Is 83 Years Old

And Her Heart Does Not Bother Her.

Thanks to MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. J. McLaren, Commanda, Ont., writes us under date of February 9th, 1914. "Sixteen years ago I took bad with my heart and nerves, and was not able to do anything. I tried a good many doctors, but they did me no good; in fact one doctor gave me up to die. I heard about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I thought I would give them a trial, and after using a couple of boxes I saw that I was improving. I kept on using them for quite a long time. I am eighty-three years old and my heart does not bother me at all.

"I am raising a little girl who was never very strong, and the doctor said that she had palpitation of the heart, so I started to give them to her. She is now twelve years old, and they are doing her more good than I can possibly tell you. I would advise anyone who has a weak heart to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as they have done wonders for us."

ENGLAND AGAINST PEACE

Kitchener was making his early fame and he has recently helped in forming a battalion of "navvies", appeared in the House of Commons the other day resplendent in the uniform of a captain. He was more emphatic than the rest.

"The time to talk of peace is when we are in Berlin, not before," he declared.

MUST BE BEATEN.

I then interviewed two members who have lost sons. William Pearce, member for Limehouse, was one.

"I should be glad indeed to help towards peace but I can see no terms at this moment which we could offer Germany which Germany would accept. The Germans will not be ready for peace until they are thoroughly beaten," he said.

Sir Frederick Banbury was the other. A member from the City of London and a Conservative, strongly opposed to the present government and especially to Lloyd George and his finance policy, he declared:

"I think all discussion of peace is premature until we have driven the Germans out of Belgium and France."

A LIBERAL VIEW.

E. G. Thorne, a typical Liberal, from Wolverhampton, who belonged to the peace and economical party before the war, said:

"I hate the war. I have been against the war until now but this is no time to talk of stopping it. I am entirely opposed to a drawn battle. I have sent my son into the trenches and I have not sent him there to obtain a drawn battle. I am perfectly sure the government would not accept such terms and if they did they would have to reckon with the peace men more than with any other group in the House of Commons."

Harry Lawson, the controlling editor of The Daily Telegraph, wrote me:

"To talk of peace at this moment is to play with words and to forget the realities. The Germans are not seeking peace but an armistice which would last as long as the Krupps please. When they use the word 'peace' the Germans mean a peace to cover up their dishonor with actual profit; they mean peace with Antwerp. Such a peace is incredible to men of any English speaking nation."

Finally John Redmond, who is represented in the fighting ranks by his brother and by his son, who is the apple of his eye, for he is the last male representative of the younger generation of the Redmond family, stated emphatically:

"I hope we shall have no peace talk so long as there is a single German soldier left on the soil of Belgium, France, Alsace or Lorraine."

BILLY SUNDAY

gospel of Jesus is always up-to-date in any age where it's preached straight. Many of you fellows can preach the gospel better than I, but you can't preach any better gospel. "Hurrah, you're right!" "Amen" "Hallelujah!"

"Now, I'm going to say something you won't all agree with. You don't do it New York. All the pews here should be free. To charge for 'em isn't scriptural."

A few minutes after he had the preachers cheering for free pews in New York Billy went on strike. He stepped back and took a look at the preachers and his face broke into a smile. He mopped it; then he said, "Whew! I gotta quit."

Judging from the reception the preachers gave Billy Sunday, Dr. Charles A. Eaton of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church expressed their sentiments as well as his own when he said, after the sermon.

"It was great, a real message from God. I'll work, I'll fight. I'll pray until we get that man to New York. We need his kind of preaching. There's nothing like it."

When asked what he thought of Billy as an anti-Darwinian, Dr. Eaton said: "I don't suppose he'd claim to be an authority on that subject. It's a side issue anyway."

THEY HAD CUT HIM DOWN

One day, in the lively old time of cowboy activities, a timid tender foot at Bitter Creek asked trembling if that bad man, Bill Busher was hanging around there yet.

"No," replied the native who was asked. "But he was last week."

"Are you sure?" asked the tender-foot.

"Positive, I had hold of the rope."—Browning's Magazine.

SHREDDED WHEAT

served with hot milk and a little cream. Better than mushy porridges that are bolted down without chewing. You have to chew Shredded Wheat—that's the reason it's so good for the "kiddies." It develops sound teeth, strong muscles and good brain.

Shredded Wheat is made in two forms, BISCUIT and TRISCUIT—the Biscuit for breakfast with milk or cream, or with fruits; Triscuit, the wafer-toast, delicious for luncheon with butter or soft cheese, or for any meal as a substitute for white flour bread.
