look the symptoms over and check the ones you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr. I notice symptoms number—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, St. Franklin Building, Toronto, Can."

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

Mrs. Eke—I'm afraid, dear the clock's run down again.

"I think she will make a fine wife. I have been calling on her for several months, now, and nearly always find her darning one of her father's socks."

"That caught me, too, until I found out that it was the same sock."—Kansas City Journal.

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate, it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure, not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.
