 SYNOPSIS.
 Book I.
 CHAPTER I—Rudolph Van Vechten, a young man of leisure, is astonished to see a man enter No. 1313, a house across the street from the Powhatan club. The house has long been unoccupied and is spoken of as the House of Mystery.

CHAPTER II—Several persons at regular intervals enter No. 1313.
 CHAPTER III—Van Vechten expresses concern to his friend, Tom Phinney, regarding the whereabouts of his cousin and fiancée, Paige Carew. A fashionably attired woman is seen to enter the House of Mystery. A man is forcibly ejected from the house. Van Vechten and Tom follow the man and find him dead in the street.

CHAPTER IV—Van Vechten is attracted by the face of a girl in the crowd of onlookers surrounding the body. Later he discovers the girl gazing at him with a look of scorn from the windows of the mysterious house.
 CHAPTER V—Detective Flint calls on Van Vechten to get his version of the tragedy.

CHAPTER VI—Tom Phinney goes alone on a yachting trip. He recognizes among some persons in a passing motor boat two men whom he had seen enter the House of Mystery. He sees one of them, a Mr. Callis, on shore later and follows him. Tom is seized, blindfolded and taken to a house. He hears a girl named Jessie, evidently the girl gazing at him with authority, question his captors. A sweet-voiced girl later protests against the roughness of his captors.

"I don't know a d— thing about it," Tom shouted, beating the air with his hands. "I saw a lot of fellows going into the house, and a woman— Confound you chaps! Why can't you let a fellow alone when he wants to think by himself!"
 "A woman!" he was quickly taken up by both. "Who was she?"
 But Tom relapsed into an obstinate silence. He was angry and morose, and his two friends left him in a huff, calling him impolite names and giving him for expressing a desire to put his mental processes through an unaccustomed exercise. This made him gloomier still. And when he reflected that, after all, he had mentioned the mysterious woman in the taxi, his depression became acute.

He drove the balls around a deserted table with vicious jabs of his cue, the while he too bewailed the fate that kept him away from the Carterets' yacht. For he could not think of availing himself of this pleasure unless Ruddy were along.
 Tom's income did not permit of his owning yachts or motor-cars; but what he did not know about them was not worth anybody's time trying to find out.

He was thus reminded of a catboat over at Rocky Cove, belonging to a friend who was in Europe, and which he could use whenever he wanted to.
 He threw down his cue, hunted up a time-table, then hastened home to toss a battered but wonderfully comfortable negligee outfit into a bag, and he himself over to Long Island.

As he passed through the loungingroom—it is worth recording—Van Vechten was brooding in his corner, and so did not see him. Tom surveyed him a second or so, then concluding that he had better not break in upon his cogitations, hastened away.

While it was yet daylight, Tom found the sail where it was stored in his friend's boathouse, shipped the single mast and rigged it up, then went up into town after a box of provisions. He meant to cruise around the Sound for a day or two, thus giving Ruddy plenty of time to think, and perhaps learn something definite about his Cousin Paige's movements into the bargain; afterwards they might find time to join the Carterets.
 He was profoundly disgusted that a girl's caprice was depriving him and Ruddy of a jolly good time.

That night, after a couple of pipes, he went to sleep in his little craft's cabin, and before daylight he was astir and taking advantage of a light off-shore breeze. All day he loafed around the lower Sound, enjoying himself immensely and incidentally emptying the provision locker to the last crumb. He viewed this circumstance with a rueful laugh.

"Mosses and green spectacles! And I thought I was laying in supplies for a week's cruise!"
 Then he laughed again—light-heartedly this time—and trimmed about for home.

Dusk was falling when he drifted close in toward Rocky Cove. He was possibly two miles off shore when he heard the muffled exhaust and warning pipe of a motor-boat. And here is where his adventure may be said to have begun.

Glancing back, he made out the craft bearing down upon him under a smother of spray of her own kicking up. She swept by so close to port that, despite the half-light, he was afforded a distinct view of several of the boat's occupants.

There were five men and three women! The latter were half-hidden arrh.

 gateway to consumption.
 Catarrhozone is a germ-killer—destroys microbes that cause Catarrh.
 It heals and soothes, relieves the cough, gives throat and lungs a chance, cleanses the nostrils, clears out the phlegm.

Yog feel better in an hour.

In a day you're greatly relieved, and on goes the curing of Catarrh-zone till you're well.

No treatment so direct. Catarrho-zone goes right to the spot—acts quickly—cures thoroughly—catarrh, bronchitis and all throat affections.

"Nothing could kill a cold so fast as Catarrhozone," writes Amey E.
 Snelling, from St. Johns. "Last month I had a frightful cold in my head, suffered from itching nose, running eyes and torturing headache.
 Ten minutes with 'Catarrhozone' inhalers gave relief and in one hour I was well of my cold. Catarrho-zone I consider a marvel."

Carry "Catarrhozone" inhaler in your pocket or purse—take it to the theatre—to church—to work—use it in bed. It prevents and cures all manner of nose and throat troubles.
